Introduction

Welcome to Ready for First, a course which is designed to help you prepare for the Cambridge English: First examination, also known as First Certificate in English (FCE).

This book contains a wide range of activities aimed at improving your English and developing the language and skills which you will need to pass the examination. As well as providing relevant practice in reading, writing, listening and speaking, each unit of Ready for First includes one or more Language focus sections, which revise the main grammar areas, together with Vocabulary slots which will help you to increase your word store.

A significant feature of the Use of English syllabus in the book is the systematic approach to Word formation. At regular intervals you will find special sections which focus on the most important aspects of word building, ensuring that you are properly prepared for this part of the examination. There are also sections, in Units 7, 10 and 13, devoted to the important skill of paraphrasing and recording new yocabulary.

At the end of every unit there is a two-page Review section, which enables you to revise and practise the new language you have encountered in the unit.

Throughout the book you will find the following boxes, which are designed to help you when performing the different tasks:

What to expect in the exam: these contain useful information on what you should be prepared to see, hear or do in a particular task in the examination. How to go about it: these give advice and guidelines on how to deal with different task types and specific questions.

Don't forget!: these provide a reminder of important points to bear in mind when answering a particular question.

Useful language: these contain vocabulary and structures which can be used when doing a specific writing or speaking activity.

Further information and advice on each of the papers in the Cambridge English: First exam is included in the five supplementary 'Ready for ...' units. These are situated at regular intervals in the book and can be used at appropriate moments during the course. The Ready for Writing unit contains model answers for each of the main task types, together with advice, useful language and further writing tasks for you to complete.

At the end of the book you will find detailed explanations of the grammar areas seen in the units in the Grammar reference, together with a topicbased Wordlist and the Listening scripts.

Overview of the Examination

The Cambridge English: First examination consists of four papers, as shown below. The Writing, Listening and Speaking papers each carry 20% of the total marks; the Reading and Use of English paper carries 40% (20% for the Reading tasks and 20% for the Use of English tasks). A low mark in one paper does not necessarily mean a candidate will fail the examination; it is the overall mark which counts.

Reading and Use of English 1 hour 15 minutes

There are seven parts to this paper: Parts 1 to 4 are grammar and vocabulary tasks; Parts 5 to 7 are reading tasks. For the Use of English tasks, each correct answer in Parts 1 to 3 receives one mark; each question in Part 4 carries up to two marks. For the reading tasks, each correct answer in Parts 5 and 6 receives two marks, and there is one mark for each question in Part 7. For more information on this paper, see the Ready for Use of English unit on pages 42 to 45 and the Ready for Reading unit on pages 82 to 87, as well as the relevant sections in the main units of the book.

Part	Task Type	Number of questions	Task Format
1	Multiple-choice cloze	8	A text with 8 gaps; there is a choice of 4 answers for each gap.
2	Open cloze	8	A text with 8 gaps, each of which must be completed with one word.
3	Word Formation	8	A text containing 8 gaps. The task is to complete each gap with the correct form of a given word.
4	Key word transformations	6	Gapped sentences which must be completed using a given word.
5	Multiple Choice	6	A text followed by multiple- choice questions with four options.
6	Gapped Text	6	A text from which sentences have been removed, Candidates replace each of these in the appropriate part of the text.
7	Multiple Matching	10	A text preceded by multiple- matching questions which require candidates to find specific information in a text or texts.

Writing 1 hour 20 minutes

There are two parts to this paper, each of which carries the same number of marks. Part 1 is compulsory, so must be answered by all candidates, whereas in Part 2 candidates choose one from three tasks. You are required to write between 140 and 190 words for each part. For more information and advice on the questions in this paper, see the Ready for Writing unit on pages 192 to 201, as well as the relevant sections in the main units of the book.

Part	Task Type	Number of Tasks	Task Format
1	Essay	1 (compulsory)	Candidates are given an essay title and notes to guide their writing.
2		3 (candidates choose one)	A writing task with a clear context, purpose for writing and target reader. Candidates write one of the following: artide, email/letter, report, review.

Listening about 40 minutes

This paper consists of four parts with a total of 30 questions, each of which carries one mark. Each part contains one or more recorded texts, which are heard twice. Candidates are tested on their ability to understand, for example, opinions, gist, the main points or specific information. For more information on this paper, see the Ready for Listening unit on pages 124 to 127, as well as the relevant sections in the main units of the book.

Part	Task Type	Number of Questions	Task Format
1	Multiple choice	8	Short unrelated extracts of approximately 30 seconds each with one or more speakers, There are 3 options for each question.
2	Sentence completion	10	A monologue lasting approximately 3 minutes. Candidates write a word or short phrase to complete sentences,
3	Multiple Matching	5	Five short monologues, each lasting approximately 30 seconds. The extracts are all related to a common theme. Candidates match extracts with prompts.
4	Multiple choice	7	An interview or conversation between two or more speakers lasting approximately 3 minutes. There are 3 options for each question.

Speaking 14 minutes

There are four parts to this paper. There are usually two candidates and two examiners. Candidates are given marks for range and correct use of grammar and vocabulary, pronunciation, discourse management (the ability to organize language and produce extended responses) and interactive communication. For more information on this paper, see the Ready for Speaking unit on pages 164 to 167, as well as the relevant sections in the main units of the book.

Part	Task Type	Time	Task Format
1	Interview	2 minutes	Candidates give personal information in response to questions from the interviewer.
2	Talking about photographs	4 minutes	Each candidate talks about two pictures for about 1 minute, and comments briefly on the other candidate's pictures.
3	Collaborative Task	4 minutes	Candidates are given instructions with written prompts which they use for discussion. Candidates speak for about 3 minutes in total; the giving of instructions takes about 1 minute.
4	Further discussion	4 minutes	The interviewer leads a discussion which is related to the topic of Part 3.

Vocabulary 1: Lifestyle

1 a Look at the verbs and adjectives that can all be used with the noun lifestyle to form collocations. Collocations are pairs or groups of words that are often used together.

Underline those adjectives which could be used to describe your lifestyle.

b Work in pairs. Compare your adjectives with your partner, explaining your choices.

Example:

I have quite a healthy lifestyle at the moment. I'm eating sensibly and doing a lot of exercise.

- Discuss the following questions. As in other parts of this book, common collocations are shown in bold.
 - Would you like to change your lifestyle? Why/Why not?
 - · Do you lead an active social life? What kinds of things do you do?
 - · What do you think is meant by the American way of life? How would you describe the way of life in your country to a foreigner?
 - · What are some of the positive and negative aspects of our modern way of life? In what ways, if any, was the traditional way of life in your country better?
 - Why are people so interested in the private lives of celebrities? Do they interest you?

friends

Talking about photos

- Look at the four photographs. They show people who have different lifestyles. Before you do the speaking task, read the information in the boxes below.
- Student A Compare photographs 1 and 2 and say what you think the people might find difficult about their lifestyles.
- Student B When your partner has finished, say which lifestyle you would prefer to
- Now change roles. Follow the instructions above using photographs 3 and 4.

Student A

In Part 2 of the speaking exam you are not asked to describe the photographs in detail, but to compare them. When doing this, comment on the similarities and differences:

Similarities: Both pictures show ...

Differences: In the first picture ... whereas in the second one ...

When talking about what the people might find difficult about their lifestyles, give reasons for your opinions. You could comment on some of the following:

daily routine working hours leisure time type of home eating habits health travel family life

Student B

In the exam you have time to develop your answer fully and give reasons for your choice.

I get the impression it's a stressful life.

I expect/imagine she has to get up early.

He probably spends a long time away from home.

I doubt that she has much time for a social life.

Perhaps he doesn't see his family very often.

She might/may get lonely during the day.

What might the people find difficult about their lifestyles?

Fisherman Farm vet

Reading and Use of English

Multiple matching

You are going to read an article in which four people talk about their lifestyles. For questions 1–10, choose from the people (A–D). The people may be chosen more than once.

How to go about it

- Read all the questions to see the kind of information you are looking for.
- Read section A, then look again at the questions, answering any that you can.
 To help you, one part of section A has been underlined. Match this part to one of the questions.
 Then look in the rest of section A for any more answers.
- Do the same for the other three sections. Underline the relevant parts of the text as you answer the questions.
- If there are any questions you have not answered, scan the whole text again looking for the information you need.

says that people have the wrong idea about their work?	9 would prefer to go to bed earlier on many occasions?	10

This is your life

Four more personal accounts in our series on different lifestyles

A Colin Dobson: television and stage actor

Normally I get out of bed around midday. I'll sometimes go for a run after I get up, though it's not really my idea of fun. I'm not a fitness fan, but I realize it's important.

When I'm not rehearsing or on tour, afternoons usually involve reading scripts or learning lines. My wife and two sons are also actors, so at home there are usually scripts lying all over the place. It's a bit of a mess, I'm ashamed to say. I'm passionate about history, and if I'm working away from home, I spend the afternoons in museums or historic buildings. I always get to the theatre at the last minute, which annoys my co-actors, but I don't like arriving anywhere early.

After a performance I eat and spend a few hours unwinding, so bedtime is often two or three in the morning. I always fall asleep as soon as my head hits the pillow.

B Jodie Miller: potter

Before I started renting the workshop at the open-air museum, I would crawl out of bed in the morning, get 20 dressed and go straight into the garage, which I'd converted into a studio. Now I get the train and a bus, so I have to get up early and my morning routine is dull and conventional, the same one that's played out in millions of households.

25 On the plus side, though, I get to meet lots of people: there are the museum visitors that come into the workshop every day to watch me working, the other craftspeople - the broom maker, the blacksmith or the glassblower - and I also give classes. Working at 30 home was a solitary business and I hated the fact that I would often go for days without speaking to anyone. I get lots of requests for personalized mugs, and evenings are spent packaging up orders to send out the next day. I often get to bed later than I would like.

C Janie Collins: farm vet

I used to have a dog and we'd go running together 35 most mornings, but I gave him to my mum in the end. I tend to be out all day visiting farms and it wasn't fair to leave him alone. So now I don't get as much exercise as I'd like to.

I love my job, especially the variety and not knowing what you'll be doing from one day to the next. But being a vet - any type of vet - is not what people think, It's not all cuddly lambs and cute little pigs. We have to do some pretty unpleasant things sometimes, things which would put you off working with animals for life.

My mum wants to know when I'm going to settle down with someone, but there's no room for a dog in my life, so I don't see how I'll be able to fit marriage in.

D Mark Fudge: fisherman

50 My flat overlooks the port, so it's just a short walk to the Ellie May. That's our boat, the place I think of as home. I get lonely if I'm away from her for longer than a week or so - the crew is like a family to me.

I'm one of four deckhands, which means that the first 55 mate - the second in command after the captain - gets us to do cleaning and maintenance work as well as pulling in the nets, then washing, salting, icing and storing the fish. We work hard - six hours on, six hours off, six hours on, six hours off - every day for seven weeks. It's tough, but I can't see myself in any other profession. There's nothing else I'd rather do.

Reacting to the text

If you had to choose, which of the four people would you prefer to change places with for a month? Why?

Language focus 1: Habitual behaviour

A General tendencies

1 Which of the alternatives in this sentence is not possible? I tend to be/use to be/am usually out all day visiting

Look at the Grammar reference on page 209 to see how tend to is used.

- 2 Make three general statements about some of the following groups of people in your country using tend to.
 - football players
- teachers
- teenagers
- people in cities
- · elderly people
- · people in villages

Example:

The best football players in my country tend to go abroad. They can earn much more money playing for foreign clubs.

B Frequency adverbs

1 a Look at the following extracts from the reading text. In what position is the frequency adverb placed in relation to the verb?

I'll sometimes go for a run after I get up.

At home there are usually scripts lying all over the place.

I always get to the theatre at the last minute.

b In this sentence, two of the adverbs are in the correct position and two are not. Cross out the two incorrectly placed Normally/Always/Sometimes/Never I get out of bed around midday.

Check your ideas in the Grammar reference on page 209.

- 2 For sentences 1-6, decide if the position of the adverb is possible. If it is not possible, correct the sentence.
 - 1 I rarely go out on weekday evenings.
 - 2 I have usually my dinner in front of the television.
 - 3 Never I spend more than ten minutes doing my English homework.
 - 4 Companies are always phoning me in the evening, trying to sell me something – I get so annoyed.
 - 5 Hardly I ever play computer games I prefer reading.
 - 6 It's rare for me to go to bed before midnight, and quite often I'll stay up until two in the morning.
- Say whether or not the sentences in exercise 2 are true for you. Use frequency adverbs and the alternatives in the Grammar reference on page 209.

Example:

1 It's rare for me to stay at home on weekday evenings. I usually do some type of sport; I tend to go running if it's not raining, and if it is, I'll often go swimming or play badminton.

C Used to and would

- 1 Used to and would can be used to talk about past habits. Look at these sentences from the reading text and answer the question.
 - a I would crawl out of bed and go straight into the
 - b I would sometimes go for days without speaking to
 - c I used to have a dog and we'd go running together most mornings.

In all three sentences, used to could be used instead of would/'d before the verbs crawl and go, but in sentence c, it is not possible to say I would have a dog. Why is this?

Check your ideas on page 209 of the Grammar.

- 2 In the following paragraph, decide whether the underlined verbs can be used with:
 - a both used to and would
 - b only used to
 - c neither used to nor would

In the bad old days my mum (1) had an executive position in a pharmaceutical company. She often (2) worked long hours and sometimes (3) went away on business trips for two or three days at a time. Our dear old gran (4) looked after us on those occasions, but it wasn't the same as having a mum around. My brother and I (5) didn't like her being away from home, but we never once (6) said anything, because we always (7) thought she was happy in her work. Then one day she (8) announced she was giving up her job to spend more time with her family. We (9) were delighted at the change in lifestyle, but I'm not sure about my mum: she often (10) said afterwards that being a full-time mother was harder than being a business executive!

3 Write six sentences comparing your life now with your life five years ago. Write about things which have changed.

I didn't use to have a job, but now I work on Saturdays so I have more money.

Vocabulary 2: Get

- 1 a Look at these sentences from the reading text on pages 8 and 9 and try to remember who said each one. The first one has been done for you.
 - a I get to meet lots of people. the potter
 - b Normally I get out of bed around midday.
 - c I don't get as much exercise as I'd like to.
 - d I get lonely if I'm away from her for longer than a week or so.
 - e I get the train and a bus.
 - f I always get to the theatre at the last minute.
 - g The first mate gets us to do cleaning and maintenance work ...
 - h I get lots of requests for personalized mugs.

Check your answers on pages 8 and 9.

b What is the meaning of the words in bold in sentences a-h above?

Example: a have the opportunity to meet

- 2 The following sentences all contain phrasal verbs or expressions with get. Underline the correct alternative. There is an example at the beginning (0).
 - 0 That jumper looks so old and dirty. When are you going to get away/along/lost/rid of it?
 - 1 Here's my telephone number. If you have any problems, just get in talk/speak/touch/ tact with me.
 - 2 I heard she was a lovely woman. Unfortunately I never got the occasion/event/ ability/chance to meet her.
 - 3 I asked him how much he got paid/earned/money/salary but he refused to tell me.
 - 4 Come on, hurry up and get moved/ready/ordered/fit! Your bus leaves in five minutes.
 - 5 His parents are concerned about his behaviour. He's always getting into problem/ trouble/punishment/damage at school.
 - 6 His girlfriend left him in March and he still hasn't got past/off/by/over it.
 - 7 I can't speak French very well, but I always manage to get across/through/by/over with a dictionary and a few gestures.
 - 8 They wanted to get to the opera house but they got up/out of/on/off the wrong bus and ended up at the football stadium.

- 3 O Discuss the following questions.
 - How quickly do you get ready for school/work in the morning?
 - How do you get to school/work? How long does it take you to get there?
 - Did/Do you often get into trouble at school? What was the worst thing you ever did?
 - Did/Do your parents ever get you to do any jobs around the house? How did/do you feel about this?
 - What sort of things do you do when you get angry? How quickly do you get over your anger?

Vocabulary 3: Clothes

1 How many of the items of clothing in the photographs can you name?

2 The following adjectives can be used to describe clothes. Which of them can you match to the photographs?

tight-fitting	formal	tasteful	trendy
baggy	colourful	unfashionable	scruffy
casual	plain	smart	sleeveless

Multiple matching 1.1–1.5

You will hear five different people talking about occasions when a person's clothes and appearance caused surprise or concern. For questions 1–5, match the speaker to the correct occasion in the list A–H on page 13. Use the letters only once. There are three extra letters which you do not need to use.

Before you do the task ...

Prediction

guest spectator audience competitor witness star candidate host invigilator opponent Match each of the people in the box to the appropriate occasion A-H in the listening task on page 13. More than one word may be used for each occasion and some words may be used twice.

e.g. A wedding: guest, witness

What other people might you also find in each of the situations?

e.g. At a wedding the people who get married are the bride and groom.

- 2 Where does each occasion take place? e.g. A wedding usually takes place in a church or a registry office.
- 3 What clothes would you personally wear on the occasions A-H mentioned in the listening task on page 13?

e.g. If I was going to a wedding, I would buy an expensive dress. I would probably wear highheeled shoes.

Now you are ready to do the task.

What to expect in the exam

- You will have 30 seconds to read the eight options. Use this time to try to predict some of the ideas and language you might hear, as you did on page 12.
- Some of the extracts may contain distractors (key words or expressions which could cause you to make the wrong decision). Pay close attention both times you hear the recording.

A a wedding
B a friend's birthday party	0 1 1	1 . 1
C a classical ballet	Speaker 1	1
	Speaker 2	2
D a sporting event	Speaker 3	3
E a film premiere	Speaker 4	1.4
F an examination		0.56
G a job interview	Speaker 5	5

Have you ever been in a situation where someone's appearance caused surprise?

Language focus 2: Be used to, get used to and used to

H a special family meal

- 1 Look at the following sentences from the listening. In which of them does used to
 - a mean 'accustomed to'?
 - b refer to a past state which has now finished?
 - 1 Her unconventional, yet practical clothing shocked spectators, who were used to seeing women play in the long, heavy dresses which were typical of that period.
 - 2 And he used to live in France, which means he probably wouldn't mind changing countries if we needed him to.
 - ...he will have to get used to wearing something a little more formal.
- 2 What is the difference in meaning between be used to and get used to?
- 3 What form of the verb is used after be used to and get used to?
 - Check your answers on page 209 of the Grammar reference.
- 4 Talk about all the things you have to get used to in the following situations:
 - · you get your first job
 - you become famous
 - you go on a diet
 - you get married
 - · you have children
 - you retire

Example:

In a new job, you might have to get used to working together with other people.

- 5 a If you went to live in Britain, what aspects of life there would you find it difficult to get used to?
 - b Read the following text about Juan, who moved from Spain to live in England. Ignore the gaps for the moment. How many of the things which you spoke about in a are mentioned?

Now that Juan has been living in England for five years he

(0) is used to doing (do) things differently, but it hasn't always been the case. When he first moved there he couldn't (1) used to (have) lunch at 1pm, so he often (2) used to (cook) for himself in his flat and eat at 3pm, as his family does in Spain. Even now I don't think he (3) used to (eat) English food, because when he comes home to Madrid, he buys Spanish 'delicacies' to take back with him.

I remember how he (4) _____ used to _____ (write) to me and complain about the shop closing times. It took him a long time to (5) ____ used to not _____ (be) able to buy anything after about five o'clock. Most shops in Spain close at eight or nine in the evening.

He bought an English car a year ago, so he should (6) ____ used to ____ (drive) on the left by now. I wonder if he'll ever be able to (7) ____ used to ____ (drive) on the right again when, or if, he comes back to live in Spain!

c Read the text again.

In the first gap write either be, is, get, or leave it blank. In the second gap write the correct form of the verb in brackets.

There is an example at the beginning (0).

d What do you think a British person coming to your country might find it difficult to get used to?

Informal letter

Read the following letter, which you have received from your English friend, Mark.

What two things does he ask you to tell him?

Would you accept Mark's invitation? Why/Why not?

Dear ,

a) Many thanks for your last letter. The new house sounds brilliant - how are you settling in? b) I'm sorry I haven't written sooner, but I've been really busy helping my parents out on the farm.

It's great fun, though I still haven't got used to getting up at six every morning to milk the cows! We often have the radio on while we're doing it, so it's not too bad. Then, once we've had breakfast, we tend to spend the rest of the day outside, either in the fields or looking after the sheep.

c) That reminds me, do you remember Lady, our oldest sheepdog? Well, she's just had puppies! If you're free in the summer, you could come and see them all and help with the harvest as well. d) Let me know if you can make it - we'd love to see you again.

Anyway, e) I must go, as it's getting late and tomorrow we've got another early start. f) Can't wait to hear from you.

a) Best wishes

Mark

What is the purpose of each of the four paragraphs?

Example:

Paragraph 1: To say thank you for the letter and to apologize for not writing before.

3 Match each underlined expression a-g from Mark's letter with an appropriate alternative from 1-10. Which three phrases cannot be used and why are they inappropriate?

Example: 1 e)

- 1 I'd better close now
- 2 Thanks a lot for the letter
- 3 Yours sincerely
- 4 By the way
- 5 All the best

- 6 I would be most grateful if you could inform me
- 7 I look forward to your prompt reply
- 8 Please write and tell me
- 9 I'm sorry it's taken me so long to write to you
- 10 I'm looking forward to hearing from you

Notice the use of contractions in Mark's letter: I'm, it's and haven't. These are typical of informal writing.

4 Find and circle the following linking words in Mark's letter. Then use an appropriate linker from the box to complete the gaps in sentences 1–5 on page 15. Each linker can be used more than once.

but	while	so	and	as well	as
COCCA	Section 2	300	curci	HO WELL	Color

1	You'll never guess what happened to me town the other day!	I was shopping in the centre of
2	I'm writing to ask you to do me a favour _	I've got myself into trouble.
3	We're having a party next Saturday come. Bring a friend	we were wondering if you'd like to 4	I'd love to accept your invitation,	I'm afraid I'm going to be busy.
5	I haven't got any plans I'll cert.	ainly be able to go.

5 Read the following instructions.

Six months ago you moved to a new house in another part of your country. Write a reply to Mark's letter giving news about how you are settling in to your new surroundings and what a typical day is like. You should also say whether or not you can accept his invitation to go and stay on his farm in the summer.

Write your letter in 140-190 words.

How to go about it

- Begin by referring in some way to the letter you have received from Mark.
- Use some of the informal language and linkers that you have just studied.
- Organize your letter into logical paragraphs, as in the letter from Mark.

Listening 2

Transformations

For questions 1–6, complete the second sentence so that it has a similar meaning to the first sentence, using the word given. Do not change the word given. You must use between two and five words, including the word given. Here is an example (0).

0 How long was your journey from London to Manchester?

TAKE

How long __DID IT TAKE YOU TO_ get from London to Manchester?

Write the missing words IN CAPITAL LETTERS.

What to expect in the exam

- The second sentence of a transformation is a paraphrase of the first sentence; it expresses the same idea but with different words.
- Transformations test your knowledge of grammat, vocabulary and collocation. In the transformations below, all the language which is tested appears in Unit 1, including the Grammar reference on page 209.
- More than one feature of grammar and/ or vocabulary may be tested in a single transformation.

In number 1 below, for example, consider:

- the verb and preposition used with the word rid.
- the form of the verb after How about.

1	Why don't you throw away that old blouse? RID How about
2	I still find it strange to wear glasses. USED I still haven't	glasses.

Writing

Write a short article of 140-190 words about your lifestyle. Use texts A-D in the article on pages 8 and 9 as models. Include some of the vocabulary and grammatical structures you have studied in this unit.

High energy

Reading and Speaking

Look at the photos on pages 18 and 19 and read about the shows. Talk with your partner about how much you think you would enjoy each of the shows, giving reasons. Then agree on one show which you could both see together.

Pagagnini

An innovative musical show that brings to life some of the world's best-loved pieces of classical music. But Pagagnini is more than just a concert: the musicians dance, laugh, cry and generally clown around in one of the most original comedy acts of the moment.

Rhythm of the Dance

This two-hour dance and music extravaganza contains a wealth of Irish talent. The show relives the journey of the Irish Celts throughout history, combining traditional dance and music with the most up-to-date stage technology.

Vocabulary 1: Music

- 1 a How many of the musical instruments in the photographs can you name?
 - b All the words in each of the groups below can be used in combination with one of the words in the box. Write an appropriate word from the box in each of the gaps. There is an example at the beginning (0).

play (v) rock lead (adj) on instrument live (adi) a song musician

0	_rock_	band singer star	3	talented rock session		6		album performance music
1		vocalist singer guitarist	4	 2	tour stage the radio	7		the charts concert tune
2	sing perform mime		5	3 3	a track a tune a record	8	percussion wind stringed	8 - 1 8

- Study the word combinations in exercise 1b for two minutes. Then cover the exercise. How many word combinations can you remember?
- Work in small groups. You are on the organizing committee for a local charity and you want to raise money. Here are some events which have been suggested.
 - · A classical music concert given by a local orchestra
 - A sale of second-hand CDs and records
 - A talk given by a local jazz musician
- · A series of music workshops led by local musicians.
- · The auction of an electric guitar donated by a world famous rock star

Discuss how successful you think each event would be. Then decide which two events would raise the most money.

Cirque Éloize - iD

Sixteen artists on stage, thirteen circus disciplines, and a world of urban dances such as breakdance and hiphop. The rock, electronic and poetic music, together with the presence of video, highlight the show's playful, energetic, and youthful aspects.

Jeannot Painchaud (Director)

Tap Dogs

Tap Dogs are currently taking the world by storm with their tap show that combines the strength and power of workmen with the precision and talent of tap dancing.

Sentence completion 1.14

a Read these Listening Part 2 instructions and the What to expect in the exam box.

You will hear a radio presenter called Jim Dunne talking about local entertainment options. For questions 1-10, complete the sentences.

What to expect in the exam

 The words you read in the question may not be the same as the words you hear in the recording, e.g. Question 1:

You read: Jim recommends Pagagnini to ... You hear: I can guarantee ... will enjoy watching these four guys.

 However, the word(s) you need to write are actually heard in the recording.

- You may hear information which could fit the gap but does not answer the question.
 e.g. In question 2 below you will hear the names of two places mentioned. Listen carefully to ensure you choose the right one.
- You do not need to write more than three words for each answer.
- Minor spelling errors can be made (e.g. musical) but the words must be recognizable.

b Read questions 1-10 and, as you do so, discuss the type of information you might need to write for each one.

Example: 1 This is probably a person or a group of people.

c Listen to the recording twice and complete the sentences.

Jim recommends Pagagnini to the (1)

Jim saw a Pagagnini concert last year in (2)

As well as classical music, Pagagnini play rock, blues and (3)

Jim says the Pagagnini show has no (4)

More than (6) people have seen Rhythm of the Dance live on stage.

Some performers in iD appear on (9) and RollerbladesTM.

One review of iD says it is full of originality, energy and (10)

2 Aving listened to Jim Dunne, do you feel the same about the different shows as when you did the Reading and Speaking activity on page 18? Why/Why not?

Language focus 1: Indirect ways of asking questions

1 Compare these two ways of asking the same question: Direct: What time does the Pagagnini concert start?

Indirect: Could you tell me what time the Pagagnini concert starts?

Asking questions in a more indirect way, using expressions such as Could you tell me, can make them sound more polite. Write the direct form of the following questions:

 I'd be interested to know when Rhythm of the Dance started performing.

When

2 Would you mind telling me why you call the show iD?

3 I'd like to know if the Tap Dogs are planning to come here.

2 Compare the direct and the indirect questions in exercise 1 above and answer the following questions:

- a In numbers 1 and 2, what happens to the auxiliary verbs did and do when the indirect question form is used? How are the main verbs start and call affected?
 b In number 3, what differences are there between the
- b In number 3, what differences are there between the word order of the direct question and that of the indirect question?
- c In number 3, where no question word (when, how, what, where etc) appears in the direct question, which word has to be added in the indirect question?

Check your ideas on page 209 of the Grammar

3 Questions a-f were prepared by a music journalist planning to interview one of the members of Pagagnini. Rewrite them to make them indirect. If possible, choose a different phrase from the box to begin each one.

I'd be interested to know ... Could you explain ... Would you mind telling us ... We'd like to know ...

Could you tell me ... I was wondering if you could tell me ...

- a Why are you called 'Pagagnini'?
- b When did you start performing together?
- c Have you ever toured outside of Europe?
- d What type of music do you prefer playing?
- e How many hours do you practise your instrument each day?
- f Do you clown around when you're off stage as well?
- 4 a Student A: Write six indirect questions which you could ask a member of Rhythm of the Dance.

Student B: Write six indirect questions which you could ask a member of Cirque Éloize.

b Take turns to roleplay an interview in which your partner answers the questions you have prepared in a.

Letter of application

a Read the following Writing Part 2 instructions.

You see the following advertisement in your local English-language newspaper:

MUSICIANS AND DANCERS REQUIRED

We need teaching assistants for the music and dance activities at our English-language summer school for young children.

If you can speak English and believe you have the right skills to teach music and/or dance to young people, you are the right person for us.

Write to the director, Paul Beacon, and explain why you would be a suitable person for the job.

Write your letter of application.

b Read the letter of application on page 21. Ignore the words and expressions in bold (1–10) and answer the following question.

Do you think the applicant would be suitable for the job which is advertised? Give reasons for your answer.

(2) I've had a look at your advertisement in the latest edition of English weekly' and (3) I want to ask for a job as a music and dance teacher at your summer school.

I am a twenty-year-old music student in my second year at university and can play several instruments, including plane, violin and clarinet. (4) I've also been going to a local dance academy for the past twelve years and am a member of a modern-dance group called Pasos'.

Although (5) I've never done any jobs working with groups of children, I teach piano and violin to (6) quite a lot of young private students. In addition, I choreograph many of the dances for 'Pasos' and teach the steps to the other members of the group.

(7) I reckon I would be (8) really good at this job, as I am a very calm and patient person. My whole life is devoted to music and dance and (9) it'd be great if I could pass on my skills to other people.

(10) can't wait to hear from you.

Yours sincerely

Sandra Agar

When writing a letter of application to the director of a summer school, a formal style is appropriate. However, in Sandra Agar's application above, the words and expressions in bold (1-10) are more appropriate to an informal letter. Replace each one with a formal alternative from the box below.

Example: 1 Mr Beacon

I have no experience	I would like to apply	I feel
I look forward to hearing	I have seen	well-suited to
I have also been attending	Mr Beacon	a number
I would love to have the opportunity	to

- 3 Which linking words does Sandra use in her letter. Example: also
- 4 What is the purpose of each of the four main paragraphs in Sandra's letter? Example: Paragraph 1: Her reason for writing
- Read the How to go about it box on page 202 before you do the following Writing Part 2 task.

You see the following advertisement in your local English-language newspaper:

ARE YOU A MUSIC FAN?

We require English-speaking volunteers to help at a four-day international pop and rock music festival aimed at raising money for charity.

- What relevant music-related interests do you have?
- Do you have experience of working with people?
- How would you benefit from helping at this event?

Write to Paul Groves at Music for Life explaining why you would be suitable as a volunteer.

Gapped text

You are going to read an article about the game of rugby. Look at the photographs, which show men and women playing rugby, and discuss the following questions.

How much do you know about rugby? What are some of the rules of the game?

The article you are going to read says that 'rugby is rather like chess': why do you think it makes this comparison?

- 2 Read through the base text (the main text with the gaps). Are any of your ideas from exercise 1 mentioned?
- 3 Six sentences have been removed from the article. Choose from the sentences A-G the one which fits each gap (1-6). There is one extra sentence which you do not need to use.

How to go about it

Check that the whole sentence fits in with the meaning of the text before and after the gap. To help you do this, some words and phrases are written in bold. These show connections between the language in the text and the language in the missing sentences. A number of grammatical words such as them, this and these are written in italics to show further connections.

Note: these connections are not shown in the First examination.

- Now look at gap number 1. The words in bold before and after the gap indicate that the missing sentence:
 - refers back to the words uncomplicated and get points

- refers forward to the different ways of getting points.
- When you think you have found the sentence, read the whole paragraph again to check that it fits.
- Now complete each of the remaining gaps with an appropriate sentence. Do not choose a sentence simply because it contains a word which also appears in the base text.
 For example, the word obstacles, before gap number 2, is repeated in sentence G, but this does not necessarily mean that G is the correct answer.
- When you have finished, check that the sentence which you have not used does not fit into any of the gaps.

	How to play rugby
	Welcome to a sport which will enchant and excite you, and take you to the heights and the depths of human emotion. Learn the rules and you will be unable to resist it.
5	Rugby is a game of 40-minute halves with the most uncomplicated of objectives – to get more points than your opponent. 1 You either touch the ball down over your opponents' line, known as a try, for five points, or kick the ball over your opponent's posts; three points for a dropped goal and a penalty, two points for a conversion (kicking the ball between the posts after a try).
10	The complexities in rugby arise as a result of the obstacles which are put in every rugby player's path to make it harder for him to score points. 2 This can be done in three ways: by throwing you to the ground, by teaming up with other players to push against you when you have the ball in your hands or by pushing against you when the ball is on the ground.
	There is also the law that says the ball can only be passed backwards. 3 This is clearly rather difficult to do when you have fifteen very large opponents standing in front of you ready to throw you to the floor if they get anywhere near you.
15	Each team is made up of eight forwards and seven backs. The job of the forwards is to get the ball for the quicker, lighter backs to score. Rugby is rather like chess: chess pieces have special functions, in the same way that rugby players have specific tasks to perform. Within these roles they both employ various moves to get to the other side. 4 Rugby is a game in which all the players work together, and the better their relationships and understanding of one another, the better their chances of getting one of their team to the try-line.
20	The tools you need to overcome them are simple: time and space. When you hear commentators talking of tactics or strategies, they're just talking about the various ways in which you 'create space' or 'make time'. For example, if the backs keep passing along the line they will eventually run into problems, as the last player has no one else to pass to, and no space to run in. He'll get thrown off the pitch by the opposition, and the ball will go to them.
25	There are tactics like miss-moves (missing someone out in the line so that a defending player runs the wrong way and leaves a gap) and dummies (pretending to pass so the opposition runs the wrong way).
	There are a few other things which could be mentioned, but basically, rugby is nowhere near as complicated as it looks. It is, after all, just a game.

- A The point at which rugby becomes much more fun than a board game is in its team dynamics.
- B However, this complexity in the rules of rugby does not make the game any less exciting to play, or indeed, to watch.
- C The methods of scoring are equally simple.
- D Because of this rule, players have to run forwards or they'll end up back on their own line.
- E These strategies are both ways of tricking the opposition into opening up a gap in the defence for you to run through before you run out of space.
- F One such difficulty is that the opposing team can physically stop you from scoring.
- G Now we know the aim of playing rugby, and the nature of the obstacles that stand in the way, we need to look at how to deal with these obstacles.

Reacting to the text

Would you be interested in watching or playing rugby? Why/Why not?

Are there any sports you have not played but would like to try out? If so, which one(s)?

Language focus 2: Gerunds and infinitives

1 Look at the underlined words in the following extracts from the reading text. For each one, explain why a gerund, an infinitive without to, or an infinitive with to is used.

Example:

- a to make: the infinitive with to is used to express purpose, the reason why something is done.
- a ... the obstacles which are put in every rugby player's path to make it harder for him to score points
- b This can be done ... by throwing you to the ground.
- c ... the backs keep passing along the line ...
- d ... we need to look at how to deal with these obstacles.
- 2 Some verbs can be followed by a gerund and some others can be followed by an infinitive with to. Complete each of the following sentences using the correct form of the verb in brackets. One verb in each sentence will be a gerund, the other an infinitive with to.

1	When I suggested	(go) skiing at the weekend she was extremely enthusiastic and we arranged	(meet) at seven o'clock or Saturday morning.

- 2 I can't help ______ (smile) when I see my dad playing tennis. He's had hundreds of lessons but he still hasn't learnt ______ (hit) the ball properly.
- 3 Paul seems (enjoy) playing golf. He's even considering (buy) his own set of clubs.
- 4 One of my cousins has promised ______ (take) me windsurfing as soon as I've finished ______ (study).
- 5 At first my parents refused ______ (let) me go to karate lessons, but I kept _____ (ask) and eventually they agreed.
- 3 Some verbs can be followed by more than one verb form. Underline the correct alternatives in the following sentences. In some sentences more than one alternative is correct.
 - It started rain/to rain/raining so they had to postpone the match.
 - 2 I only stopped have/to have/having a rest once during the whole marathon.
 - 3 Jones continued play/to play/playing football professionally until he was forty.
 - 4 These exercises should help you run/to run/running faster.
 - 5 Remember drink/to drink/drinking water before the race.
 - 6 Sally tried use/to use/using a heavier racket, and she played a little better.

Read the Grammar reference on pages 209–10 and check your answers.

4 The verbs in the box can be used to talk about our likes and dislikes. They are all usually followed by the gerund.

Write each verb in an appropriate place on the line below according to the strength of its meaning.

don't mind	quite like can't stand	don't like absolutely adore	hate can't stand

5 Certain adjectives followed by a preposition and the gerund can also be used to talk about what does and doesn't interest you. Study the following table and complete each space with a preposition from the box. The first one has been done for you.

at in	on	about	with	of

	adjective + preposition	noun or gerund
I'm (really)	keen on	sport/cinema etc
I'm not (really)	interested	listening to etc
I've never been	fond	watching
I've always been	good/bad	playing
l get (really)	bored	doing
l never get	excited	going

6 Write eight sentences about your likes and dislikes using the language you have just studied.

Examples:

Preposition + gerund: I never get excited about going to the cinema.

Verb + gerund: I quite like listening to jazz.

Gerund as subject: Collecting postcards is one of my favourite pastimes.

7 Compare your sentences with your partner's. Ask questions about each other's likes and dislikes.

Example:

A: I've always been keen on going to the cinema.

- B: How often do you go?
- A: I tend to go once every two weeks or so.
- B: And what are your favourite films?
- A: Well, I really enjoy watching science fiction, but I don't like films with a lot of violence. I get bored very easily if there are lots of deaths.

You may be asked to talk about your interests in Part 1 of the Speaking test. Make sure you develop your answers, explaining and justifying your opinions.

Vocabulary 2: Sport

- 1 Underline the correct alternative in these extracts from the reading text on page 23.
 - a You foot/kick/give/fire the ball over your opponent's sticks/poles/pillars/posts.
 - b ... obstacles which are put in every rugby player's path to make it harder for him to do/goal/score/mark points ...
 - c ... the ball can only be given/presented/passed/changed backwards.
 - d ... chess pieces/parts/packs/portions have special functions ...
 - e He'll get thrown off the court/pitch/track/camp by the opposition ...

2 Can you name all the sports in the pictures? Write the name of each sport next to the verb which it is used with. The first one has been done for you.

do_	athletics	9

 - Student B Imagine that you are not familiar with your partner's sport. Ask your partner any questions that are necessary to help you fully understand the rules.

When you have finished, change roles.

Multiple choice 1.15

Look at the photographs of unusual sports. What do you think contestants have to do in each one?

You will hear a man talking on the radio about unusual sports. For questions 1-7, choose the best answer (A, B or C).

What to expect in the exam

Look at question 1 below and the following extract from the listening script. The underlined sections contain words which are the same or similar to words in all three of the possible answers A, B and C. Only one of these sections matches an answer; the others are distractors. Decide which is the correct answer and say why the others are incorrect.

Now you may think this is just a bit of fun, but when I watched two men competing in a televised match last year, I was amazed by their level of skill in each of these two very different disciplines. After all, boxing is such an aggressive, violent sport – It's about using the body, whereas chess is all about using the brain.

Although a particular option may be true, it may not be the correct answer to the question you are asked. In question 2, all three statements are true but only one is something that Mike finds it difficult to believe.

- 1 When Mike saw a chess boxing match, he was surprised by
 - A how skilled the competitors were at both parts of the sport.
 - B how much fun the competitors were having.
 - C how aggressive the competitors were.
- 2 Having read about octopushing, Mike finds it difficult to believe that
 - A players do not have to hold their breath for long
 - B a high level of fitness is not required to play it.
 - C it is an exciting sport to watch.
- 3 What does Mike say about wife carrying?
 - A Male competitors must not be over a certain weight.
 - B The name of the sport is not entirely appropriate.
 - C The sport has a lot of complicated rules.
- 4 What is Mike's criticism of sports like wife carrying?
 - A They are not suitable for young children.
 - B They should not really be called sports.
 - C They are not worth taking seriously.

- 5 What do we learn about the organizers of toe wrestling?
 - A They apply what they learn from international competitions.
 - B They have arranged a number of events in schools.
 - C They made a request which was rejected.
- 6 How does Mike feel about the human triumphs in the Man Versus Horse Marathon?
 - A They are very surprising.
 - B They deserve more recognition.
 - C They are unlikely to be repeated.
- 7 Why did Mike give up running?
 - A He was injured.
 - B He lost interest.
 - C He had no time.

3 Would you be interested in taking part in or watching any of the sports Mike mentions? Why/Why not?

Do you have any strange sports in your country? What do the competitors do?

Word formation: Affixes

1 Add an appropriate suffix, -or, -er or -ant, to each of the verbs in the box to form nouns for the people who perform these actions. You may need to make further spelling changes to the verbs.

Example: win - winner

win	box	play	spectate	compete	participate listen	organize	run	ride	contest

Check your answers in the listening script on pages 223-4.

Add either -ist, -eer, -ee or -ian to the pairs of words below to form the nouns for the corresponding people. Use the same suffix for both words in each pair. You may need to make further spelling changes.

employ/train electric/politics novel/science mountain/engine

3 In 1-7 below, use the same prefix from the box with all three adjectives to make them negative. The first one has been done for you.

Writing 2

Article

Read the following Writing Part 2 instructions. You have just seen this advertisement.

Write your article in 140-190 words.

INTERNATIONAL SPORTS WEEKLY

- · What is your favourite sport?
- Why do you like it?
- What advice would you give to someone who wants to take it up?

We are looking for short articles answering these questions and we will publish some of the best articles next month.

How to go about it

- Before you write your artide, read the model and analysis on page 202.
- To help you plan your article, answer the following questions and make notes.

Paragraph 1:

What is your favourite sport? What is special about it?

Paragraph 2:

Why do you like it?

What are the benefits of doing it?

Paragraph 3:

What advice can you give to people who want to take it up?

Are any special qualities, equipment or clothes needed?

Paragraph 4:

What final encouragement can you give?

 Give your artide a title and include some of the features of style from page 202.

Reading and Use of English

Multiple choice

Read the following short paragraph and discuss the question.

You are going to read an article by Australian journalist Susan Maushart about her book The Winter of Our Disconnect. The book is an account of what she calls 'The Experiment', a six-month period during which she and her three teenage children stopped using most of their electronic media, such as computers, televisions, games consoles and mobile phones.

What effects do you think The Experiment had on the writer's family?

2 Read through the article quickly. Which, if any, of your ideas in exercise 1 are mentioned?

Digital detax: Why I pulled the plug on my family

There were lats of reasons why we pulled the plug on our electronic media ... or, I should say, why I did, because my children would rather have volunteered to go without food, water, or hair products. At ages 14, 15, and 18, my daughters Sussy one Anni and my son Bill don't use media. They inhabit media. And they do so exactly as fish inhabit a pend. Gracefully and without consciousness or curiosity as to how they get there. They don't remember a time before small, or instant messaging, or Google.

When my children laugh, they don't say 'ha ha'. They say 'LOL'. They download movies and TV shows and when I remind tham piracy is a crime, they look at one carother and go 'LOL'. These are children who shrug indifferently when they lose the property of the control of the con their iPods, with all 5000 tunes plus video clips, feature films, and "TV" shows (like, who watches TV on a television anymore?). 'There's plenty more where that came from,' their attitude says. And the most infuriating thing of all? They're right. The digital content that powers their world can never truly be destroyed.

Our family's self-imposed exile from the information age changed our lives infinitely for the better. I watched as my children became more focused, logical thinkers. I watched as their attention spans increased, allowing them to read for hours at a time; to hold longer and more complex conversations with adults and among themselves; to improve their capacity to think beyond the present moment. They probably did no more homework during the Experiment than they had done before, but they all completed it for more efficiently and for more quickly.

the older children look the opportunity to go out more – shopping, visiting, or clubbing in Anni's case, and hanging out at the pool or playing saxophone in somebody's garage in Bill's. The Experiment forced us to notice food more, Before, cating had been a side dish. Now it was the main course, or at least one of them. Our approach to cooking changed, too, especially for the girls. They'd started out as reasonably competent cooks, but by the end of The Experiment they were capable of turning out entire meals with case.

The Experiment also confirmed my strong suspicion that media had been robbing Sussy of sleep for years. She'd been our 'amily's most militant multitasker, and the one who'd been attracted by a digital lifestyle at the youngest age. Unplugged, the changes to her sleep patterns, energy levels, and mood were correspondingly dramatic. The evicence strongly suggests she is no isolated case. One study found that children who spend more time online also drink more calleinated beverages, with a resulting effect on their prospects of sleeping well. 'Subjects who sleet the least also multi-tasked the most,' the authors concluded.

No amount of talking to Armi, Bill, and Sussy could ever have persuaded them of the extent of their media dependence as elequently as even a week without information technology. But by six months, the time had come to return to what our culture (rightly or wrangly) has decided is 'normal'.

3 Read the article again. For questions 1-6 on page 32, choose the answer (A, B, C or D) which you think fits best according to the text.

Hew to go about it

- Read the article first for an overall understanding. (You did this in exercise 2.)
- Find the part of the article which relates to the question you are answering. As in the exam, the questions for this article appear in the same order as the information in the text.
- Eliminate the options which are clearly wrong, then check the option or options you have not eliminated.
- If you still cannot decide, choose one of the options. Marks are not deducted for incorrect answers.

- 1 The writer says her children 'inhabit media ... as fish inhabit a pond' to show that
 - A they have little interest in the outside world.
 - B electronic media are a natural part of their lives.
 - C electronic media have made them less intelligent.
 - D their memory has been affected by using electronic media.
- 2 How does the writer describe her children's reaction to losing their iPods?
 - A reacful
 - B amused
 - C indignant
 - D unconcerned
- 3 What does the writer say about information technology in paragraph 3?
 - A It has created a number of contradictions.
 - B It is the main cause of depression today.
 - C It is an unreliable source of information.
 - D It has helped to simplify our daily lives.
- 4 The writer says that the period without electronic media enabled her children
 - A to get to know a wide range of people.
 - B to pay more attention to news events.
 - C to concentrate for longer periods at a time.
 - D to devote more time to doing their homework.
- 5 In what way did the Maushart family's relationship with food change?
 - A They are larger portions of everything.
 - B They attached more importance to it.
 - C They all took turns to cook mea.s.
 - D They prepared healthier dishes.
- 6 What does the writer mean by 'she is no isolated case' in line 34?
 - A Sussy sleeps better when she shares her bedroom.
 - B No one in Sussy's family sleeps very well at night.
 - C Sussy prefers using media in the company of other children.
 - D Other children who use media suffer in the same way as Sussy.

Reacting to the text

What effects might a similar experiment have on you and your family? Do you think people have become too dependent on information technology? Why/Why not?

What to expect in the exam

In the exam, the six multiple choice questions may focus on some of the following features:

- the writers use of comparison, e.g. guestion 1.
- The attitude or opinion of the writer or someone mentioned in the text, e.g. aucstion 2.
- the main idea expressed in a paragraph, e.g. question 3.
- a detail in the rext, e.g. question 4.
- the meaning of a word or phrase, e.g. guestion δ.

There may also be a question testing global understanding of a feature of the whole text, such as the writer's reason for writing it or the overall tone of the text. This type of question would come last.

Language focus 1: Comparisons

Complete the following sentences from the text. If a word is given in brackets, write the correct form of that word. You may need to write more than one word.

5 Subjects who slept the ______ also multi-tasked the Now check your answers in the reading text.

A Comparative and superlative forms

- 1 Why are the following comparative and superlative forms not possible in sentences 2 and 5 above? more long complexer militantest most young
- 2 What are the comparative and superlative forms of the following adjectives?

 clean hot strange happy clean hot strange happy clever good bad far

- 3 Easy and quickly both have two syllables and both end in -y. The comparative form of easy is easier. Why isn't quicklier the comparative form of quickly in sentence 3?
- 4 In sentence 3, far is used with a comparative (far more guickly) to talk about a big difference. Which of the following are used before comparatives for big differences and which for small differences?

 a bit much significantly a little slightly a lot

B Other comparative structures

1 To talk about people or things that are the same in some way we can use as adjective or adverb + as.

They're just as silly as each other.

In negative sentences which talk about differences, so can be used instead of the first as.

She's not so fit as she used to be.

Not so becomes not such if a noun is used after the acjective.

Maybe this isn't such a good idea as I thought.

2 The + comparative, the + comparative

This structure is used to show that two changes happen together. The second change is often the result of the first.

The more facts we have at our fingertips, the less we seem to know.

The older he gets, the more slowly he drives.

Read more about comparisons on pages 210 and 211 of the Grammar reference.

- 1 Match each sentence 1–6 with a sentence a–f which expresses a similar idea. The first one has been done for you.
 - 1. She's far lazier than anyone else.
 - 2 She works a lot less than she ought to.
 - 3 She's not quite as lazy as she used to be.
 - 4. She doesn't have as many problems as she used to.
 - 5 She's the worst student I've ever taught.
 - 6 The more she works, the more success she has.
 - a She doesn't work nearly as much as she should.
 - b. She has fewer difficulties than before.
 - c Everyone works much harder than her.
 - d. She's more successful when she works harder.
 - e. She's slightly more hardworking than before.
 - f I've never had such a bad student in my class.
- 2 Complete the second sentence so that it has a similar meaning to the first sentence, using the word given. Use between two and five words, including the word given.
 - The film wasn't nearly as good as I thought it would be.

- 1 The best type of pet.
- The best smartphone.
- 3 Your favour te pop or rock group.
- 4 A film you really enjoyed.
- 5 A sportsman or woman you admire.
- 6 A favourite holiday destination.

b Work in small groups. Try to persuade the other members of your group that your choices are better than theirs.

Example:

Student A: Cats are the best pets to have. They're far more independent than most other animals.

Student B: Yes, but cats aren't nearly as playful as dogs. Dogs are a lot more fun.

Student C: You're both wrong. Hamsters are the friendliest pets – much nicer than cats or dogs ...

Collaborative task

Read tasks 1 and 2 below. Then, before you do the tasks, read the information in the boxes at the bottom of the page.

Your class has decided to do a project on changes and developments over the last century. Talk with your partner about some of the changes that have taken place in the different areas below.

Education

Communication

What changes have taken place in these different areas over the last century?

Travel and transport

Free time

Medicine

2 Now decide in which two areas the most positive changes have taken place.

How to go about it

- Part 3 is an interactive task. As well as giving your own quintons, ask your partner what they think, and respond to their comments by agreeing, disagraeing, or adding a further comment.
- In task 1 you can talk about the areas in any order you chadse, say as much as you can about each

The photographs on this page are there to give you at least one idea for each area. (There are no pictures for Port 3 in the Cambridge English: First exam.)

- Do not start to make your decisions for task 2 while you are doing task 1. They are two separate tasks.
- In task 2 your do not have to agree with your partner when making your final decision.
- in the exam you have two minutes for task 1 and their about a minute for task 2. However, allow yourself more time as you practise for Part 3 in the early units of Ready for First.

Relevant grammar areas

Present perfect; e.u. Technology has changed the way we communicate.

Past habitual behaviour, e.g. We used to play ausside more.

Present habitual behaviour: s.g. It's quite normal for schools to provide laptops now.

Comparisons: c.g. We're a lot healthier now, thanks to medical advances.

Asking questions

Can you think of any more changes? Do you have any other ideas? Do you agree with me on that?

Agreeing and disagreeing

That's rightlinie. I think so, loo. Lauree (up to a point).

That's not rightitrue. I really don't think so. I completely disagree.

Speaking 2

Further discussion

In Part 4 of the Socaking test the examiner will ask you questions which are related to the topic in Part 3. Discuss the following questions on the topic of change.

How to go about it

- Answer the questions fully, niving reasons for your opinions.
- As well as responding to the examiner, you can also interact with your partner, as in Part 3.
- Do you think the quality of life in general is better now than it used to be?
- Some people say we have too much choice nowadays. What do you think?
- How could the education system in your country be improved?
- If you could change one thing in your life, what would it be?
- Some people don't like change. Why do you think that is?
- What do you think will be the biggest changes in the next 100 years?

Language focus 2: Articles

- 1 Read the extract from the article entitled 'A century of change", ignoring the spaces for the moment, and answer the following questions.
 - Which two areas from the speaking activity on page 36. are ment oned in the extract?
 - Which of the changes mentioned in the extract did you. discuss in the speaking activity?
- 2 Now read the extract again and complete each of the gaps. with a, an or the, or leave it blank. There is an example at the beginning (0).
- 3 Read the main rules for the use of articles on pages. 211-12 of the Grammar reference. Then use them to give reasons for each of the answers in exercise 2.

Example:

O Section Air: a specific aspect or part of something, where the noun is followed by of.

A century of change

Since (0) the baginning of the last century there have been enormous changes in the way (1) people live. (2) world has become a much smaller place and (3) life is much faster.
In (4) first half of the twentieth century, (5) horse was gradually replaced by (6) motor car as (7) most popular form of transport. (8) hundred years ago, (9) air travel was in its infancy; now there are over 90000 commercial flights (10) day worldwide. In the 1940s, (11) steam trains were still a common sight on the world's railways. They have now all but disappeared from mainline routes and in several countries electric-powered high speed trains can be seen racing across (12) countryside at around 300 kilometres (13) hour.
And (14) information travels faster, too, thanks to developments in information technology, telecommunications and mass media. Having your own computer at (15) home was almost unheard of in 1970, but just 40 years later in 2010 there were well over (16) billion personal computers in use worldwide. Invented in 1876, (17) telephone was already fairly widely in use by 1910, with some seven million installed in (18) United States alone. But who could have predicted that a century later an estimated 70 per cent of the world's population would own (19) mobile phone? Commercial television did not really take off until just after (20) Second World War = and we all know how successful that phenomenon has been!

Another area where enormous changes have taken place is:

A change for the better?

Listening 2:

Multiple matching 1.17–1.21

Read the following Listening Part 3 instructions.

You will hear five different teachers talking about changes that have been made in their schools. For questions 1–5, choose from the list A–II what each speaker says. Use the letters only once. There are three extra letters which you do not need to use.

How to go about it

- Underling the key words and phrases in the eight outlions, the first one (A) has been done for you. However, if you hear one of these words or phrases, do not assume that the option which contains them is the answer.
- Listen carefully both times before making your final decision.

A The change has resulted in a number of new problems.

B Too many changes have been introduced.

C The change is insufficient to solve a problem.

D We should have been consulted about the change.

E The change is being made for selfish reasons.

F Most parents support the change.

G The change has brought unexpected benefits.

H Most of the teachers feel the change is unnecessary.

- 2 Check your answers using the listening script on pages 224–5. Underline those parts of each extract which guide you to the correct answers.
- 3 One student wrote the following incorrect answers.

Identify the language in each extract which may have caused the student to choose the wrong answer.

Example: 1 Perhaps I should have spoken out at the consultation meeting.

Writing

Essay

Read the following Writing Part 1 instructions and the example answer on page 39. Do you agree with the writer's conclusion? Why/Why not?

Your English class has been discussing the effect of technology on sport. Now your English teacher has asked you to write an essay:

Write an essay using all the notes and give reasons for your point of view.

Has technology made a positive contribution to sport today?

Some people feel that technology has helped to improve our enjoyment of sport and they approve of its use. Others, however, point to the negative aspects and would prefer to see its influence limited.

On the positive side, the use of technology in football to decide if a goal has been scored or not, or in tennis to judge whether the ball is in or out, clearly helps to make the games fairer. Communication between football officials via microphones also improves the quality of their decisions. Another positive influence of technology is its role in increasing safety for competitors. Modern helmet design in cycling is an example of this.

On the other hand, the use of technology to improve performance can give some sportspeople an unfair advantage over others. For this reason, full-length swimsuits and so-called 'superbikes' have now both been banned from some swimming and cycling competitions.

To conclude, I think that as long as sporting achievements remain the result of human effort, rather than scientific advances, then the contribution of technology will always be positive.

- 2 The third note in the question asks for 'your own idea'. What is the writer's own idea in the example answer?
- 3 What is the purpose of each of the four paragraphs in the example answer? Example:

Paragraph 1: a general introduction

Introduction

The first four parts of the Reading and Use of English paper are Use of English tasks. In this unit we will look specifically at three of the tasks:

- Part 1 Multiple-choice cloze
- Part 2 Open cloze
- Part 3 Word formation

Information on the content of Part 4 (Transformations) appears at frequent intervals throughout this book.

What do you know about the Use of English tasks?

Look at the following statements and decide which are true and which are false. If you think a statement is false, give reasons for your answer.

- 1 All four Use of English tasks are in the form of a text.
- 2 You should read texts through at least once before you attempt the task.
- 3 One mark is given for each correct answer in the Use of English tasks.
- 4 Paris 1, 2 and 3 each contain eight gaps.
- 5 All four parts of the paper contain an example.
- 6 You should not write the answer for the examples on your answer sheet in the exam.
- 7 In Part I (Multiple-choice cloze), if you are not sure of the answer it is better to leave a blank.
- 8 In Part 2 (Open cloze), you sometimes have to write two words.
- 9 In Part 3 (Word formation), an answer is given no marks at all if the word is misspell.
- 10 In Part 4 (Transformations), the key word must not be changed in any way.

Part 1: Multiple-choice cloze

Part 2: Open cloze

- 1 What do you know about the habitat, food and behaviour of wolves?
- 2 Read the following text. Are any of the points you discussed in exercise 1 mentioned:

Grey Wolves

(0) At one time grey wolves, whose Latin name is Canis lopus, could be found over large areas of Europe. Over the last century, however, (1) their numbers and range have been considerably reduced, mainly as a result of hunting and the widespread destruction of habitat. Consequently, it is (2) not as easy to see them in the wild as it used to be.

There are (3) a number of subspecies of grey wolf, including the Italian wolf and the Iberian wolf, (4) which inhabits the forests of northern Portugal and northwestern Spain. All wolves bunt for food in small packs, often preying on animals that are much larger (5) than themselves. And (6) although they will cat almost anything, including deer, sheep, rabbits and even fish and fruit wolves rarely attack people.

Grey wolves usually give birth (7) to between four and seven cubs. The cubs leave the dan when they are eight to ten weeks old, after which they (8) are cared for by all members of the pack until they reach maturity.

What to expect in the exam

In Part 2 of the Reading and Use of English paper there is a text with eight gaps to be filled. This task focuses mainly on grammar. The following are some of the types of words which are omitted. Look at the words in bold in the text above and write each one with its number next to the corresponding type. The first one (0) has been done for you. Type of word Example and number 3 Read the text below and think of the word which best fits each gap. Use only one word in each gap. There is an example at the beginning (0).

Saved by Heavy Metal?

Walter Eikrem was listening to music (0) on his mobile phone as he made his way home from school in the Norwegian town of Rakkestad. The path leading from the stop (1) he catches the school bus to his family's farmhouse crosses a gently sloping hillside. All of (2) sudden, he made out something grey on the hillside. At first, I thought it might (3) been the neighbour's dops,' he said. (4) he actually encountered, though, were four wolves.

It was afraid they would attack me,' said Walter, but he didn't let his fear show. He pulled the carphones out of his mobile phone, turned the volume all (5) — way up and blasted heavy motal music over its miniature speakers. (6) _____ the same time, he shouted as loud as he could while waying his arms about wildly (7) —— scare off the pack of wild animals.

The plan worked. Eikrem said he was able to drive away the wolves (8) _____ playing the song 'Overcome' by the American hard-rock band Creed. 'They just turned around and simply trotted away,' said Walter.

Part 3: Word formation

What to expect in the exam

- Part 3 contains a text with eight gaps, each of which has to be filled with the correct form of a word given in capital letters.
- The missing words are usually nouns, adjectives, adverts and occasionally verbs. Sometimes the word you write will need to be in the plural, and cornetimes a negative form is required. The meaning of the text surrounding the gaps will help you decide.
- 1 For questions 1–8 use the word given in capitals at the end of each line to form a word that his in the space in the same line. Use the words in bold to help you decide on the correct form of your answer. There is an example at the beginning (0).

3 Read the following review of The Matrix, which appeared in a student magazine. Does this type of film appeal to you?

HE MATRIX

The Matrix is one of the most entertaining science fiction films I have seen. It combines frenetic action with terrific special effects, and stars Keanu Reeves as Neo, and Laurence Fishburne in the role of Morpheus.

The film is set in the future, in a world controlled by machines. In order to hide this reality from humans, the machines have constructed the Matrix, a vast virtual reality system resembling Earth at the end of the twentieth century. The plot, which focuses on a revalt led by Marpheus against the Motrix, is complicated and at times confusing. However, the cast is very strong and the film features a surprisingly competent performance from Keanu Reeves.

As far the visual elements, the special effects are stunning, with the main characters walking on walls and avoiding machine gun bullets. The action scenes, which include a wide variety of kung fu techniques, are convincingly chareographed,

Word formation: Adjectives ending in -ing and -ed

To describe how we feel about something or someone we can use past participles as adjectives.

I got really frightened when I saw the main character being killed.

To describe the thing or person that produces the feeling we can use present participles as adjectives.

It was an extremely frightening scene.

Adverbs can be formed from present participle adjectives.

Not surprisingly, we were disappointed that we couldn't get tickets to see the film.

- 1 Look back at the review of The Matrix and find examples of adjectives and adverbs formed with -ing and -ed. Note that not all the words ending in -ing and -ed in the text are adjectives.
- 2 Put the past participle of each of the following regular verbs in the appropriate group. according to how the -ed ending is pronounced.

annoy	frustrate	tire	disappoint	disgust	astonish	terrify

Review

Your teacher has asked you to write about a film you have seen recently on DVD for the school's English magazine. Write a review for the magazine, giving your opinions on the film and saying whether you would recommend it.

Here is a paragraph plan for your review. However, the paragraph summaries are not in the correct order. Look again at the review of The Matrix and put them in order.

- a A brief summary of the plot and comments on the acting, with opinions.
- b Recommendations with reasons.
- c A general opinion of the film, together with some factual details, e.g. type of film, actors/actresses, director.
- d Other aspects of the film together with opinions.

- Decide on the film you are going to review and make notes for each of your four paragraphs, using the above plan as a guide.
- Include relevant film vocabulary as well as some participle adjectives to express your opinion.
- Work with a partner and tell each other about your films, following the notes you have made. Have you each included a balance of information and opinions?

Speaking

Talking about photos

The following two photographs show different free-time activities.

Student A Compare these photographs and say what you think the people are enjoying about these different activities.

Student B When Student A has finished, say whether you enjoy these different activities.

Student A

- Compare the photographs. Do not describe them in detail.
- The second part of the task is written as a question above the photographs,

Student B

Develop your answer fully, giving reasons for your feelings or opinions.

What are the people enjoying about these different activities?

Now change roles. The following two photographs show different types of cinemas, Student A Compare these photographs and say what the advantages are of watching films in cinemas like these.

Student B When student A has finished, say in which of the places you would prefer to see a film.

What are the advantages of watching films in cinemas like these?

Preparing for listening: Focus on distractors

- 1 Match each sentence beginning 1-5 with an appropriate ending a-e.
 - (1) My brother was so scared he couldn't watch the film -
 - 2 Although most critics agree that the novel is her best ever,
 - 3 Although snow is now unlikely.
 - 4 My daughter wanted me to help her with her homework
 - 5 Whereas in most of his other films he plays the 'baddie'.
- a we can expect a certain amount of rain later on
- b in this one he's definitely the good guy.
- (c) whereas I didn't find it at all frightening.
- d I was rather disappointed by it: the plot is very weak.
- e but I told her to ask her mother.
- 2 Now decide on the correct alternative in each of the following interpretations of the sentences in exercise 1. Give reasons for your answers.

The speaker in sentence ...

- A was frightened by the film.
- 2 A enjoyed the book.
- 3 A says it will probably rain.
- 4 A helped his daughter.
- A says the actor is the villain.
- B was not frightened by the film.
- B was not enthusiastic about the book.
- B says it will probably snow.
- B didn't help his daughter.
- B says the actor is the hero in the film.

The incorrect answers in exercise 2 are typical of the distractors you might find in a Part 1 Listening task. The ideas in them are similar to the information in exercise 1 but not the same. Note the use of contrast linkers, written in bold.

Multiple choice 1.22–1.29

You will hear people talking in eight different situations. For questions 1-8, choose the best answer, A. B or C.

- 1 Listen to this woman talking about an actor. What is her opinion of him?

 - B He is fashionable.
 - C He is rude.
- 2 You overhear this conversation between two friends. What type of film are they going to see?
 - A a historical drama
 - B a romance
 - C a thriller
- 3 You hear a man telling a woman about a storytelling course he attended. What does he say about the course?
 - A It was better than he expected.
 - B It will be useful for his work.
 - C It helped build his confidence.
- 4 You hear an actress talking about her performance in a play. How does she feel?
 - A tired
 - B disappointed
 - C excited

- 5 You overhear this man talking on the telephone. Who is he talking to?
 - A an old school friend
 - B a work colleague
 - C a relative
- 6 You hear a young woman talking to her friend about a film. Why didn't she like it?
 - A It was too slow.
 - B There was too much violence.
 - C It was very predictable.
- 7 You hear a woman telephoning a bookshop. What is she doing?
 - A making a complaint
 - B making a suggestion
 - C apologizing
- 8 You hear this young man talking on the phone. What does he have in common with his girlfriend?
 - A They were born under the same star
 - B They share the same taste in music.
 - C They have the same sense of humour.

In this Part 1 exercise, you will hear distractors of the type you met in the Preparing for listening section.

Vocabulary 2: Take

A Phrasal verbs with take

- 1 What is the meaning of this phrasal verb from the listening? So are you going to be leaving us to take up a career as a storyteller, then?
- 2 Read the following short story and choose the best title a-c.
 - a The dangers of Irish dancing
- b The end of a promising career
- c Winning isn't everything

Roisin always at took after her dad. Her mother was a calm, hid back person, but Roisin, like her father, was ambifious. She had to be the best at everything, and that included Irish dancing, which she b) took up at the age of eight. She t) took to it immediately, and knew after just a few lessons, that she warned to be a world champion. Her teachers were impressed: once she'd learnt a new dance routine, her feet seemed to d) take over and she would move across the floor with incredible agility.

Shortly before her first World Championships in Glasgow, Roisin's teacher e) took her aside during the lesson and reminded her that, whilst she had every confidence in her, the competition would be tough. Full of self-belief, Roisin. took no notice and was convinced she would win. When she linished sixth, she was devastated and just couldn't f) take in the fact that she hadn't come first. She never did win a championship, but she eventually learnt to love dancing for itself rather than as a means to be the best. Then, three years ago Rolsin's dancing career g) took off when she was h) taken on as a dancer with an Irish dance company that travels the world. There's no competing, only supporting - and she's never been happier.

 - 1 Which of the genres from exercise 1 is it?
 - 2 What has made Graham Holt's daughter angry?
 - 3 Why does she eventually decide to go to Madrid?

'Enemies? Everyone despised him. I can't think of a man with more enemies.' I sat up. I despised my father, but I didn't like the thought of other people hating him. I don't know why. I suppose because 5 I felt that he must be some part of me. We shared blood, and genes. And we had once shared a life – if only for a very short time.

We were sitting in the café at the top of a department store in the centre of Madrid. Blanca de la Rosa

- sipped her coffee. I sipped mine. We were next to the window and below us I could see people going in and out of shops. Christmas shopping, perhaps? 1 It was a cold day in early November. The wind moved the clouds, but never enough to open up the sky. It
- 15 was the kind of day I had never expected to see in Spain.

I rubbed my arms and said: 'But hating someone casually is different from wanting to kill them.'
Blanca de la Rosa shrugged. 'I wouldn't know, I don't go in for such emotions.' Blanca de la Rosa was my father's secretary. Or had been, before he died. My father had run a business selling British art. 2

After all, he knew nothing about art.

When I was growing up, he had owned a sports shop.

Later, I heard he worked in the music business, as a booking agent or something like that. Since my teens, you see, I had been trying to forget about my father.

I was well on my way to achieving this when I got the phone call that afternoon in September.
It was a Sunday and I was in a London pub with some friends. 4 Then there was a click and a woman's voice, half-American, half-something else, said: 'Hello? I am Blanca de la Rosa. I am Graham

35 Holt's secretary. I understand you are his daughter. 'That's right,' I said. I was already shaking when she dropped her bombshell. Tim calling to tell you he was found dead last night,' she went on. 'He was shot.'

40 5 I was furious that my father had come back into my life. Then I called my mother, who I like to think I take after only slightly more than my father. She laughed and told me to stay away. 'I always knew someone would kill him one day,' she said.

45 'I only wish it had been me.'

I took her advice. I called Blanca de la Rosa and tol her to do whatever she felt was appropriate with my father's belongings and money – to keep them or give them to charity if she wanted. And I tried to forget about my father all over again. 6 It just wouldn't go away. In the end, I called Blanca de la Rosa again to ask her whether the police had arrested anyone for his murder.

The police have more important things to do with their time,' she snorted. My father was a liar and a cheat. He had hurt me in countless ways. But someone had killed him and not been punished, an I had to know why. So I booked a flight to Madrid and arranged to meet Blanca de la Rosa.

Cinernos

There are three cinemas in the town centre, all of which are in poor condition and create a bad impression on anyone visiting our town. The buildings are old, the seals are uncomfortable and each cinema has just one screen, so there is not much choice in terms of films.

Theatres and Consert halls

We are fortunate enough to have three theatres and a large concert hall in our town. Unlike the cinemas, these buildings are well maintained and offer both residents and tourists a wide variety of plays and concerts. However, overseas visitors comment on the high prices of tickets and this prevents many from attending shows.

Recommendations

I recommend that the council should outlaid new muiti-screen cinema complex, showing some original version films, particularly for the benefit of English-speaking courists to our town. I also suggest offering special discounts on theatre and concert tickets for the many young foreign people who some kere to study.

4 The question in 1 says that the report should consider visitors to the area. In each paragraph of the report in 2c and 3, how does the writer show the relevance of the report to visitors?

Example:

Introduction: the writer says that suggestions will be made 'in order to attract more visitors'.

- 5 a In the final paragraph of the report in 3, what structures are used after the verbs recommend and suggest?
 - b Underline any other language in 3 which could be used in the different reports for the question in 1.

Example:

in poor condition

6 Write your own answer for one of the other reports in the question in 1 on page 54. Write your report in 140-190 words.

How to go about it

- Write a plan for your report.
- Note down positive and negative points about the facilities in your area. For each negative point, consider a recommendation you could make.
- In your plan you could have two or three central paragraphs after the introduction, with a final paragraph containing your recommendations. Alternatively, you could include a recommendation in each paragraph.
- Give each paragraph a short title.

- Follow the instructions in the question carefully.
 Remember to make your report relevant to visitors to your area.
- If you are not sure what to write about, you can invent information.
- Write your report in an appropriate style and use a range of language.
 In this report for the mayor, a formal style.

What are/were some of the rules at your secondary school? Which of them do/did you agree or disagree with? Why? What punishments are/were imposed if you break/broke the school rules?

You are going to read an article in which people talk about school rules. For questions 1-10, choose from the people (A-D). The people may be chosen more than once.

- Read all the statements first, underlining key words.
- Read section A and match any statements you can. Underline the relevant parts of the text as you do 30.

 Do the same for the other three sections.
 Scan the whole text again to find information which relates to any remaining statements you have not yet matched.
Which person states the following?
I fail to understand the reason for a rule at my child's school.	1
Something which was forbidden at the school before is actively encouraged now.	2
School rules serve to prepare young people for the future.	3
I disagree with the element of choice offered to my child.	4
I did not realize that I had accepted a rule at my child's school.	5
School rules were clearer and easier to understand when I was at school.	6
Some school rules affected my ability to study.	7
There has been a decline in standards of behaviour at my child's school.	В
I was angry at the way my child was made to feel.	9
I was discouraged from voicing my opinion on a rule at my child's school.	10

How are the people feeling?

School rules

Four parents compare their school rules with those of their children

A Simon

When I was at school - more years ago than I care to remember - far too much emphasis was placed on what we could and couldn't do, and sometimes this got in the way of learning. We had to wear our jacket and tie at all times, no matter what the temperature, and I remember sitting there in the height of summer, sweating profusely as I battled with algebra or struggled with French verb

They didn't let us drink water in the classroom either. That would cause an outrage now. My daughter goes to the same school as I did, and we're asked to provide her with a refillable bottle, which she can take into class with her. They've realized that water improves concentration, so pupils almost have to drink it now.

At my son David's school, rule number one of their two-page Mobile Phone Policy states that 'pupils are strongly advised not to bring mobile phones to school; then there are sixteen more rules describing situations in which they can and cannot be used. It's very confusing it would be much simpler just to ban them altogether. That's what my old school would have done if mobile phones had been around then. Everything was black and white in those days, just like our school tie.

And that's another thing - David doesn't have to wear a tie if he doesn't want to, even though it's part of the uniform. That's just silly. I almost wrote to the school about it, but my son advised me against it. It seems that school rules are decided on jointly by students and teachers, and as a parent, I don't have any say in the matter.

C Lucy

My sixteen-year-old daughter isn't allowed to wear a nose stud to school on health and safety grounds. Can you believe it? According to the headteacher, in a busy school piercings present 'a very real risk of accidents', I 35 can't see why - they're no more dangerous than carrying a sharpened pencil in your pocket, and there's no rule against that, as far as I know. I used to wear earrings to school and never had any problems.

It seems I agreed to all this when I signed the school 40 rules document at the beginning of last term, but I honestly wasn't aware of any ban on tiny metal objects in the nose. We were given a couple of warnings, but I was still furious when they made her take it out and sent her home for the day; they humiliated her in front of her 45 classmates and there's no excuse for that.

D Andrew

It's gone from one extreme to the other. When I was a lad, we weren't allowed to have shoulder-length hair. at school. The headteacher cut it off in his office if we did, without so much as a phone call home. Now my boy

- 50 mustn't have his hair cut too short, otherwise he'll be suspended until it grows back to 'a suitable length'. He thinks it's unfair, but ultimately all rules, whatever they are, help to maintain order and get children ready for the real world.
- 55 As a lawyer, I don't need to be convinced of their importance - they're part of my daily life. If anything, they should tighten the rules up a bit more at my son's place. Discipline there has gone downhill in the last few years and the kids seem to do what they want.

Excelop your answers fully ard give reasons for your ennions.

Reacting to the text

Which of the school rules mentioned in the text do you find the most surprising? Do you think pupils should be involved in deciding what the school rules are? Should parents be asked to sign a school rules document?

How to get things really flat by Andrew Martin

This was by (0) FAR the best present I received last Christmas. It's an informative and amusingly written book, which is (1) funny that it had me laughing out loud (2) a number of occasions. Andrew Martin has managed (3) make the subject of housework entertaining, combining useful information and tips with recollections from his childhood and hilarious scenes from daily family life. (4) it's labelled 'a man's guide', it's intended for any 'person who does not know, or care, (5) day the dustbin men come, or where the bathroom cleaner is kept'.
The title of the book is a reference to ironing. Martin reassures us that this is (6) at all difficult, and he describes the correct order (7) which we should iron the various parts of a shirt. We also learn 'how to load a dishwasher without causing comment', how to vacuum stairs, and why a feather duster (8) from ostrich feathers is better than a synthetic one. An interesting read — highly recommended.

5 Read the text again and for questions 1-8, think of the word which best fits each gap. Use only one word in each gap. There is an example at the beginning (0). Write your answers IN CAPITAL LETTERS.

How to go about it

- Look at the words both before and after the gap, before you decide what the missing word is.
 For gaps 1–3, as for the example (0), key words have been underlined to help you make your decisions.
 No words are underlined in the First examination.
- Sometimes you will only be able to make the right decision by reading the whole sentence.
 For gap 4, read the whole sentence before deciding which linker to use.

4 Would you be interested in working as a firefighter? Why/Why not?

Language focus 2: Noun phrases

1 Read the following explanations and examples. Then complete the gap in each category with a further example from the box. There is an example at the beginning (0).

a Sunday newspaper a series of tests the top of the ladder workforce fire engine four weeks' work wine bottle next Friday's meeting a candidate's back and legs

There are a number of different ways of combining nouns.

A Noun + noun

Noun + noun is used in a large number of compound nouns to describe a single idea. Some are written as two words:

e.g. fire station (0) fire engine

Some are written as one word:

e.g. firefighter (1)

There are no rules to help you decide whether compound nouns are written as one word or two.

B Noun + of + noun

Where no compound noun exists, noun + of + noun is often used.

e.g. an important part of the job (2)

Noun + of + noun is used with words like top, bottom, back, front, beginning, middle, end to describe parts of e.g. the end of the week (3)

C Noun + 's/s' + noun

When talking about possession by a person, noun + 's/s' + noun is used.

e.g. the firefighter's equipment (4)

D Special distinctions

1 Noun + noun can be used for things which happen or appear regularly.

e.g. a Saturday job a day shift (5)

Noun +	's/s' + noun is used if they happen or appear once:
45.4	Para talk to the control of the cont

e.g. last Saturday's newspaper (6) or to show duration:

e.g. a day's journey (7)

2 Noun + noun is used for containers:

e.g. matchbox (8)

Noun + of + noun is used to refer to the contents of the containers:

e.g. a box of matches

a bottle of wine

2 Complete the sentences using noun phrases formed from the words in brackets.

1 I have a big breakfast at the __ (day; start) and several (coffee; cups) throughout the morning. I wouldn't be able to work/study if I didn't.

2 I've never had a (job; holiday); my _ (time; leisure) is too important to

Writing

Essay

Read the following Writing Part 1 instructions. How would you answer the essay question and what could you say for each of the three 'Things to write about' in the Notes?

In your English class you have been talking about the world of work. Your English teacher has asked you to write an essay.

Write an essay using all the notes and give reasons for your point of view.

Write your essay in 140-190 words.

Essay question It is better to work at home than in an office. Do you agree?

Notes

write about:

I contact with people

2 working hours

3 (your own idea)

- Read the answer below to the question in exercise 1 and discuss the following questions with your partner. Give examples from the answer.
 - a How well has the writer addressed the three points in the notes?
 - b How varied is the writer's language?
 - e How appropriate is the style?
 - d Does the writer use appropriate linking devices?

No. I don't agree. I'd prefer to work in an ofice.

If you work at home you can't talk to anyone - their's only you and the computer. No one else. It's not very helthy if you can't talk to people during the day. You don't hear other beoble's ideas and oppinions and you get a bit lonley with just the computer to talk to. You might talk to somebody on the phone but it's not the same.

OK, if your at home and you don't have contact with poesle, no one can talk to you and aisture you, so you do more work. So it's better to work at kome if you just want to work all the time. But talking to people makes life more intresting and it's pretty boring just working all the time. I think so, anyway.

Anyway, maybe you don't reacy have many working hours at home, because you have loads of coffee brakes and no one tells you. Yome on, ao some work!

so for all these reasons, my own idea is that it is better to work in an office than at home.

- 3 There are ten spelling mistakes in the answer above. Find the mistakes and correct them.
- Write an essay in 140-190 words on one of the following:
 - a Write your own answer to the question in 1 above.
 - b Write an answer to the following question.

In your English class you have been talking about the pressures that exist for young people nowadays. Your English teacher has asked you to write an essay.

Write an essay using all the notes and give reasons for your point of view.

Don't forget!

- Plan your essay. Consider all three points in the Notes.
- Write in a consistently formal or neutral style.
- Organize your ideas using paragraphs and linking devices.
- Include a suitable introduction and conclusion.
- Use a range of language and avoid repetition.
- Check your answer for accuracy.

- 3 Write five sentences, each containing one of the phrasal verbs from Vocabulary 1. Leave spaces where the phrasal verbs should be and ask your partner to complete the sentences with the correct phrasal verbs.

Collaborative task

Read tasks 1 and 2 below and the Useful language box. Then do the tasks with another student.

Imagine that a magazine for teenagers and young adults is going to publish a series of articles giving advice about relationships. Below are some of the relationships they want to include.

Talk to each other about what problems might arise in these relationships.

2 Now decide which two relationships teenagers and young adults would be most interested to receive advice on.

Multiple matching 1.32–1.36

You will hear five different people talking about problems in their relationships with other people. For questions 1-5, choose from the list (A-H) what each speaker says was the cause of the problem. Use the letters only once. There are three extra letters which you do not need to use.

- Underline key words and phrases in the eight options.
- Listen carefully both times before making your final decision.
- A the stress of working long hours
- B the other person's general lack of tolerance
- C having different ideas about how to keep someone occupied
- D the other person's lack of self-confidence

Language focus 1: Defining relative clauses

Defining relative clauses contain information which is essential for our understanding of the whole sentence.

 Look at these two extracts from the listening exercise and answer the questions.

I shared a flat once with someone who used to get annoyed about the silliest of things.

He'd also tell me off for cooking food that made the house smell.

The words in bold are relative pronouns. What alternative pronouns can be used?

Can the relative pronoun be omitted from these two sentences? Why/Why not?

2 A relative pronoun has been omitted from the following sentence. Where could it be inserted and which one(s) could be used?

The money we inherited from our grandmother wasn't divided equally between us.

Why is it possible to leave the pronoun out in this case?

3 Which of these two sentences is more formal?

The woman to whom I spoke had no idea what was going on.

The woman who I spoke to had no idea what was going on.

Can the relative pronoun be omitted from either of them?

- 4 Complete these sentences using when, where, why or whose.
 - a What's the name of the place _____ we had that accident last year?
 - b The reason _____ people from Mediterranean countries live so long is because they eat so well.

C	I'll always remember	the day	I started	my first job.
d	That's the woman	husband	you spoke	to on the phone.

Check your answers and read more about defining relative clauses on page 214 of the Grammar reference.

- 5 Complete each of the gaps below with an appropriate relative pronoun or relative adverb. Decide in which sentences there is more than one possibility and whether the word can be left out.
 - 1 I'd like to go back to the restaurant _____ we celebrated your birthday last year.
 - 2 Have you been to the new Spanish tapas bar _____ has just opened in the town centre?
 - 3 Ironic really. The person _____ car they stole had just finished a three-year prison sentence for car theft.
 - 4 Have you finished the book _____ I lent you?
 - 5 I wish I could remember the name of the man _____sold me this computer.
 - 6 The only thing _____ worries me is the cost. Will we be able to afford it?
 - 7 Here's that phone number _____ you wanted.
 - 8 I was born in 1969. That was the year _____ the first man landed on the Moon.
- 6 Complete the following sentences with your own ideas.

A good friend is someone who ...

I don't like people that ...

I'd like to have a job which ...

I'll never forget the time when ...

I wouldn't like to live in a country where ...

Compare your sentences with your partner's. Ask each other questions about what you have written.

Speaking 2

Interview C

In Speaking Part 1 you may be asked to talk about your family and friends. Talk to your partner, taking turns to ask and answer the questions.

How to go about it

- Do not just answer 'yes' or 'no' to the examiner's questions. Develop your answers by giving reasons or examples.
- Do not learn long pre-prepared answers. You are unlikely to sound natural and you may not answer the questions correctly.
- . Do you take after your mother or your father? In what way?
- What types of things do you enjoy doing with your family?
- · Describe the relationship you have with one of your family members.
- · Do you prefer celebrating your birthday with friends or family?
- Do you spend most of your free time on your own or with friends?
- What do you like most about your best friend?

Multiple-choice cloze

Who are the people in the photograph? How do you think they are feeling?

Do you like having your photograph taken? Why/Why not?

2 For questions 1-8, read the text below and decide which answer (A, B, C or D) best fits each gap. There is an example at the beginning (0).

Example:

A glanced

B looked

C seen

D stared

All four verbs are related to looking, but seen is the only appropriate word in the context. In addition, the other options, glanced, looked and stared would all be followed by the preposition at, which does not appear after the gap.

- Read through the whole text first, ignoring the gaps, to get a general idea of the content.
- When making your decisions, look at the words both before and after the gap.
 - In this exercise, relevant words have been underlined in the first paragraph to help you. (No words are underlined in the exam.)
- You should also consider the overall meaning of the whole sentence in which the gap appears. For question 7 in this particular exercise, you will also need to consider the meaning of the previous sentence.

Multiple choice

Describe one of your aunts or uncles. What sort of relationship do you have with him or her?

2 You are going to read a short story about an aunt. For questions 1-6, choose the answer (A, B, C or D) which you think fits best according to the text.

Don't forget!

- Read the whole story first for an overall understanding.
- For each question, eliminate the options which are clearly wrong, then check the option or options you have not eliminated.
- If you still cannot decide, choose one of the options.

Aunt Georgia

It was early June and Aunt Georgia, who lived down in London, came to help with the preparations for my sixteenth birthday party. She was the beautiful sister, with thick black

- 5 hair and eyes the colour of seaweed. She had been a ballet dancer in her youth and had kept her girlish figure. My mother was plump by comparison. Aunt Georgia arrived two days before the party in a fancy convertible sports
- 10 car with the top down. She had married well and was not one to hide her wealth. She pulled off her silk headscarf, shaking out her long hair, then kissed my mother and me. 'I'm so excited,' she cried. 'Where are we starting?'
- 15 We started with the glasses. My mother's idea had been to decorate ordinary wine glasses with coloured glass beads. While we sat around the kitchen table gluing the beads to the stems by hand, we talked about my
- 20 school, in particular my German classes. "The latest addition to her collection," my mother announced. The other language in my 'collection', apart from English, was French, which my Parisian father had always spoken
- 25 to me. My mother was envious because, as she was always saying, she had no gift for languages. 'My French really isn't what it should be,' she said again now – and I thought she looked a little uncomfortable. 'Your Aunt
- 30 Georgia was always the linguist in the family.' My aunt nodded and looked through the kitchen window at the garden. After a while, she said. 'I'm not sure about these glasses. They're a little downmarket, don't you think?
- 35 A bit tacky. Why don't we drive into town today and get some crystal champagne flutes?' My mother smiled. 'Georgia, they're far too expensive. Half of them will get broken anyway. These are fine.' 'They'll be a gift from
- 40 me, my aunt said. 'It's Clare's sixteenth after all. We shouldn't cut corners.'
 - We ate lunch outside and my aunt asked me about my summer holidays. I told her about

- my planned trip to Hamburg. 'A school trip?'
 45 she asked. 'Not exactly,' I said. 'I'm going to stay with my German penfriend, Johann.' Aunt Georgia frowned, and quickly changed the
- subject, asking my mother how she planned to decorate the garden. My mother told her 50 about the candles we had bought. 'Candles?'
 - my aunt said. 'We can do better than that, surely. We could wrap fairy lights around the trees, like they do in the Caribbean. Let's go into Manchester and look in Gamidges. I'm
- 55 sure they'll have something tasteful. While we're there, we could look for a dress for Clare.'
 - 'She's already got a dress,' my mother said. Aunt Georgia smiled. 'But is it something she'll want
- 60 to look at in photos in twenty years? I wish I'd known earlier. I could have had her something made. I've got a wonderful tailor in London,' 'It's fine, really,' my mother said. 'It fits perfectly and it's a lovely colour for her eyes.' My aunt
- 65 laughed. 'Oh darling,' she said to my mother. 'If only you knew about colour. It's the wrong tone for her skin. Anyway,' she added, looking at her watch, 'we'd better get going.'
- My aunt went upstairs to freshen up and I

 70 asked my mother: 'Why do you let her speak to you like that? She's been getting at you all morning. You should stand up for yourself.' My mother started to put the wine glasses back in their boxes, avoiding my eyes.
- 75 'What?' I asked.
 - 'Daddy was Aunt Georgia's French penfriend,' she said. 'They wrote to each other for a year and she was crazy about him.'
 - 'Daddy and Aunt Georgia?' I said, astonished.
- 80 'That's right. Then, the summer she was sixteen he came over to stay. The problem was...'
 - 'He fell in love with you instead.'
 - My mother nodded. 'We'll get the glasses and the fairy lights, but the dress is up to you.'

- 1 What does Aunt Georgia's choice of car tell us about her?
 - A She did not mind others knowing how rich she was.
 - B It was just one of several cars she drove.
 - C It enabled her to show off her hair.
 - D She enjoyed driving fast.

- 2 In the second paragraph we learn that the narrator's mother
 - A had no interest in learning French.
 - B was not a proficient language learner.
 - C disapproved of her daughter's German classes.
 - D disliked her husband speaking French to their daughter.
- 3 Why did Aunt Georgia disapprove of the wine glasses?
 - A Some of them were broken.
 - B Some of them had sharp edges.
 - C They seemed to be of low quality.
 - D They had been bought in a market.
- 4 When the narrator mentioned her German penfriend, Aunt Georgia
 - A was disappointed she had not been told before.
 - B was visibly pleased for her niece.
 - C expressed surprise at his name.
 - D did not want to talk about him.
- 5 What did Aunt Georgia suggest when talking about the dress?
 - A Her sister had little idea about choosing the right clothes.
 - B Her sister should have made the dress herself.
 - C Her niece was not a very fashionable teenager.
 - D Her niece did not look very good in photographs.
- 6 What does the narrator's mother suggest is the main cause of Aunt Georgia's behaviour towards her?
 - A Aunt Georgia's self-importance
 - B Aunt Georgia's feelings of jealousy
 - C the mother's poor organizational skills
 - D the mother's lack of taste

Reacting to the text

Why do you think the narrator's mother says 'We'll get the glasses and the fairy lights, but the dress is up to you'?

Language focus 2: Non-defining relative clauses

1 Look at the following sentence from the reading text.

Aunt Georgia, who lived down in London, came to help with the preparations for my sixteenth birthday party.

This sentence contains two separate ideas.

Main idea: Aunt Georgia came to help with the preparations for my sixteenth birthday party.

Second idea: Aunt Georgia lived down in London.

The information contained in the second idea is not essential to our understanding of the meaning of the main idea. A relative clause which contains non-essential information is called a non-defining relative clause.

- 2 Underline the correct alternative in the following rules for non-defining relative clauses.
 - a Who or which can/cannot be replaced by that.
 - b The relative pronoun can/cannot be omitted.
 - c Commas are/are not used.
 - Check your answers and read more about nondefining relative clauses on page 214 of the Grammar reference.
- 3 For 1–5, link the ideas contained in the two sentences to form one sentence. Use an appropriate relative pronoun (who, which, whose) or relative adverb (when, where) and make any other necessary changes. Don't forget to add commas.

Example.

Main idea: This photograph shows the royal family on the palace balcony.

Second idea: This photograph was taken in 1919.

This photograph, which was taken in 1919, shows the royal family on the palace balcony.

- Main idea: We spent the weekend in York.
 Second idea: My mother was born in York.
- 2 Main idea: My best friend has just got married. Second idea: My best friend always said she wanted to stay single.
- 3 Main idea: My oldest sister lives in Munich. Second idea: My oldest sister's husband is German.
- 4 Main idea: The best time to visit Iceland is in summer. Second idea: The average temperature in Iceland in summer is around ten degrees.
- 5 Main idea: He has to work on Saturdays.
 Second idea: He isn't very happy about the fact that he has to work on Saturdays.

Open cloze: Relative clauses

For questions 1–10 read the text below. Complete each of the gaps with either a relative pronoun (who, which, that, whose) or a relative adverb (when, where). If there is more than one possibility, or the word can be left out, you should also indicate this. There is an example at the beginning (0).

Family members' yawns are most contagious

A phenomenon (0) who	ich/lhal has long perplexed scientists is 'vawn cont
	ve see other people doing so.
	ed the behaviour was a form of another, it was unclear what determines whether we 'catch' a yawn or not. Now a new study has shown that the biggest factor in whether or not a yawn is contagious is the relationship between the yawner and the person (3) _____ hears or sees it. Prof Elisabetta Palagi, (4) ____ co-authored the study, said: 'We found that the most important factor is not nationality, the colour of skin, different cultural habits, sex or age of the people involved, but the type of relationship (5) ____ linked the two people.'

The study was carried out in Europe, North America, Asia and Africa, (6) researchers from the University of Pisa in Italy analysed 480 bouts of yawning among 109 adults over a 12-month period. They found that the people (7) yawns we are most likely to catch are close family members, followed by friends, then acquaintances and lastly strangers. The results also showed that the delay in (8) a yawn is passed on is longer between strangers than between people (9) know each other well. Children do not develop contagious yawning until the age of four or five, (10) they also develop the ability to interpret other people's emotions properly.

Vocabulary 2: Describing people

A Personality

1 The following adjectives can all be used to describe a person's character. Which of them are positive and which are negative? Make two groups in your notebook.

sociable	mean	tolerant	patient	sensitive	polite sincere	selfish	decisive	lazy	reliable	cheerful practical	mature	bad-tempered	adventurous	moody	sensible

2 Arrange the adjectives in exercise 1 into the columns below according to the prefix which is used to form the negative. If none of the prefixes is used for a particular word, write a new word which expresses the opposite idea.

un-	in-	im-	different word
un sociable	-) :=		mean – generous
		- 33 - 5

Think of two people you know, for example a relative and a friend, and describe what these people are like, using the adjectives you have just studied to help you.

Appearance

1 One adjective in each group is not normally used before the noun in capital letters.

Underline the adjective which does not fit.

Writing

Article

- Read the following Writing Part 2 instructions.
 You see this notice on your school noticeboard.
- 2 Read the model answer below. Which of the three people in the illustrations is most similar to the one described in the answer?

INFLUENCES

- Which person has had a big influence on you?
- How has this person influenced you?

Write us an article for the school magazine describing the person and saying how he or she has influenced you.

Cieer up, chicken!"

That's what my grandmother, my Nana, says me when things are'nt going well. Then she tells me, B'll turn out all right at the end, you'll see.' And whe's nearly always right.

So when I'm ill, or I've fell out with a friend or I'm just feeling down, I imagine Nana, with her winkled, but smiling face and sparkling blue eyes, saying her words of encouragement to me. And although my problems they don't just magically disappear, they don't seem so bad any more and I'm in better mood to sort them out.

liena has laught me to be positive in difficult moments. Ske's had many of them in her long and hard life. But despite this, she has a straight back and a determined look on her face. Always she is cheerful and I've never seen her in a bad temper.

So even though she's nearly half my size and such small that she sometimes wears children's clothes, she's the person I most look up at in my family. She's a little lady with a big influence.

- 3 The model answer contains eight mistakes. Read the article again and correct the eight mistakes.
- 4 What techniques does the writer use:
 - a to attract and interest the reader at the beginning of the article?
 - b to leave the reader something to think about at the end of the article?
- 5 Find examples in the model answer of the following features:
 - a language of description, e.g. her wrinkled, but smiling face and sparkling blue eyes.
 - b phrasal verbs, e.g. cheer up
 - e linking words, e.g. Then
- 6 Write your own answer to the question in exercise 1 in 140–190 words.

Don't forget!

- Begin with an interesting opening paragraph.
- Include direct questions or direct speech for a lively article.
- Use contractions and phrasal verbs for an informal style.
- Include a range of descriptive language and linking words.
- Leave the reader something to think about at the end.
- Give your article a catchy title.

Relative clauses

Decide whether the relative clause in each of the following sentences is defining or non-defining. If the relative clause is non-defining, add commas in the appropriate place(s). If it is defining, say whether the relative pronoun or adverb can be omitted or not. There are two examples at the beginning (0 and 00).

- 0 My father who works in a chocolate factory never eats sweet things. Non-defining – add commas after father and factory.
- 00 There'll be a prize for the student who tells the most jokes in five minutes.

Defining - the relative pronoun who cannot be omitted.

- 1 Lady Gaga whose real name is Stefani Joanne Angelina Germanotta was born on March 28 1986.
- 2 What's the name of the village where you got married?
- 3 He hasn't given me back the book that I lent him.
- 4 She told me that Vasilis had failed his driving test which didn't surprise me at all.
- 5 That song always reminds me of the time when I was working in Brazil.
- 6 He's the only person in this class whose first name begins with 'Z'.
- 7 Emma received a phone call from her Managing Director who had been impressed by her sales performance.
- 8 Few written records have survived so it is a period of history about which we know very little.

Ready for Reading

Introduction

In the Reading and Use of English paper there are three reading texts.

Understanding of each of the three texts is tested in a different way with a different type of task each time.

Part 5: Multiple choice

1 Part 5 consists of a text followed by six multiple-choice questions, each with four options. Before answering the questions, you should always read the text through quite quickly to get an idea of the overall meaning. Read the text on page 83 and answer the following questions:

What is the purpose of the text? Where might you expect to find it?

2 In all of the reading tasks there will inevitably be words you do not know the meaning of. On many occasions it is not essential for you to understand these words in order to complete the task, and you can ignore them. If necessary, though, you may be able to use the context in which the word appears to help you work out the meaning.

Find the words below in the first three paragraphs of the text, and then use the context and the clues below to work out the approximate meaning of each one. The number in brackets refers to the line in which the word appears.

(1) pump (verb What does your heart do all the time you are alive?

(7) intake (noun) This word is composed of two parts: what are they?

What does the rest of the paragraph talk about in relation to water?

(12) raging (adjective) What type of thirst do you develop in high temperatures if you wait for a long time before you have a drink?

(13) swig (noun) Look at the advice given in the first half of this sentence.

What type of action, therefore, is 'to take a swig' of water?

(15) palatable (adjective) What do you improve by adding fruit juice to water?

- 3 Use context to work out the meanings of the words in bold in the second column of the text on page 83. These words will help when you answer questions 3, 4 and 6 on page 83.
- 4 For questions 1-6 on page 83, choose the answer (A, B, C or D) which you think fits best according to the text.

A walk in the midday sun When the heat is on, walkers need to be on their guard

Hot weather makes your heart pump harder, and if you're not very fit, you start to understand why the majority of mountain rescue statistics are made up from summer walkers suffering heart attacks. Heat exhaustion is quite easy to get when you're making a great physical effort. It happens where your body czn't produce enough sweat to keep you cool.

The answer is to keep up your water intake. It's a good idea to crink a pint of water for every 10 degrees Fahrenheit every 24 hours. So, if the temperature is in the 70s, and you are doing a five-hour walk, you'll need a minimum of around one and a half pints of water. It's vital that you don't wait until you develop a 40 raging thirst before you stop for a drink – keep taking regular swigs from your water bottle.

Many walkers flavour their water with fruit juice, which makes it a lot more palatable. You could even use one of the isotonic drinks made for athletes, which replace the body's salts lost through sweating. Powders such as Dioralyte, which you may have in the house as a treatment for diarrhoea, will do the job just as well, as its main aim is also effective rehydration.

20 Given that evaporation is your body's cooling mechanism, you can help things along with an external application of water. Snaking your hat with water is a great way to cool the head, though if the sun is beating down, it will probably dry off almost immediately. Better still, then, if you can plunge into

25 a river or the sea fully-clothed. And if that's not possible, then at least take off your boots and socks and paddle in a cool stream. 55

Walking in the heat increases the rate at which your feet swell, which can lead to them feeling tight in your boots. Cool water from a stream reduces any swelling and helps general foot comfort. At the same time, you can check out your feet for signs of blisters. Extra sweating makes the skin softer and increases the chance of blisters forming, in the same way as when water leaks into your boots and gets to your feet.

As for what clothing you wear, this should be lightweight and reasonably loose-fitting. Tight clothing will feel uncomfortable and may even lead to the formation of an irritating rash known as 'prickly heat' on your skin. The answer, if this does develop, is to try and stay cool as much as possible. Do this by either keeping in the shade, or washing the affected area with cold water, but without soap. But prevention is by far the best approach, so keep your clothing light.

It's understandable to want to remove any extraneous clothing when it's extremely hot, but it doesn't really make much sense to take off T-shirts. The sun's rays can be quite strong, and

- 45 shoulders are always very sensitive to sunburn. This is the worst place to be red and sore when you are wearing a heavy rucksack on your back. Wearing shorts can also create problems for walkers, as the backs of the legs can catch the sun very easily.
- 50 In fact, those days when an apparently harmless breeze is blowing can be the most deceptive. It might not feel so hot, so you probably won't notice the damage being done so soon. As on every other day then, a good strong sun cream should therefore he applied to any skin which is exposed. Make the most of the summer, but treat the sun with the respect it deserves.

- I The writer says that hot weather
 - A is the main cause of heart attacks.
 - B ensures that mountain walkers stay fit.
 - C requires walkers to have frequent drinks.
 - D is the worst type of weather for mountain walking.
- 2 What does the writer say about 'Dioralyte'?
 - A It helps to reduce sweating.
 - B It prevents the loss of body salts.
 - C It will prevent you getting diarrhoea.
 - D It works in the same way as an isotonic drink.
- 3 According to the text, when might your feet suffer?
 - A when they are wet
 - B when they cool down
 - C when your boots are the wrong size.
 - D when you walk long distances in the heat

- 4 According to the writer, it is better to wear loosefitting clothing because
 - A it keeps you cool.
 - B it is usually very light.
 - C it lasts longer than tight-fitting clothing.
 - D it is less likely to create problems for your skin.
- 5 What does the writer mean by 'extraneous' clothing in line 42?
 - A clothing which most people would consider unusual in hot weather
 - B clothing which is no longer needed to keep you warm
 - C clothing which is too heavy to wear
 - D clothing which is too tight
- 6 According to the writer, when are walkers particularly at risk from the effects of the sun?
 - A if their sun cream is not strong enough
 - B when they are unaware of the heat
 - C if they have suffered an injury
 - D when there is a strong wind

Part 6: Gapped text

1 Part 6 consists of a text from which sentences have been removed and placed in a different order after the text. You have to decide which part of the text the sentences have been removed from. This task tests your understanding of the way texts are structured, so look carefully at the language both before and after the gap.

What to expect in the exam

Each correct answer in Parts 5 and 6 receives two marks; correct answers in Part 7 receive one mark each.

- 2 Read the headline and first paragraph of the newspaper article about the Siberian city of Yakutsk. What aspects of life in Yakutsk do you think might be mentioned in the article?
- 3 Read through the base text (the main text with the gaps). Are any of your ideas from exercise 2 mentioned?

The coldest city on earth

Shaun Walker enjoys a mini-break in deepest Siberia

Yakutsk, in Eastern Siberia (population 200000), can convincingly claim to be the coldest city on earth. In January, the most freezing month, average 'highs' are around minus 40°C; today the temperature is hovering around minus 43°C, leaving the city covered in a blanket of freezing fog that restricts visibility to 10 metres. I have come here to find out for myself how people manage to survive in the world's coldest place.

10 Before venturing outdoors for the first time, I put on a suitcase's worth of clothes to protect me against the cold, including a thermal undershirt, a long-sleeved T-shirt, a tight-fitting cashmere jumper, a padded winter coat with hood, two pairs of gloves and a woolly football hat. 1 The small part of my face that is naked to the elements definitely notices the cold air, but on the whole, it feels fine. As long as you're dressed right, I think, this isn't too bad.

After the gap, 'the cold air' tells us the writer is outside, so the missing sentence will probably serve as a transition from putting on the clothes to going outside.

2 The first place to suffer is the exposed skin on my face, which experiences shooting pains and goes numb. Then the cold penetrates the double layer of gloves and sets to work on chilling my fingers. The woolly hat and padded hood are no match for minus 43°C either, and my ears begin to sting. Finally, I find myself with severe pain all across my body and have to return indoors.

In the previous paragraph the writer is untroubled by the cold: 'it feels fine', 'this isn't too bad'. In this paragraph he begins to suffer. The missing sentence will probably refer to this contrast.

Despite the fact that the locals are stoically going about their business, and children are playing in the snow on the central square and laughing merrily, I realize that I'll need a warm taxi to continue my exploration. 3 I collapse on the bed in the hotel room, and it takes half an hour for my body to feel normal again.

In the missing sentence the writer may refer to his planned exploration of Yakutsk and/or explain why he collapses on his hotel bed.

Workers continue working on building sites up to minus 50°C, and children go to school unless it's below minus 55°C. 'Of course it's cold, but you get used to it,' says Nina, a Yakut woman who spends eight hours every day

Yakut woman who spends eight hours every day standing at her stall in the fish market. 'Human beings can get used to anything,' she says.

Almost without exception, the women wear fur from head to toe. 'In Europe you have people 5 who say it's not nice to wear fur because they love animals,' says Natasha, a Yakutsk resident, who is wearing a coat made of rabbit and a hat of arctic fox. 'They should come and live in Siberia for a couple of months and then see if they are still so

50 worried about the animals. You need to wear fur here to survive. 5

'For us, the winter is like the working week and the summer is like the weekend,' says local blogger Bolot Bochkarev. The short summer, when the temperature hits 30°C or 35°C for two or three weeks, is a time when efforts are made to ensure that the region is ready for winter.

[6] If they fail, those stuck without warmth risk death. The whole region suffers harsh 60 winters. A few hundred miles away is Oimyakon, known as 'The Pole of Cold'. It was here that the lowest ever temperature in an inhabited place was recorded – minus 71.2°C.

4 Six sentences have been removed from the article. Choose from the sentences A-G the one which fits each gap (1-6). There is one extra sentence which you do not need to use.

How go about it

- The comments in italics contain predictions about the general content of the missing sentences for gaps 1–3. Use the words in hold in the rest of the base text to make similar predictions about the missing sentences for gaps 4–6.
- Read sentences A–G. Use your predictions to help you choose the correct sentence for each gap 1–6.
- As you make your choices, underline words or phrases in sentences A–G which show links with the words in bold in the base text.
- Check your answers by reading through the whole article again to ensure that it makes sense. Check that the extra sentence does not lit into any of the gaps.

Note: In the exam, no help is given: you should make predictions and underline key words and phrases yourself.

- A The thirteen minutes I have spent outside have left me out of breath and aching all over.
- B Even wearing glasses gets tricky: the metal sticks to your checks and will tear off your skin when you remove them.
- C I'm ready to face everything Yakutsk has to throw at me and I stride purposefully out of the hotel door.
- D Heating pipes are examined and repaired.
- E Locals are a little more skilled at dealing with the cold.
- F Nothing else keeps you warm.
- G Within a few minutes, however, the icy weather begins to make itself felt.
- 5 If you had to live in either extreme heat or extreme cold, which would you choose and why?

Part 7: Multiple matching

- 1 Part 7 consists of either one continuous text divided into sections, or a number of smaller texts. Ten questions or statements are placed before the text(s). For this task you are asked to find the specific information in the text(s) which matches the questions or statements.
- 2 Look at the book covers and/or the book titles and discuss the following in pairs or small groups:

Which, if any, of them have you read, either in English or your own language? Have you seen film versions of any of them?

What do you know about the story and/or characters in each one?

3 Read the following Part 7 instructions.

You are going to read an article in which children's writer Leroy Hadley describes his five favourite classic works of children's literature. For questions 1–10, choose from the books (A–E). The books may be chosen more than once.

How to go about it

- Underline key words in the statements before the text. Numbers 1–4 have been done for you.
- Read each of the sections (A–E) looking for information which matches that contained in the statements.

One of the answers (4) for A has been given, with the relevant part of the text underlined.

There are two more statements which match A; find the statements and underline the relevant parts of the text. Then do the same for B-E.

 If there are any statements you have not matched, scan the text again looking for the information you need.

What to expect in the exam

- The words used in the statements (1–10) will not be the same as the words used in the relevant parts of the text, but they do express the same idea, e.g. 4 A
- The information in a particular section could lead you to make the wrong choice, e.g. In section D'My mother read this to me when I was ten' might lead you to match it to statement 1, but later in section D we read: 'I read it on my own afterwards.'

I have still not actually read it myself .	[1]
A lot of people are surprised by one of its features.	2
The author shows his main characters in a positive light.	3
I have not had it for very long.	4 4
I read the original version of this story as a child.	5
It shows a way of life which unfortunately does not exist now.	6
It reminds me of a certain period of my life.	7
The story proved to be very educational.	8
Children will find it easier to read than the other books in this selection.	9
The beginning of the book gave me ideas for the start of my latest work.	10

Children's Classics

Children's author Leroy Hadley picks his five favourite children's classics.

A The Call of the Wild by Jack London This book is a recent addition to my collection. I seemed to have missed it as a child and I'd been meaning to read it for years. I ordered it on the Internet a few months ago, together with the audiobook so that my daughters could listen to it in the car. The CD arrived first and we all loved it - the actor reading it really brought the text to life and made us love, admire and feel pity for Buck the dog, who is kidnapped and forced into pulling sledges in the freezing cold Yukon during the Gold Rush in the late 19th century. We learnt a lot about how hard life was for the gold prospectors and the girls were motivated to find out more. In the end I didn't bother with the book - I might do one day.

C The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe by CS Lewis

Of all the books here that I read when I was growing up, this was the only one which wasn't adapted or abridged in any way. Being more modern than the rest – it was published in 1950 – the language is still fairly accessible for younger readers and there's less danger of them becoming frustrated with the style. It's the perfect fantasy adventure, with daring children, a talking lion and other magical creatures doing battle with the lorces of darkness led by the White Witch. I loved it as a child and still find it totally absorbing.

B The Adventures of Tom Sawyer by Mark Twain

I love the humour in this book and the great affection with which Mark Twain writes about his protagonists. Tom and his friend Huckleberry Finn, who both come across as checky, but likeable rogues. We laugh at the innocence of childhood, as Tom tries to win the affections of Becky Thatcher, we smile nostalgically as he and Huck imagine they are pirates who go digging for treasure, and we hold our breath in fear when form and Becky are lost in a cave. Despite the dangers, it's sad to think that young children can no longer play like Tom and his friends, that they no longer have the freedom to go off in search of adventure without the presence of an interfering adult.

D Treasure Island by Robert Louis:

My mother read this to me when I was ten, and rather than being scared by the likes of Long John Silver, Black Dog or Blind Pew, I couldn't help laughing at the hilarious range of voices she gave the different pirates in the book. I laughed, too, when I read it on my own afterwards, my mother's humorous voices still ringing in my ears. Stevenson writes with a good deal of humour anyway, something which many aren't expecting when they read the book for the first time. They are familiar with the story but not the way it is told.

This lovingly told tale of the adventures of a group of animal friends – Mole, Water Rat, Toad and Badger – brings back memories of my teenage years, when I lived in a house on a river bank. Grahame evokes wonderfully the sounds, sights and smells of the countryside and creates an atmosphere of peace and tranquillity, which is becoming increasingly difficult to find in today's world. I read the book again two years ago, and the first chapter, when Mole first meets Rat, provided the inspiration for the opening of my most recent novel Harvest Mouse. I can only dream that it will be as popular as The Wind in the Willows.

Reading and Use of English

Gapped text

- Look at the title of the article and read the first paragraph. What reasons do you think the writer will give for hating clothes shopping?
- 2 Read the base text (the text without the missing sentences). Does the article mention any of the ideas you spoke about in exercise 1?
- 3 Six sentences have been removed from the article. Choose from the sentences A-G on page 91 the one which fits each gap (1-6). There is one extra sentence which you do not need to use.

Why I hate shopping

Football does it to some people. For others it's home improvements. But in my case, when the conversation turns to clothes shopping, my eyes glaze over and I start staring into space, thinking of a hundred and one other topics I'd rather be discussing. Like football, or home improvements.

I've always detested shopping for clothes, ever since the days when I used to get dragged around the town by my mother to hunt down a new pair of school trousers, summer sandals or a winter coat.

Believe me, I've tried many times to enjoy the whole shopping experience, but there are just too many reasons to hate it.

The first obstacles to overcome are the sales assistants. I can never seem to get rid of them. They are impatient for a sale, hungry for commission, and I feel pressured into trying things on I know I'm not going to like. It's almost a relief to get to the changing room – perhaps they'll find someone else to bother now. 2 But there is all delivery of a plant of the someone else to bother now. 1 ordered only clothes on the source and some one some or at least unto of hygiene. So the torture of unavoidable?

But there is all delivery of a plant of the some or at least unto of hygiene. So the torture of unavoidable?

But there is all delivery of a plant of the some or at least unto of hygiene. So the torture of unavoidable?

But there is all delivery of a plant of the some or at least unto of hygiene. So the torture of unavoidable?

But there is all delivery of a plant of the some or at least unto of hygiene. So the torture of unavoidable?

But there is all delivery of a plant of the some or at least unto of hygiene. So the torture of unavoidable?

But there is all delivery of a plant of the some or at least unto of hygiene. So the torture of unavoidable?

Feeling claustrophobic now, I work quickly to put an end to my suffering. But it's never straightforward. 3 Trousers are the worst.

30 Right waist, wrong length. Right length, wrong cut. So I hurriedly put my own clothes back on and head off in search of my size, careful to avoid any assistants as I do so.

When I do find something I'm more or less satisfied with, I often have to leave it in the shop for a week to have it shortened, lengthened, taken in or let out. And when I go to pick it up, I wonder what on earth led me to buy it in the first place. 4 It makes it difficult to 40 appreciate the true colour of the garment, and you can never really know for certain what you've bought until you get it outside in the street.

Part of my problem in all this, I suppose, is that I 45 just can't get excited about clothes.

5 I can wear the same baggy old T-shirt for days on end, or at least until I have to change it for reasons of hygiene. So why would I put myself through the torture of shopping unless it were absolutely so unavoidable?

But there is an alternative. I have just taken delivery of a pair of trousers for work, which I ordered online. It's the first time I've bought clothes on the Internet – and it probably won't so be the last. 6 Importantly, I don't have to suffer all the hassle of crowded stores, pushy shop assistants, tiny changing rooms and deafening music to do this. A simple trip to the post office is all that's needed. Now that's a 60 shopping experience I'm happy to go through.

- A They don't lit, it's true, but I can easily return them and ask for a larger size.
- B I'm not bothered if I look scruffy, as long as I feel comfortable.
- C Things don't get any better there, though.
- D At last they move away and leave me to look around in peace.
- E The shop's fluorescent lighting is sometimes to blame for this.
- F Why is it that nothing ever fits on the first attempt?
- G Now I shop alone, but my heart still sinks when I have to buy new shoes or replace a favourite pair of jeans that have finally fallen apart.

Reacting to the text

Do you share the writer's opinions? Why/Why not?

If you had to write a different article entitled 'Why I hate ...', what topic would you write about and what reasons would you give for hating it?

Language focus 1: Present perfect simple

- 1 The present perfect links past events and situations with the present. The present perfect is used:
 - 1 to describe something that started in the past and continues until the present.
 - I've always detested shopping for clothes, ever since the days when I used to get dragged around the town by my mother ...
 - 2 to describe events which occurred at some time between the past and the present (exactly when they happened is not important).
 - I've tried many times to enjoy the whole shopping experience, but there are just too many reasons to hate it.
 - 3 to talk about something which occurred in the past but in an unfinished time period which includes the present. So far this morning I've bought a pair of jeans, a casual shirt and a jumper. (It is still the morning and I may buy more things.)
 - 4 to talk about recent past events with some relevance to the present.
 - I have just taken delivery of a pair of trousers for work, which I ordered online. (I now have the trousers.)
 - 5 to talk about the first, second, third etc time something has occurred between the past and the present. It's the first time I've bought clothes on the Internet.

- 2 Which of the five descriptions above can be used to explain the use of the present perfect simple in these sentences?
 - a Your parents have just arrived. I can hear their car.
 - b I've known Keith since we started school together.
 - Sue has worked in a number of different countries.
 - d That must be the tenth time you've told me that joke!
 - Ben's already sent me fifteen text messages this week.
 - f Mrs Avery has lived in that house for over sixty years.
 - g This film's very familiar I think I've seen it before.
 - h I've lost my glasses. Can you help me look for them?
- 3 a Decide which time expressions in the box you would use with the present perfect and which with the past simple. Make two groups of expressions in your notebook.

yet last summer in September so far todav in the last few days since I got up two weeks ago before | came here for the last two years over the last week on my 10th birthday when I was younger already this month

b Choose four expressions from each group in exercise 3a and write true sentences about yourself, using the appropriate tense.

Example:

So far today I've eaten three bars of chocolate. I went to see a basketball match on my 10th birthday.

Compare your sentences with your partner's. Ask each other questions about what you have written.

Example:

Have you eaten anything else? Which teams did you see play?

Read more about the present perfect on page 215 of the Grammar reference.

Vocabulary 2: Paraphrasing and recording

- 1 If you paraphrase a sentence, you use different words to express the same meaning.
 - a In 1-8 below, complete each gap with one word so that the second sentence has the same meaning as the first. The second sentence is taken from the reading text on page 90. There is an example at the beginning (0). Do the exercise without looking at the reading text on page 90.
 - 0 I start to look straight in front of me without looking at anything in particular. I start staring into space ... (4)
 - 1 I can never seem to make them go away.
 I can never seem to get ______ of them. (16)
 - 2 I work quickly to stop my suffering.

 I work quickly to _____ an end to my suffering. (27–28)
 - 3 You can never really be certain about what you've bought.

 You can never really know _____ certain what you've bought. (41–42)

What to expect in the exam

Paraphrasing is relevant in all areas of the First exam.

- In the Reading and Listening tasks, multiple-choice and multiple-matching questions often paraphrase what is written in the text or said in the recording.
- In the Writing and Speaking papers, you should avoid repeating the same language and use a wide range of vocabulary and structures.
- In Part 4 of the Reading and Use of English paper, the transformations test your ability to paraphrase.

- 5 Why would I make myself suffer the torture of shopping?
 Why would I put myself ______ the torture of shopping? (48–49)
- 6 A pair of trousers has just been delivered to me.
 I have just _______ delivery of a pair of trousers. (51–52)
- 7 The only thing I need to do is go to the post office.
 A simple trip to the post office is ______ that's needed. (58–59)
- 8 I still get depressed when I have to buy new shoes.
 My ______ still sinks when I have to buy new shoes. (G)
- b Check your answers in the reading text on page 90. The numbers in brackets refer to the lines in the text; the letter in 8 refers to the sentence G.
- 2 Paraphrasing is a useful way to record vocabulary. Paraphrase the following sentences from the reading text and record both sentences in your vocabulary notebook. You do not need to change every word in the sentence. The first one has been done for you.
 - $\mathbf{a}\,$... when the conversation turns to clothes shopping ...(2–3)
 - ... when people start talking about clothes shopping ...
 - $\boldsymbol{b}\,$... I feel pressured into trying things on ... (18–19)
 - c 1 break into a sweat. (25-26)
 - d I head off in search of my size. (32)
 - e I'm not bothered if I look scruffy ... (B)
 - f The shop's fluorescent lighting is sometimes to blame for this. (E)

Listening 2 Part 4

Multiple choice 1.46

- What are the advantages and disadvantages of living in the country and living in a city? Which would you prefer?
- You will hear part of a radio programme in which two people, Rebecca and Greg, are interviewed about their life in the countryside. For questions 1-7, choose the best answer (A. B or C).
- I Rebecca moved out of the city to escape
 - A the traffic.
 - B the noise.
 - C the pollution.
- 2 What gives Greg less cause for concern now that he lives in the countryside?
 - A his neighbours' opinions
 - B the amount of violent crime
 - C his children's safety
- 3 Rebecca regrets the fact that
 - A she does not live close to local amenities.
 - B she does not have much privacy.
 - C she is unable to drive.
- 4 What does Greg say about buses where he lives?
 - A They are too infrequent.
 - B They are unreliable.
 - C There is no service.

without to

- 5 How does Greg react to Rebecca's concerns that her children may grow bored?
 - A He sympathizes with teenagers who live in the country.
 - B He advises her to move back to the city when they are older.
 - C He criticizes parents who do not do enough for their children.
- 6 What does Greg say about the future?
 - A He will probably move back to the city.
 - B He says that the future is uncertain.
 - C He would like to work in an office.
- 7 What inconvenience does Rebecca mention in relation to her return to work?
 - A Her children will have to change schools.
 - B She will spend very little time at home.
 - C Her journey to work will be time-consuming.

Language focus 2: Expressing preferences

- 1 The following sentences from the listening show three different ways of expressing preferences.
- prefer + gerund/noun + to + gerund/noun Now we prefer living with less noise (to living/life in a
- noisy city). would prefer + infinitive with to + rather than + infinitive
- I'd prefer to stay in the village and work at home rather than do a nine-to-five job in an office.
- would (much) rather + infinitive without to + than + infinitive without to
- I'd rather drive to work than go back to living in the city.
- 2 Complete the second sentence so that it has a similar meaning to the first sentence. Use up to five words,
 - 1 We'd prefer to come back later rather than wait here.
 - 2 I think it's better to pay by cash than use a credit card, I prefer using a credit card.

3 I'd rather phone him than send an email.

4 She wants to stay in bed longer.

I'd prefer

She'd rather send an email.

- 3 a Which of the following do you prefer doing and why?
 - playing sport or watching it
 - · downloading music or buying CDs
 - a pizza or having one delivered
 - · giving presents or receiving them
 - b Which of the following would you rather do if you could or had to choose? Why?
 - learn another language or perfect your English
 - · live abroad for five years or stay in your own country
 - go whitewater rafting or do a parachute jump
 - do a poorly paid but stimulating job or earn a high salary doing something dull

Vocabulary 3: Towns and villages a Complete each gap with a word from the box to form places you might find in a village, town or city. The first one has been done for you.

building flats housing industrial residential office pedestrian shopping

- 1 This charming three-bedroomed villa is located in a quiet residential area.
- 2 You can't drive down Bromley Way any more it's a _____ street now.
- 3 My uncle lives on the fifteenth floor of a huge block of
- 4 I usually buy my clothes at the indoor _____ centre on the edge of town: there's so much choice under one roof.
- 5 Most of the ______ blocks here are occupied by insurance companies and law firms.
- 6 Property prices fell and all building work stopped, leaving a number of abandoned sites around the town.
- 7 They knocked down all the houses and built an _____estate for small manufacturing businesses.
- 8 It's easy to get lost on the _____ estate where I live: all the properties look exactly the same.
- b Can you think of an example for each of the places in 1a in the area where you live? Are they on the outskirts of your town or village or in the centre? Are any within easy walking distance of your home?
- 2 The following adjectives can all be used to describe a town or a village. Which of them are positive and which are negative? Make two groups in your notebook.

lively	pleasant	run-down	picturesque	shabby dull	quaint	depressing	prosperous	bustling

Which adjectives would you use to describe the area where you live?

Interview (

In Part 1 of the Speaking exam, you may be asked to talk about where you live. Ask and answer the following questions with your partner.

Don't forget!

Develop your answers by giving reasons or examples.

- · What are the amenities like in your local area? (e.g. shops, sports facilities, cinemas, libraries)
- Is everything within easy walking distance?
- What are the good points about living where you do?
- Is there anything you don't like about it?
- What changes have there been in your local area in recent years?
- Have they been changes for the better or for the worse?
- Do you think you will always live in the same area?

Language focus 3: Present perfect continuous

- 1 The present perfect continuous can be used:
- 1 to emphasize the duration of a situation or activity.

 You've been living in a village for nearly five years now.
- 2 to suggest that a situation or activity is temporary.

 I'm decorating my room so I've been sleeping on the sofa.
- 3 to suggest that a situation or activity is incomplete.

We've been painting the house. We hope to finish it soon.

4 to focus on the repetition of a situation or activity.

I've been trying to phone Tim all day, but there's no reply.

Like the present perfect simple, the continuous form can be used to talk about the effects in the present of a recent past event.

Continuous: I think she's been crying. Her eyes are very red. (activity)

Simple: You've cut yourself. There's blood on your shirt. (single action)

However, it is not normally used to talk about the number of things that have been completed.

Continuous: I've been writing letters this morning. (focus on the activity)

Simple: I've written five letters this morning. (focus on the finished result)

- 2 For questions 1–4 explain the difference in meaning between sentence a and b and why the present perfect simple or continuous is used in each case.
 - 1 a I've been reading that book you lent me. I can't put it
 - b I've read that book you lent me. I really enjoyed it.
 - 2 a They've been going to the supermarket to do their shopping recently.
 - b They've gone to the supermarket to do their shopping. They'll be back at 12.00.
 - 3 a I've been baking all day. I'm exhausted.
 - b I've baked a couple of cakes. Would you like to try one?
 - 4 a She's been living with her sister since June, just until she finds a place of her own.
 - b She's lived with her sister for over 80 years.
- 3 Complete the gaps in this telephone conversation with the past simple, the present perfect simple or the present perfect continuous form of the verbs in brackets.

4 Work in pairs. Read the following then do the roleplay below.

For the last six months, a small group of young people has been living on an otherwise uninhabited tropical island as part of an experiment in survival. They will be there for another six months.

A group of journalists has been allowed to land on the island and interview the young castaways about their experiences since the beginning of the experiment. Here are some examples of what they will ask about:

finding and preparing food entertainment relationships shelter and clothing health and fitness other

Student A

You are a journalist. You should prepare your questions for the interview. Write questions which focus on:

- a Activities: e.g. What have you been using to hunt with?
- b Completed actions: e.g. Have you caught many fish?

Student B

You are a castaway. You should prepare some answers for the interview. Write sentences on:

- a Activities: e.g. I've been eating fruit from the trees.
- b Completed actions: e.g. We've built a very basic kitchen.

Now roleplay the interview.

Email

- 1 Read the two Writing Part 2 tasks and answer the questions for each one. Would a formal or informal style be appropriate in the email you write? Why?
- A You have been asked to reply to the following email from the new English director of the language school where you study.

I plan to arrive on 6 August in order to find some temporary rented accommodation. I would not require anything too expensive, preferably somewhere with good shopping facilities nearby and not too far from the school. Could you recommend two possible areas?

Dear Mr Simpson

Thank you for (0) informing us of the date of your arrival. There is (1) a wide choice of reasonably priced rented accommodation available in many parts of the city. Here are just two areas that you might like to (2) consider.

Although it is on the outskirts of the city, the pleasant and leafy district of Mirador has very good (3) rail connections to the centre and the (4) journey to the school would take less than twenty minutes. The shopping facilities are more than (5) adequate, including a very large indoor market and four supermarkets.

Another possibility is Justa, which is a (6) slightly less expensive neighbourhood than Mirador, (7) despite being closer to the centre and having better shopping facilities. (8) However, because of its location, there is a great deal of traffic noise. If you can (9) tolerate this, I would certainly recommend this very vibrant area, which is within easy walking distance of the school.

I hope you find this information useful. We (10) look forward to seeing you in August.

Yours sincerely

Gapped text

1 Look at the photograph of the International Space Station (ISS) and read the title and first paragraph of the article.

What would be difficult about each of the following on board the ISS?

How might astronauts overcome these difficulties?

moving around eating and drinking washing keeping fit sleeping maintaining motivation getting on with other crew members

2 Read the rest of the base text (the text without the missing sentences).

Which of the topics in exercise 1 are discussed? Does the article mention any of the ideas you spoke about?

Life aboard the International Space Station

The first residents arrived at the International Space Station on 2 November 2000, but fewer than 200 people have first-hand knowledge of life on board. Only a fraction have stayed more than six months on the largest orbiting spacecraft ever built.

The images of weightless astronauts doing somersaults and chasing food through the air make it seem as though the space station is floating free from the pull of gravity.

It is forever falling to Earth and would crash-land if it were not moving fast enough to maintain a gentle curve around the planet. In orbit, things are weightless simply

The space station has a permanent crew of six, so the arrival of new faces is a cause for celebration.

There is a subtle art to moving around without crashing into anything or anyone, knocking computers, equipment and other objects off the walls to which they are attached with Velcro pads.

because they are all falling at the same velocity.

They can fly down the length of the station, straight as an arrow, without touching anything, except with their fingertips. People sit in mid air, tapping away at a computer, with only a toe hooked under a wall strap to keep themselves in position. Then, with a slight movement of the hand, they'll float up to another computer and carry on typing there.

In such close quarters personal hygiene is a must, but the weightless conditions make washing a delicate chore. Water droplets can short-circuit electrical equipment, so many astronauts use wet wipes. Hair-washing is trickier. 4 Even Sunita Williams, who spent 195 consecutive days on the space station – a female record – had her long dark hair chopped to shoulder length. But it was still problematic. 'Washing took time,' she says. 'I usually did it on a weekend when we didn't have a whole lot of other things to do.'

It takes the space station one and a half hours to fly around the planet. 5 But after 45 minutes of daylight, a dark line appears on the planet, dividing Earth into night and day. For a couple of seconds, the space station is bathed in a coppery light and then complete darkness. Another 45

- a minutes later, and just as abruptly, the sun rises to fill the station with brilliant light again.
- Because of the frequency of these apparent days and nights, a bedtime schedule is imposed by mission controllers. Each of the crew has a small cabin where they can hook a sleeping bag to the wall and settle down for the night, 6 Falling asleep can take
- some getting used to. Just as you are nodding off, you can feel as though you've fallen off a 10-storey building. People who look half asleep will suddenly throw their heads back and
- put out their arms. It gets easier with time, though. One Russian crew member even goes without a sleeping bag and anyone still awake after bedtime would see his snoozing form drift by, slowly
- 5 bouncing off the walls.

- 3 Use context to help you work out the approximate meaning of the words and phrases in bold around gap 4 in the base text.
 - e.g. chore: an activity, something you have to do regularly
- Six sentences have been removed from the article. Choose from the sentences A-G the one which fits each gap (1-6). There is one extra sentence which you do not need to use.

Don't forget

- Before reading sentences A–G, try to predict the general content of each gap.
 - For example, the sentence before the first gap talks of the appearance of the ISS floating in space, whereas the sentence after the gap explains the reality of the ISS falling fast through space. Perhaps, then, the missing sentence refers to this difference in some way.
- When making your choices, look for connections between the language in the missing sentences and the language in the text, both before and after the gap.
- A Men tend to get military cuts before a mission.
- B However, even the most welcome visitors can cause chaos if they are inexperienced.
- C Because of this, the light has a calming effect on the astronauts.
- D Some strap pillows to their heads to make it feel more like lying down.
- E Nothing could be further from the truth.
- F For half that time, the light can be so blinding that astronauts reach for their sunglasses.
- G In time, people improve the skill.

Language focus: The future

A Making predictions

- 1 The following sentences all represent opinions, predictions or expectations about the future. Decide which of the words and expressions in bold express:
 - a certainty b probability c possibility
 - 1 The ISS will probably still be in operation after 2020.
 - 2 It may well continue in orbit until 2028.
 - 3 The American space shuttle programme has finished, but Russian Soyuz capsules will continue to take astronauts to the space station.
 - 4 The US space agency NASA might one day set up a space station on the moon.
 - 5 They could even establish a base on Mars.
 - 6 But this is not likely to happen in my lifetime!

What is the negative form of each of the words and phrases in bold in 1–5 above?

Example: will probably - probably won't/will not

2 Look at the following predictions for the year 2030. Make your own predictions by completing each gap below with either the positive or the negative form of one of the words or phrases in Section A.

1	Robot pets	take over from animals in the home
2	The car	cease to be the main means of

Write about:

1 leisure options

2 climate

3 (your own idea)

Read the answer below to the question in exercise 1. What is the writer's 'own idea' for number 3 of the Notes section in the question? How similar is the essay to the one you would have written if you had answered the question?

A summer holiday by the sea

Without doubt, the best place to spend the summer is on the coast, which generally has far more advantages for the holidaymaker than the countryside.

For one thing, in the countryside there is not much to do apart from walking and visiting villages, whereas the coast offers a wider range of possibilities for the tourist. You can stroll around seaside villages, but you can also spend the day on the beach, take part in watersports such as sailing and surfing, eat in a variety of restaurants and go to clubs and bars in the evening.

Secondly, in July and August it is usually cooler on the coast than in the countryside, and therefore much more pleasant. It is not surprising that most people head for the beach during the hot summer months. Another positive point is that, because so many people choose the coast as their holiday destination, there are more opportunities to make new friends than in the countryside.

in my opinion, then, the coast offers the chance of a far more varied and enjoyable summer holiday than the countryside.

- 3 a What linking devices does the writer use to introduce each of the three points from the Notes section in the question.
 - e.g. For one thing
 - b What other linking devices does the writer use?
- 4 a Read the following Writing Part 1 instructions.

In your English class you have been talking about travel and transport. Your English teacher has asked you to write an essay.

Write an essay using all the notes and give reasons for your point of view.

Write your essay in 140-190 words.

Mystery and imagination

Reading and Use of English

Multiple choice

Do you enjoy reading novels or watching films of mystery and suspense? Why do you think they are so popular?

2 You are going to read an extract from a mystery novel. The scene takes place on 'The Island', not a real island, but a green and rocky headland in St Ives in the south-west of England. Read the extract quite quickly and answer the following questions:

What would you have done if you had been in this situation? Why?

An unusual find

t the end of Porthmeor Beach, Laura climbed the stone steps to the Island and took the path that curved around the edge of it. There were benches dotted along it, and a red plastic box containing a life-5 rope. Laura had her doubts that the rope would be effective in an emergency. The current that surged up to the black rocks was so brutal that anyone unlucky enough to fall in would be swept out to sea before they had time to draw breath. Laura felt the magnetic pull 10 of the ocean beneath the black cliffs, and goose bumps 45 only two categories Laura could think of. Since the rose on her arms.

On the north side of the Island, the headland screened out both the town and the beaches. Laura would stop there sometimes and gaze out to sea. If no one

- 15 was around, she liked to pretend she was alone on a desert island. Today, however, the path had an eerie feel. In the short time since Laura had left the house a sea mist had rolled in, obscuring everything except the grey silhouette of the hill topped by St Nicholas's
- 20 chapel with its twin crosses. The tide was in and violent waves splattered the path. More than once, Laura had to leap to avoid a drenching.

She might have stepped on the bottle if she had not been skirting a puddle. It was an ordinary glass bottle

- 25 the kind used for concentrated juice syrups, but the label had been removed and it had been scrubbed clean. It was lying in the centre of the path, almost as if it had been deliberately placed there. Even before she lifted it, Laura could see there was a note in it.
- 30 She almost didn't pick it up. The idea of finding a message in a bottle seemed ridiculous, like a joke or something. But curiosity got the better of her. Before she picked it up, she took a good look round in case the person who'd left it there was hanging around to
- 35 have a laugh. But she was alone.

She bent down and studied the rolled piece of paper through the glass. There was something written on it. Before she removed the lid, she glanced up at the chapel. There was a sudden flash of white, although 40 whether it was someone's shirt or the wing of a gull Laura couldn't tell. For two full minutes she stared upwards, but saw nothing else.

What sort of people put messages in bottles? Pranksters and marooned ancient mariners were the bottle was shiny and new and had obviously never been in the sea, old sea dogs could be ruled out. That left a joker with too much time on his or her hands.

The lid twisted off easily. Retrieving the note was 50 trickier. Laura managed it with the aid of a stick. She unrolled the paper, a cream-coloured parchment. There was something old-fashioned about the handwriting, as if the writer had a calligrapher's skills and had used the quill of a feather and a pot of indigo ink. In long, 55 artistic letters were the words: Can I trust you?

Laura looked around again. The path was unusually quiet for this time of the morning. Most days it was teeming with dog walkers. She put down the note while she zipped up her coat and pulled her scarf

60 tighter. The mist had whited out the coastline. Clouds of it rolled across the sea, muffling the sound of the

If she had any sense, she'd toss the bottle into the nearest litter bin, hurry along and forget she ever saw 65 it. But what if? That's what the voice in her head was saving. What if the writer was someone in real danger? What if she was their only lifeline and she ignored them and walked away?

Laura opened her bag and took out a pen. Beneath 70 the question, 'Can I trust you?', she wrote in bright red capitals: YES,

- 3 For questions 1-6, choose the answer (A, B, C or D) which you think fits best according to the text.
- 1 When Laura reached the Island, she was struck by 4 Before opening the bottle, Laura felt certain

- 5 After reading the note, Laura took time to
 - A listen to the sea.
 - B admire the view.
 - C keep out the cold.
 - D observe some dogs.
- 6 How did Laura's attitude change towards the end of the extract?
 - A She started to fear for her own safety.
 - B She pretended to trust the message writer.
 - C She began to take the message more seriously.
 - D She became irritated with herself for wasting her time.

Reacting to the text

What would you have done if you had found the bottle?

Have you ever found anything unusual, interesting or valuable? What did you do with Vocabulary 1: Ways of looking

- 1 a Match the words in bold in sentences 1-3 from the reading with their meanings a-c.
 - 1 Laura would stop there sometimes and gaze out to sea.
 - 2 Before she removed the lid, she glanced up at the chapel.
 - 3 For two full minutes she stared upwards, but saw nothing else.
 - a have a quick, short look at something
 - b look somewhere for a long time, especially with interest or admiration
 - c look directly at something for a long time, e.g. when you are thinking
 - b Work out the approximate meaning of the words in bold in sentences 1-3.
 - 1 James peered through the keyhole and thought he could see something or someone - lying on the floor.
 - 2 If you stand on a box, you might glimpse the President as he drives past.
 - 3 He didn't say anything when I turned up late, but he clearly wasn't pleased: he just stood there glaring at me.
- 2 Complete each gap with the correct form of one of the six verbs from 1a and b.
 - 1 Bored with the lesson, I quickly at my watch to see how long was left. dreamily at the moonlit sky: it was a wonderful sight. 3 The boy sat _____ wide-eyed and open-mouthed at the huge cake. 4 I only caught a brief of the thief as he ran away. 5 The teacher __ angrily at me, obviously thinking I was making fun of him.
 - 6 The policewoman shone her torch into the room and ______eautiously inside.

Language focus 1: Modal verbs for speculation and deduction

1 Here are Laura's possible thoughts, when she was speculating about who had put the bottle on the path. Read them and answer the questions below.

'I suppose a prankster might have left the bottle there, or else it might have come from a marooned ancient mariner. Actually, though, the bottle is shiny and new, and has obviously never been in the sea, so it can't have been an old sea dog. That means a joker with too much time on his or her hands must have done it."

- 1 Which of the forms in bold express:
 - a possible explanations for who left it?
 - b certainty about who didn't leave it?
 - c certainty about who left it?
- 2 Which verb form is used after each of the modal verbs?
- 3 Which of the following modal verbs can be used in place of might in the first sentence above without changing the meaning?

could should can may

Check your ideas on page 216 of the Grammar reference and read more about modal verbs for speculation and deduction.

2 Speculate about what might have happened in the following situations. Write two or three sentences for each using modal verbs.

Example: 1

She could have just received some bad news. She may have had an argument with a friend. She might have been peeling onions.

- Angela's crying.
- 2 Paul's face and hands are very
- 3 The kitchen window is broken.
- 4 There's a red mark on Derek's shirt collar.
- 5 Lucy was late for school.
- 6 Nobody in the class did their homework last night.
- 3 Match each of the sentences 1-6 with a suitable continuation a-f.

1 Don't make too much noise.

2 What do you mean, you don't know what to do?

3 Would you lend me yours?

4 I can't find her name on their webpage.

5 You should ask her.

6 I want everyone to search the area.

a She might not be working there any more.

b He might still be asleep.

c He can't have got very far.

d You can't have been listening to my instructions.

e I must have left mine at home.

f You never know; she might be interested.

- 4 Look at sentences a-f in exercise 3 again and for each one decide whether the speaker is talking about the past or present. What form of the verb is used after the modal verb in each case?
- 5 Use modal verbs to speculate about possible contexts for each of the sentence combinations in exercise 3. Example: 1 This could be a mother speaking to her children. They might be playing in the house and their father may be ill in bed.

Vocabulary 2: Give

A Phrasal verbs with give

1 Look at this extract from the listening on page 114. Match the two phrasal verbs in bold to their meanings a and b.

I particularly like stories which involve smells that some buildings are said to give off when ghosts are around. I don't want to give away too much here on the programme ...

- a tell information or facts that should be kept secret
- b produce and send into the air
- 2 Work out the meaning of the phrasal verbs in bold in the following sentences. Use the context of the sentence to help you.
 - 1 I'm so unfit! I really ought to give up smoking.
 - 2 Tired of running, he gave himself up at a police station and confessed to the crime.
 - 3 I'm going to give out the test papers now but you mustn't begin until I tell you.
 - 4 You should never give out your personal details or financial information online.
 - 5 If you give in your homework now, I'll mark it tonight and give it back tomorrow.
 - 6 My parents said no at first, but eventually they gave in and let me go to the party.

B Collocations with give

- In sections A and B below match a sentence beginning on the left with a suitable ending on the right.
- A 1 Pat saw the mouse, gave a piercing
 - 2 Thrilled at the news, he gave a broad
 - 3 She said goodbye, gave him a tender
 - 4 He looked at her photo, gave a deep

- b performance in this, her latest film.
- c speech on the state of the economy.
- d details of speakers and their talks.
- e regards to your family, won't you?
- f pleasure to the orphaned children.
- 2 The collocations in bold in exercise 1A all refer to physical actions of some kind. Match the following general meanings to the collocations in bold in 1B.
 - a to cause someone to experience an emotional feeling
 - b to perform or present something in public
 - c to communicate information, opinions or greetings
- 3 Cover up the sentence endings in the right hand column of exercises 1A and B and see how many of the nouns you can remember for the corresponding verb + adjective combinations on the left.
- 4 a Obscribe situations in which you might:
 - · give a broad smile
 - · give a piercing scream
 - · give a deep sigh
 - · give a nervous laugh
 - · give someone a blank look

- b Think of a time when someone or something:
- · gave you a nasty shock
- · gave you a pleasant surprise
- · gave you great pleasure
- · gave an impressive performance
- · gave a lengthy (and boring!) speech

Example:

You might give a broad smile when you find out you've passed an exam, or you ask someone to go out with you and they say 'yes'.

Open cloze

- Read the examples of sportsmen and women's superstitious rituals on page 204. Do you know any more like this?
- 2 For guestions 1-8, read the text below and think of the word which best fits each gap. Use only one word in each space. There is an example at the beginning (0), Write your answers IN CAPITAL LETTERS.

Sporting superstitions

Most of (0) US have routines, habits and superstitions. We'll wear our lucky shirt to an interview, arrange our cutlery in a particular way or turn the oven off three times, just to (1) ____ sure. In a competitive environment, in (2) athletes are all going for gold, years of training, drastic diets and intense coaching might just (3) ____ be enough. So, sometimes, the Olympians turn (4) ___ for extra support.

'Superstition is very common in sport,' says sports psychologist Dr George Sik. 'Athletes use it so they can rely on something else ____ their own consciousness. Superstition means being in control, adding a safety net. If you convince (6) luck, you'll boost your confidence and tend to perform better. And if you fail, you can always blame it (7) the luck."

So, (8) ____ they may know deep down that a 'lucky' pair of socks won't take them over the line any faster, many athletes stick to their rituals for that little bit of confidence, belief and a sense of security.

Goldfield is now a (9) ______town, visited by many tourists.

Dutchman's Gold is the title of a (10) ______ about the lost mine. Do you know any places with mysteries or legends attached to them?

Language focus 2: Question tags

- 1 The following sentences from the listening all end with a question tag. Look at the words in bold. How are question tags formed?
 - 1 It's a bit hot there, though, isn't it?
 - 2 Now I bet you didn't know that, did you?
- 2 1.62 Listen to the examples from the recording again. In which of the sentences in 1 is the speaker:
 - a asking a real question because he or she is unsure if the statement is true or not?
 - b expecting agreement to the statement, which he or she feels sure is true?

How can you tell the difference?

- Read more about question tags on page 216 of the Grammar reference.
- 3 Add an appropriate question tag to each of the following statements.

1	You don't believe him,	?
2	You won't let me down,	_ ?
3	You went away for the weekend, _		- 7
4	He's not playing very well,	?

1.62 Now listen and check your answers.

- 4 Listen to the sentences in exercise 3 again and next to each question tag draw an arrow to show if the intonation is rising or falling at the end.
- 5 Practise saying the sentences with the same intonation as the speakers in the recording.
- 6 Write down four statements about your partner that you are sure are true and four that you are unsure about, adding a question tag to each one.

Examples:

You don't like heavy metal music, do you? You went abroad for your holiday last year, didn't you?

7 Ask and answer each other's questions, using appropriate intonation.

Example

A: You don't like heavy metal music, do you?

B: No, I don't. You're right. And you went abroad for your holiday last year, didn't you?

A: No, I didn't, actually. I went abroad the year before last. Last summer we stayed in our house in the countryside.

mentions the appropriateness of the 'gifts'?	9 says that one person initially mistook the intentions of the donor?	10

Mystery Donors

Here are four true stories of people who left 'gifts' in public places - and kept their identity a secret

A Book sculptures appear in Edinburgh's cultural centres

Between March and November 2011, a total of ten sculptures, beautifully rafted from books, were left anonymously in various cultural buildings in the city of Edinburgh.

Each sculpture was carefully and suitably chosen: a dinesaur for the National Museum, or a tiny cinema for the city's Filmhouse. Despite a strong suggestion irone of the notes that the donor was a woman, a ocal newspaper said they believed it to be a man. They claimed they had discovered the identity of the sculptor, but kept it quiet, given that the general Wew was that he or she should remain anonymous.

B New Jersey knitter decorates the town

In January 2010, residents of West Cape May in New Jersey were amused to find that colourful, knitted scarves had mysteriously begun to appear wrapped around the trees and lamp posts in the town's Wilbraham Park. And the fact that the knitter preferred to remain anonymous only added to the fun. What surprised them was the huge interest shown by newspaper and radio journalists, who came from other US rates and abroad to report on events.

While most local people reacted positively to the decrations, some residents expressed concern that the varves might harm the trees and become unattractive with melleets of the weather. Although the scarl wrapping optimed and spread to traffic signs and fence posts, by mid-March it was all over, The scarves vanished overnight, smiddly and mysteriously as they had first appeared.

c Unseen donor gives away large sums of cash

In March 2012. the German town of Braunschweig began to capture the attention of the world's press. An anonymous benefactor had been donating money to local good causes, each time leaving the recipient an envelope containing £10000 in cash. Among the beneficiaries were the victim of a burglary, a severely disabled boy and a hospice, all of whom had appeared in the local newspaper. A total of nearly €200 000 had been donated.

There were a number of theories to explain who the donor was and why they might have given the cash away: an elderly person with no family to leave their money to, a criminal wanting to get rid of stolen money or a lottery winner trying to do some good. Some of the beneficiaries wanted to meet the donor to express their gratitude. However, the local newspaper believed in respecting the donor's desire for anonymity and made no effort to discover their identity.

D Mystery man gives out money in supermarket

Just before Christmas 2011 a man entered a supermarket in Tiverton, England and handed out a number of envelopes, each containing a fifty-pound note, to delighted shoppers. Also inside the envelopes was a message which read: 'Happy Christmas, I have recently been fortunate enough to come into quite a lot of money - more than I need for myself and my family. So I thought that I would share some of it with you.' Believing it to be part of a marketing promotion, one beneficiary nearly threw the blank envelope away. Another went to the bank to check that the note was genuine. The donor's identity remains unknown, in spite of the efforts of one national daily, which asked readers to get in contact If they knew who the mystery benefactor was,

Reacting to the text

Which story do you like best? Why?

If you unexpectedly came into 'quite a lot of money', would you give some away? If so, who would you give it to, and why? If not, what would you do with it?

Collaborative task Collaborative task

Imagine that a wealthy donor wants to give away large sums of money to different institutions and other places in your community. Below are some of the possible recipients of the donations.

Talk to each other about how these different recipients could spend their donations.

2 Now decide which two donations would benefit the community most.

Task 1 A Spending the donations

Complete each gap with a word from the box.

for	in	on	on	out
1300	23.25%	100	2000	10000

- 1 They could spend it ____ (computers).
- 2 One idea would be to invest (new equipment).
- 3 They could use the money to pay _____ (advertising).
- 4 A sensible thing to do would be to (take _____ more staff).
- 5 Another possible way to use the money would be to (carry ____ repairs).

B Question tags

Complete each gap with an appropriate question tag.

- 1 That's not a bad idea,
- 2 That would be useful, _____
- 3 Schools here never have enough computers,

- 4 We've said all we can about that one, 7
- 5 Let's talk about this one now, ?

Task 2

Referring back to the discussion in task 1

As I said before, (schools never have enough computers). You made a good point earlier about (the health benefits of sport).

We both agreed on the importance of (preserving our past).
We should take into account what you said about (the environment).

Comparing the different options

(A museum) wouldn't need financial help as much as (a school). The more help we give to (elderly people), the better for the community.

The community would benefit far more from a donation to (the nature reserve).

The one most in need of a donation would be (the sports centre).

Review

Read the following Writing Part 2 instructions. What item would you choose to review?

You have seen this notice in your school's English-language magazine.

REVIEWS WANTED

We would like you to write a review of something you have bought recently. It could be a computer game, a book, a magazine, a smartphone ... anything you like!

Describe the good and bad points of your purchase and say who you would recommend it to. The most interesting reviews will appear in next month's edition.

2 Read this review of a music download. The title of the album and the name of the band that recorded it have been covered with ink stains. Can you name either?

This classic album, named after the band's London recording studio, has been in our family for over forty years. It's my dad's vinyl version, and it's been played so often that it's too scratched to listen to now. So last week I bought the download.

Despite its age, it still sounds as fresh as when it was first released in 1969. Most of the tracks, of course, were composed by Lennon and McCartney, always a guarantee of quality music. However, my favourites are the two written by George Harrison – gentle songs of love and hope.

The Liverpool band's use of vocal harmony on the album is outstanding, and there's a good mix of fast and slow tracks, with one or two humorous ones as well. Ringo's contribution about the octopus is the weakest, but he was always a better drummer than a singer, wasn't he?

The album has songs to suit every generation, from children to grandparents, so I'd recommend it to everyone. Unfortunately, of course, the artwork of the 'Fab Four' on the zebra crossing is tiny on my smartphone, but we still have the cover from the vinyl version!

- 3 Read the review in exercise 2 again and answer the following questions about it. Give examples from the review to support your opinions.
 - a Has the writer described both good and bad points and said who they would recommend it to?
 - b Is the review organized into suitable paragraphs?
 - c Are ideas connected with appropriate linking words?
 - d Is there a good range of vocabulary and structures?
 - e Is the style of the review formal, informal or neutral? Is the style appropriate?
- 4 Use questions a—c in exercise 3 to help you plan and write your own answer to the question in exercise 1. To add an element of mystery, do not mention the name or title of the item you are reviewing.
- 5 Work in pairs.
 - a Read your partner's review and try to guess the name or title of the item he or she has written about.
 - b Read the review again and give your partner feedback on it, using questions a-e in exercise 3. Give examples from the review to support your opinions.
 - c If necessary, rewrite your own review, incorporating the points your partner has mentioned.

Part 1: Multiple choice 2.1-2.8

Part 1 contains eight short unrelated extracts with multiple-choice questions. In each extract you will hear either a monologue or a conversation. There are several different types of questions which test your ability to understand, for example, the general idea or main points of the extract, what people's opinions are, how they feel, where they are or who they are speaking to.

Here is a typical question from Part 1.

You are on a bus and you overhear a conversation between two women.

What has one of the women just bought?

A a blouse

B a skirt

C a dress

Distractors

2 Simply hearing the same word or phrase which is in one of the alternatives will not guarantee that you have found the right answer. These words could be distractors.

Consider the following with regard to the question above:

I was thinking of getting a dress but I decided I couldn't afford it.

If I'd bought that blouse I might have regretted it.

Annie bought herself a skirt whereas I decided I wanted something more formal.

Read the script for the question above. What is the answer?

- Woman 1: That's lovely. Celebrating something, are you?
- Woman 2: Yes, well, my nephew's getting married next week, so I needed something a bit special. It's pure silk, you know.
- Woman 1: Yes, I can see that. Must have cost a fortune!
- Woman 2: Not really. Cheaper than getting a dress, that's for sure, and I'll probably wear it a lot more, too. It'll go really well with a skirt I bought last week. The sleeves are a bit short, but if I wear a jacket over it, no one'll notice.

Which key words and expressions helped you decide on the answer? Which are used to create distractors?

3 You will hear people talking in eight different situations. For questions 1–8, choose the best answer (A, B or C).

What to expect in the exam

In Part 1, the introductory sentence is read out before each recording.

- For question 1, for example:

 you will hear the sentence, You hear part of a sports commentary on the radio.
- you will not hear the question What sport is it? or the three options A-C.

- 1 You bear part of a sports commentary on the radio.
 - What sport is it?
 - A tennis
 - B basketball
 - C football
- 2 You hear a man talking on his mobile phone.
 - Who is he speaking to?
 - A a friend
 - B his doctor
 - C his boss
- 3 Listen to this man and woman speaking.
 - Where are they?
 - A in a cinema
 - B in a restaurant
 - C at home
- 4 You hear this woman telling her friend about a restaurant.
 - What does she say about it?
 - A The waiters were rude.
 - B The food was badly cooked.
 - C It was too formal.

- 5 You hear this man talking to his friend on the phone about a day trip to London.
 - What is he going to do at the end of the day?
 - A stay in a hotel
 - B stay at his friend's house
 - C travel back home.
- 6 You hear a woman talking to her husband in a supermarket.
 - How does she feel?
 - A confused
 - B annoved
 - C disappointed
- 7 You hear this man talking.
 - Who is he?
 - A a policeman
 - B a social worker
 - C a teacher
- 8 You overhear a man talking to a woman about a flat which is for rent.
 - Why has the man decided not to rent the flat?
 - A It is too expensive.
 - B It is not big enough.
 - C It is badly located.

Part 2: Sentence completion 2.9

- 1 Look at the statements 1-8 about Part 2 of the Listening paper and decide which are True and which are False. If a statement is false, give reasons for your answer.
 - 1 You only hear the Part 2 recording once.
 - 2 You have 45 seconds to read through the questions.
 - 3 You should use this time to predict the type of information which is missing from each space.
 - 4 You have to write between three and live words in each space.
 - 5 You have to rephrase the words you hear so that they fit into the sentence.
 - 6 You do not usually hear the answers in the same order as the questions. _
 - 7 For difficult questions, keep listening as you'll hear the answer sooner or later.
 - 8 You should check the spelling of your answers.
- Now read the following Listening Part 2 question.

You will hear a man talking on the radio about Welsh speakers in Patagonia, Argentina. For questions 1-10, complete the sentences.

Before you listen, predict the type of information you might hear for questions 1-10.

Example:

This might be a type of building, like a school or a church.

What to expect in the exam

- The words and the sentence structure in the question may not be the same as those in the recording. For question 8 for example, you will hear the following:
 - ... every year, as part of a programme administered by the National Assembly for Wales, groups of ... come to Patagonia.
- You can also expect to hear some distractors. For number 2, for example, you will need to choose between two different numbers that you hear. And for number 4, several different types of people are mentioned.

Part 3: Multiple matching 2.10-2.14

1 In Part 3 you will hear five different people speaking for about 30 seconds each on the same topic. You are given eight options A-H, five of which you have to match to the correct speakers.

The speakers will not use exactly the same words that appear in options A-H. When you read each one, therefore, think of other ways of saying the same thing. Underlining key words may help, but do not choose an answer simply because you hear the key words.

Example:

A I will need a specific qualification to do this job.

I've got to pass some exams/I've been advised to do a college course/I'll have to study for a degree.

Now do the same for options B-H.

What to expect in the exam

- You may hear the language which guides you to the correct answer:
 - a at the beginning of the extract
 - b in the middle of the extract
 - c at the end of the extract
 - d in more than one part of the extract
- Listen both times to all of what the speaker says before making your final decision.
- You will hear five young people talking about the job they would like to do. For questions 1–5, choose from the list A–H what each speaker says. Use the letters only once. There are three extra letters which you do not need to use.
 - A I will need a specific qualification to do this job.
 - B I currently combine work with studying.
 - C I disagree with the careers advice I have been given.
 - D I heard about this job from someone in my family.
 - E I do not really mind what job I do.
 - F I think I have the necessary personal qualities.
 - G I am not clever enough for the job I would like to do.

- In Part 4 you will hear an interview, or a conversation with two or more speakers of approximately three minutes. You have to answer seven multiple-choice questions, each with three options.
- 2 Now read the following Part 4 instructions.

You will hear an interview with an organizer of the Tall Person's Club conference. For questions 1–7 choose the best answer (A, B or C).

- 3 Read question 1 and the interviewer's introduction from the recording. Decide on the correct answer, underlining the part or parts of the text which justify your choice.
 - 1 What comment does the presenter make about his height?
 - A He is below average height for a British male.
 - B He is the tallest person in his profession.
 - C He feels tall in comparison to his colleagues,

At one metre eight-four I've always thought of myself as being a little on the tall side, particularly when I stand next to the people I work with here in the Round Britain studio. Rather curiously, most of them are below the national average height of one metre seventy-eight for men and one sixty-two for women. But when I popped in yesterday to the annual conference of the TPC—that's the Tall Person's Club of Great Britain and Ireland—I felt decidedly small.

- 4 With your partner, explain with reference to the text why the other options are wrong.
- 5 Now read questions 2-7. Then listen to the recording and choose the best answers.

What to expect in the exam

- You are given one minute to read all seven questions before you hear the recording.
- Although a particular option might be mentioned, it may not be the correct answer to the question you are asked. In question 3 below, for example, A, B and C are all mentioned as problems, but only one answers the question: What is the biggest problem faced by tall people?
- 2 Jenny says that the Tall Person's Club conference
 - A is usually held in a countryside hotel.
 - B is one of many events they organize.
 - C is very different to other club conferences.
- 3 According to Jenny, what is the biggest problem faced by tall people?
 - A buying clothes that fit
 - B travelling on public transport
 - C sleeping in normal size beds
- 4 How does Jenny leel about some people's reactions towards her height?
 - A irritated
 - B amused
 - C offended

- 5 Jenny says that at their first meeting, new club members
 - A are encouraged to change their posture.
 - B very quickly grow in confidence.
 - C have to talk to everyone in the room.
- 6 According to Jenny, one advantage for tall people is that
 - A they are naturally talented at certain sports.
 - B they always have a good view at spectator events.
 - C they are more suited than others to certain professions.
- 7 What does Jenny say about membership of the Tall Person's Club of Great Britain and Ireland?
 - A It includes membership of the American club.
 - B A special committee decides who can join.
 - C There is no minimum height requirement.
- 6 Look at the listening script on page 232 and for questions 2–7 follow the same procedure as in exercises 3 and 4 above.

Nothing but the truth

Vocabulary 1: Crime and punishment

1 Talk about a crime which has been in the news recently. Say what you know about the facts of the crime and, where relevant, the investigation and the trial.

A Crimes and criminals

1 Match the crimes in the box with each of the people in sentences 1–8. The first one has been done for you.

internet piracy drink-driving identity fraud burglary vandalism shoplifting trafficking mugging 1 A young man attacks another and robs him of his wallet. ____mugging 2 A 78-year-old woman steals a scarf from a department store. 3 A 14-year-old sets fire to litter bins and breaks car windows. 4 A driver stops to sleep in his car; he has had three glasses of wine. 5 A criminal gang earns millions from buying and selling drugs. _ 6 A group of teenagers illegally distributes films online. 7 A man has tricked people into emailing him their bank details; he uses this information to take money from their accounts. 8 A journalist breaks into the town hall to steal documents that will prove the mayor is guilty of corruption.

Why might somebody hire a private detective?
What image do you have of private detectives?
What qualities do you think are required to do the job well?

2 Read through the newspaper article and compare your ideas in exercise 1.

Private investigators investigated

David Lee investigates the world of the private eye - and uncovers some surprising truths

When I walk into the offices of Wright & Wrong Ltd, a predominantly female firm of private investigators, I am a little disappointed. My only previous contact with private detective agencies has been through black and white films from the golden age of Hollywood. So I am half expecting to see a small, dark, smoke-filled room, a single desk with an empty in-tray and a long, scruffy raincoat hanging from a hat stand.

Clearly, my romantic image of the profession needs updating. Wright & Wrong Ltd's offices are light and spacious and there are no ashtrays in sight on any of the dozen or so desks. These are tidy and free of paper, but concentrated faces at large computer screens give the place a busy feel.

Jenny Wright, founder of the agency, is not surprised at my error, and with a note of irritation in her voice, points to further misconceptions. 'Cinema and television are mostly to blame for our reputation. Contrary to popular belief, we always work very strictly within the law — there's no violence, no break-ins, and certainly no guns. The laws relating to our activities are very tight, and if we don't stick to them there's a very real danger that the evidence we obtain will not be accepted in court,'

The types of cases her agency deals with are varied but the day-to-day work is often far from stimulating. Wright & Wrong Ltd handles anything from infidelity in a marriage or tracing a missing person to insurance fraud, employee theft and advising companies on security measures. 'Resolving a case is very rewarding,' says Jenny, 'but the actual investigation can be rather dull.

Jenny, 'but the actual investigation can be rather dull. When we're not dealing with paperwork or Internet searches, we're usually involved in surveillance. And that normally means just sitting around in cars or cafés for hours, waiting for something to happen.'

35 Not surprisingly, then, patience is an important asset for anyone doing this kind of work. Is that why nine of the twelve investigators in her team are women? 'Obviously, women don't have a monopoly on patience,' replies Jenny, 'but perhaps it's no coincidence that they tend to 40 stay in the job longer than men.'

Jenny tells me that people's perceptions of women make them popular with clients, and also, consequently, with her as an employer. Women are often considered to be more sensitive than men. They're looked upon as less

45 threatening when it comes to making inquiries. 'People open up to women more readily,' she says, 'and are relieved when a woman picks up the phone to speak to them. We're also good at breaking bad news. What may be a victory for the agency — filming someone

50 doing something they shouldn't be doing, for example tends not to be such a pleasant discovery for the client, and there's a right and wrong way of handling that information.'

Most of Jenny's clients are wealthy. The hourly rate is 55 anything between fifty and eighty pounds, so the cost of a single case will often run into thousands of pounds.

Even with the latest hi-tech equipment, such as longrange listening devices, a surveillance campaign can last several days. The technology is freely available and most 60 of what we do could be done by the clients,' explains Jenny, 'but they're reluctant to get involved. Finding out the truth is often just too painful to do on your own.'

I ask Jenny, a former night club owner, how she came to be a private detective. Her face turns red, she gives a

65 slight grin and drops her voice to a whisper so as not to be overheard by her staff. 'I used to read a lot of crime novels,' she confides, 'and I started to think "I could do that". I went on a training course and realized I was in the wrong job.' I am about to ask her whether she ever 70 wears a long, scruffy raincoat, when her mobile phone rings and she is called away on business.

- For questions 1-6, choose the answer (A, B, C or D) which you think fits best according to the text.
 - 1 What does the writer discover on his visit to the offices of Wright & Wrong Ltd?
 - A The firm is not as dynamic as he had been told.
 - B The offices have recently been modernized.
 - C All the private detectives in the firm are women.
 - D He has an old-fashioned idea of private detectives.
 - 2 Jenny Wright is annoyed by
 - A the strict laws controlling private detectives.
 - B the inflexibility of the law courts.
 - C the way her profession is represented in films.
 - D the violence used by other detective agencies.
 - 3 According to Jenny, most of the work of a private detective is
 - A monotonous.
 - B challenging.
 - C exhausting.
 - D enjoyable.
 - 4 Jenny is influenced in her decision to take on women by
 - A women's ability to get results.
 - B the speed at which women work.
 - C women's tendency to speak openly.
 - D the way clients see women.
 - 5 What do we learn about Jenny's clients?
 - A They cannot afford to buy the surveillance equipment.
 - B They do not want to do the detective work themselves,
 - C They object to paying such high prices for the work.
 - D They prefer more than one detective to work on a case.
 - 6 How does Jenny feel about telling her story in the last paragraph?
 - A embarrassed
 - B frightened
 - C proud
 - D angry

Do you think you would make a good private detective? Why/Why not?

Article

Look at these sentences from the article on page 130.

Clearly, my romantic image of the profession needs updating.

Not surprisingly, patience is an important asset for anyone doing this kind of work.

Obviously, women don't have a monopoly on patience.

Each one begins with an adverb which expresses the writer's attitude to or opinion of what follows. In 1-8 below replace the underlined phrase with an adverb from the box.

Astonishingly	Interestingly	Curiously	Personally
Happily	Sadly	Worryingly	Unfortunately

- 1 In my opinion, I think that any form of physical punishment is unacceptable.
- 2 I'm absolutely amazed that he was released after only two years in prison.
- 3 It is sad that there is a growing trend towards violence in our schools.
- 4 It is regrettable that many parents just don't communicate with their children.
- 5 It's strange that some kidnap victims end up sympathizing with their captors.
- 6 It is of some concern that many drivers still do not wear their seat belts.
- 7 It's worth noting that most children don't leave home until they get married.
- 8 I'm pleased to be able to say that this is an exception rather than the rule.

DEALING WITH LITTER

- How serious a problem is litter in your area?
- What can be done to stop people dropping litter in the street?

The best articles answering this question will be published next month.

3 Now read the following article and compare the writer's ideas with those you discussed in exercise 2.

A load of rubbish

I'm sure the people of Brenton don't drop crisp packets and drink cans on the floor in their own home. So why do so many think it's acceptable to do so on the streets of our town?

A walk in the area around the cathedral reveals how serious the problem has become. Litter lines the pavements outside some of our most picturesque buildings, giving tourists a poor impression of the town and its residents. And incredibly, there are sometimes more plastic bags in our parks and playgrounds than there are people. Clearly, something needs to be done.

More litter bins won't solve the problem - there are already plenty of these, but most people ignore them. What we need is an awareness campaign organized by the council encouraging people to use the bins or take their rubbish home. Also, heavier fines should be imposed on anyone who is caught dropping litter - the current maximum of £100 is not enough.

Unfortunately, the council seem reluctant to act. But surely they, more than anyone, want a town they can be proud of, don't they?

- 4 Read the model answer again and find examples of the following common features of articles:
 - a title
 - b interesting beginning
 - c Direct questions
 - d adverbs which express the writer's attitude or opinion
 - c more informal use of linking words

DEALING WITH GRAFFITI

- How serious a problem is graffiti in your area?
- What can be done to stop people covering walls with graffiti?

The best articles answering this question will be published next month.

Write your article in 140-190 words.

- Give your article a title. It may be better to do. this after you have written your answer.
- Organize your ideas into logical paragraphs.
- Include the techniques and language features you saw in exercise 4.
- Do not copy whole phrases from the article in exercise 3.

Talking about photos

Why are the children being told off?

2

- 1 Look at the photographs, which show children being told off.
 - Student A Compare photographs 1 and 2 and say why you think the children are being told off.
 - Student B When your partner has finished, say how you think the adults are feeling.
- 2 Now change roles. Follow the instructions above using photographs 3 and 4 on page 137.

Listening 2

Multiple matching 2.17–2.21

- Read the text on page 204 and answer the following question. What reasons are given for children telling lies?
- 2 Tell your partner about a time when you or someone you know told a lie:
 - as a child recently

What was the reason for telling the lie? What were the consequences?

- 3 You will hear five different people talking about a time when they told a lie. For questions 1-5, choose from the list (A-H) what each speaker says. There are three extra letters which you do not need to use.
 - A I insisted on my innocence.
 - B I did not want to hurt someone's feelings.
 - C I disliked the way I had been treated in the past.
 - D I made some money by telling a lie.
 - E I lied because I was in a hurry.
 - F I did not lie intentionally.
 - G I gave two different versions of my story.
 - H I should have destroyed the evidence.

Speaker 1

Speaker 2 Speaker 3

Speaker 4

Speaker 5

Have you ever told any similar lies to those of the five speakers?

Vocabulary 3: Phrasal verbs

1 Look at the listening script on page 233 and use the context to help you guess the meanings of the phrasal verbs in bold.

Example:

- ... I owned up to my dad about lying I felt so guilty, I had to tell him. Own up means to admit or confess that you have done something wrong,
- 2 Record the phrasal verbs in your notebook. Include the definition and the sentence from the listening script in which the verb appears, as in the example in exercise 1.
- 3 Write three sentences, each including one of the phrasal verbs from the listening script. Leave gaps where the phrasal verbs should be, Include enough information in your sentences to illustrate the meanings of the phrasal verbs.

Example:

No one admitted to breaking the window, so the teacher said that if the person responsible did not , the whole class would be punished.

Show your sentences from exercise 3 to another student, who will complete the gaps.

language focus 3: Passive of reporting verbs

1	Infinitive forms (to do, to be doing, to have done) can be used after the passive of a number of reporting verbs to talk about beliefs and opinions which are shared by many people.

Young children are known to lie to avoid punishment.

This has the same meaning as:

Example:

It is known that young children lie to avoid punishment.

Change the following sentence in the same way.

He is believed to have made up the story about being mugged.

Examples of reporting verbs are: believe, consider, expect, know, say and think.

Read more about the passive of reporting verbs in Con page 217 of the Grammar reference.

- 2 for questions 1-5, complete the second sentence so that it has a similar meaning to the first sentence. Be sure to use the correct form of the verbs in bold.
 - 1 It is believed that continual nose touching indicates that someone is lying.

Continual nose touching is that someone is lying.

Vocabulary 1: Weather

- 1 Describe the typical weather conditions in your area for each season.
- 2 All the words in each of the groups 1-7 below can be used with one of the nouns in the box to form strong collocations. For each group of words write the noun which can be used in the appropriate space. There is an example at the beginning (0).

sunshine showers sky sea storm clouds rain winds

O overcast clear stormy	3 strong gale-force light	6 thick storm angry-looking
1 violent severe electric	4 warm brilliant glorious	7 light scattered snow
2 fine heavy torrential	5 rough calm choppy

- 3 Study the words in exercise 1 for two minutes. Then cover up the adjectives and see how many you can remember for each noun.
- 4 Complete each gap with a two-word adjective + noun collocation from exercise 2. More than one answer may be possible. The first one has been done for you.
 - 1 There's a lovely clear sky tonight so we might see a shooting star.
 - 2 Our garden wall was blown down during the night by _____.
 - 3 Heavy _____ will fall on high ground tonight, so skiers can look forward to a good day on the slopes tomorrow.
 - 4 It's going to rain there are some very ______ overhead. Look at them.
 - 5 ______ has caused serious flooding throughout the region.
 - 6 We sailed on a beautiful _____ with not a wave in sight.
- Describe the photos above using as many of the adjective + noun collocations as possible. What types of weather do you prefer? What weather conditions do you least like?

Multiple matching

Which of the following occur in your country?

droughts	floods	avalanches	hurricanes
earthquakes	tornadoes	volcanic eruptions

Have you experienced any of these? What was it like? What are the worst weather conditions you have had to endure?

The film posters on this page and on page 143 all show natural disaster films.

Have you seen any of these films? If so, did you enjoy it/them? Why/Why not?

If not, do you think you would enjoy any of them? Why/Why not?

3 You are going to read an article about natural disaster films. For questions 1-10, choose from the films (A-E). The films may be chosen more than once.

Before doing the matching task, underline key words in the statements 1-10.

I found the film just as absorbing as the book on which it is based.	1
The level of the acting was the main reason I enjoyed this film.	2
The plot is predictable.	3
The ending of the film may come as a surprise.	4
I had read good reviews of the film before I saw it.	5
I initially thought that no special effects had been used in the film.	6
I enjoy seeing this film in certain weather conditions.	7
The structure of the film differs from that of many other disaster movies.	8
The film should not be taken too seriously.	9
There are several scenes which are both memorable and rather unpleasant.	10

What a disaster!

James Borja reviews five natural disaster movies from his DVD collection

A Dante's Peak (1997)

I read the novel, which is based on the script, before watching the film itself. But it was the positive opinions I'd seen online, rather than the book, that persuaded me to buy the DVD. And I was not disappointed. The plot of Dante's Peak, starring Pierce Brosnan and Linda Hamilton, is built around a spectacular volcanic eruption, which brings disaster to a small town in the Cascade Mountains in North America. But what impressed me most about this film was the quality of the lead performances, rather than the volcano and all the 10 visual effects. For once, I really cared about the fate of the main characters. I even wanted their dog to survive!

B Twister (1996)

Helen Hunt and Bill Paxton star as meteorologists who put their lives at risk by chasing tornadoes, or 'twisters', in order to try out a new piece of technology. If you watch this film hoping for a complex storyline, you'll be disappointed. It's obvious from the start who will fall victim to a twister, and there are no surprises in the central love story, either. What makes this movie are the special effects. The tornadoes are frighteningly realistic and, unlike in numerous other films of this genre which slowly build up to a dramatic climax. they appear from the very beginning. Watch out for the flying cow and airborne petrol tanker: if they'd made this film in 3D, cinema audiences would have run for the exit at the sight of them.

C The Perfect Storm (2000)

leouldn't put the novel down when I was reading it, and the film adaptation gripped me in the same way. First there's the gradual buildup as the film explores the relationships of the crew being put together by Captain Billy Tyne (George Clooney) for one final fishing trip in the season. Then comes the suspense as three storm fronts, including a furricane, move together while the boat is at sea, eventually colliding to create a 'perfect storm'. The special effects are so well done, my first impression was that I was watching a real storm. And if I hadn't seen the special features on the DVD afterwards. I'd probably still think they hadn't employed any visual tricks,

D Earthquake (1974)

If you can put up with the fact that the Sensurround effect, which made cinema seats shake in the seventies, cannot be recreated on the DVD in your lounge. then this all-star classic still has plenty to offer. Computer Generated Imagery (CGI) was yet to be developed, but the special effects are still impressive, creating a number of unforgettable, if slightly disagreeable moments. Deaths are frequent and this is not a cosy family film to put your feet up with on a Sunday afternoon, And the final scene might not be what you're expecting. It certainly didn't turn out the way I thought it would.

E The Day after Tomorrow (2004)

If you combined all the extreme weather scenes of every natural disaster movie ever made, you would end up with something like this film. It has everything: hurricanes, tornadoes, floods, tidal waves, blizzards and even giant hailstones, all caused by global warming. Pure fantasy, of course, but it's all good fun, and as long as you see it as that and don't look for any deeper message, you should enjoy the film. I always find it works better for me if I watch it during a storm or when it's snowing outside. It adds a touch of realism to the experience!

Reacting to the text

Which of the films above sound the most and least appealing? Why? How much attention do you pay to reviews when deciding which film to see? Why? Is it better to read a book before or after watching the film adaptation? Why?

Language focus 2: Conditionals

1 In relation to which of the films in the reading on pages 142 and 143 are each of the following statements made?

Zero conditional

It works better for me if I watch it during a storm.

First conditional

If you watch this film hoping for a complex storyline, you'll be disappointed.

Second conditional

If you combined all the extreme weather scenes of every natural disaster movie ever made, you would end up with something like this film.

Third conditional

If they'd made this film in 3D, cinema audiences would have run for the exit at the sight of them.

Mixed conditional

If I hadn't seen the special features on the DVD afterwards, I'd probably still think they hadn't employed any visual tricks.

- 2 Identify the verb forms in bold in the sentences in 1.
- 3 Conditional sentences consist of two clauses; a main clause and a clause introduced by if (or certain other words). Events in the main clause depend on, or are conditional on, events in the if clause. Underline the correct alternatives in the following explanations for the sentences in exercise 1.

Zero conditional: a situation in which one event always occurs as the result of another. If in this sentence means whenever/although.

First conditional: a possible/an impossible situation in the future and its likely result.

Second conditional: a present or past/future situation which the speaker considers to be unlikely or impossible. Third conditional: an imaginary situation in the past, with speculation about its effect on present/past events.

Mixed conditional: an imaginary situation in the past, with speculation about its effect on present/past events.

- 4 Modal verbs can be used instead of will and would in conditional sentences. Explain the difference in meaning between these three sentences.
 - a If we leave now, we'll be home by six o'clock.
 - b If we leave now, we should be home by six o'clock.
 - c If we leave now, we might be home by six o'clock.
- 5 A number of conjunctions can be used instead of if in conditional sentences. Complete each gap with one word from the box. You do not need to use all the words.

Speaking Part 3

Collaborative task

Before you do the following Speaking Part 3 task, do the exercise in the Useful language box below.

- Imagine that you belong to an environmental group and you want to inform people of the environmental issues below. Talk with your partner about what ordinary people can do to help solve these issues.
- Now decide which two issues ordinary people can do most to help solve.

 One vocabulary item has been given for each of the five issues above. Add two more of the following items to each issue.

plastic containers bottle bank biofuel cars cigarette butts dropping litter global warming greenhouse effect oil slick dumping waste exhaust fumes

When commenting on your partner's opinions you can use so, neither or nor and the language you saw on page 128 of Unit 10 for agreeing and disagreeing.

Reading and Use of English 2

Gapped text

- How many items do you have with you now which are made of or contain plastic? What other plastic items can you see in the classroom? In what ways might your daily life be affected if there was no plastic?
- Read the base text on page 147 about the North Pacific gyre. Is there any information in the text which surprises you?

Six sentences have been removed from the text. Choose from the sentences A-G the one which lits each gap (1-6). There is one extra sentence which you do not need to use.

The Trash Vortex

The North Pacific gyre is a large area of the Pacific in which the water moves slowly round in a clockwise direction. Winds are light and the currents tend to force any floating material, including plastics and other slow degracing rubbish, into the central area of the gyre, where it remains in huge quantities. This gyre is sometimes called the Trash Vortex or the Pacific Garbage Patch. Some plastics here will not break down in the lifetimes of the grandchildren of the people who threw them away.

Around 100 million tonnes of plastic are produced each year, of which about teniper centiends up in the sea. Take a walk along any beach anywhere in the world and you will find polythone plastic bags, bottles and containers, plastic drums, polystyrene packing, pieces of polypropylene fishing net, traffic cories, disposable lighters, vehicle tyres and toothbrushes. 1 lighters, vehicle tyres and toothbrushes. 1

Trese larger items are the visible signs of a much larger problem. They do not degrade like natural materials A single one litre bottle could separate into enough tiny pieces to put one on every mile of beach in the entire world.
However, items such as bottle tops, lighters and balloons are consumed by seabirds and other animals which mistake them for lood. A turtle found dead in Hawaii had over a thousand pieces of plastic in its stomach and intestines. It has been estimated that plastic kills over a million seabirds and one hundred thousand marine mammals and sea turtles each year.
The North Pacific gyre is only one of five major ocean gyres. 41. The Sargasso Sea is a well known slow circulation area in the Atlantic, and research there has also demonstrated high concentrations of plastic particles present in the water.
In fact, around 70 per cent of discarded plastic sinks to the bottom. In the North Sea, Dutch scientists have counted around 110 pieces of litter for every square kilometre of the seabed, a staggering 600000 tonnes in the North Sea alone. These plastics can cover the sea bottom and kill the marine life which is foun there.
The issue of plastic waste is one that needs to be urgently addressed. 6 Obviously though, there is a reed to make ship owners and operators, offshore platforms and fishing boat operators more aware of the consequences of irresponsible disposal of plastic items.

With so many threats to the world oceans including pollution, overfishing and climate change we urgently need to rescue marine biodiversity in the most effective way possible.

- A At sea and on shore, under the influence of sunlight and the action of waves, they simply break down slowly into increasingly smaller particles.
- B We can all contribute by avoiding plastics in the things we buy and by disposing of our waste responsibly.
- C It is possible that this Trash Vortex problem is one which is present in other oceans as well
- D Even tiny jellyfish eat the small plastic particles floating in the water.
- E. They have been casually thrown away on land and at sea and carried ashore by wind and tide.
- F Of course, not all plastic floats.
- G This perhaps wouldn't be too much of a problem if the plastic had no harmful effects.
- 4 O Give examples of ways in which we could 'avoid plastics in the things we buy'.

Open cloze

You are going to read a text about World Carfree Day. What do you think happens on this day and why?

Read through the text quite quickly, ignoring the gaps. Compare what it says with your own ideas in exercise 1.

World Carfree Day

Each year, (0) on 22 September, people in over 1,500 cities in 40 countries celebrate World Carfree Day. (1) _____ annual event aims to raise awareness of the problems caused by our dependence on private cars. Streets are closed to traffic and opened instead to street parties, theatre, bicycle demonstrations or outdoor cafés, in (2) show people what their city might look like (3) ____ __ there were fewer or no cars. Over one hundred million people are believed to take (4) in the celebrations, although this figure is difficult to verify.

The hope is that the initiative will encourage more environmentally friendly alternatives to the car, (5) _____ as walking, cycling and public transport. (6) ______, with increasing global car production and a world which (7) _____ grown used to the benefits of private transport, some say the battle is already lost. But even if we are unlikely to see cities (8) _____ any cars at all, people may at least begin to change their habits and leave their car at home more often.

Read the text again and for questions 1-8, think of the word which best fits each gap. Use only one word in each gap. There is an example at the beginning (0). Write your answers IN CAPITAL LETTERS.

The Open cloze task focuses mainly on grammar (see page 44). However, occasionally your knowledge of vocabulary may be tested (e.g. question 4 above).

Do people in your country celebrate World Carfree Day? If so, how successful

How dependent are you and your family on the car?

Listening 2

Multiple choice 2.23-2.30

You will hear people talking in eight different situations. For Questions 1–8, choose the best answer, A, B or C.

What to expect in the exam

- In Unit 4, you saw how contrast linkers such as although, whereas and but, as well as other words and expressions, can be used to create distractors in listening exercises.
- Look at question 1 below, together with the script, and choose the best answer.
- Which structure is used to create distractors? Which words help you to choose the answer?
- 1 You hear a man talking about a new fire station that has just been built.

Where was it built?

- A in the city centre
- B in the countryside
- C on the outskirts of the city

I really can't understand why they put it all the way out there. They maintained that if they'd built it in the heart of the city there would have been problems getting out to fires in the rural areas. Too far and too much traffic, they said. But that's exactly why it would have made more sense to build it in the centre instead of on the edge. You know, it takes a fire engine nearly 20 minutes to get from that suburb to the other side of the city.

Now do questions 2–8 below. In questions 2, 3 and 4 you will hear conditional sentences. These are used to create distractors as in question 1 above.

- 2 You hear a man talking about litter.
 - Who is the man?
 - A a shopkeeper
 - B a town councillor
 - C a local resident
- 3 You hear an environmentalist speaking on the radio about a recent project.

How does she feel?

- A pessimistic
- B disappointed
- C pleased
- 4 You overhear this woman talking to her friend about her holiday.

Why did she enjoy it?

- A She liked the beaches.
- B There wasn't much traffic.
- C There weren't many people.
- 5 You hear a conversation between two people.

What is the relationship between them?

- A They are married.
- B They are teachers in the same school.
- C They are neighbours.

6 You are listening to the radio when you hear the following being read.

What is it?

- A a story
- B a news report
- C a weather forecast
- 7 You overhear this conversation between a man and his neighbour.

What is the man doing?

- A asking for help
- B apologizing
- C complaining
- 8 You hear a man talking about a recent environmental disaster.

What is he going to do?

- A help clean up
- B take part in a protest demonstration
- C write to his Member of Parliament

 - 6 Do you often drink straight from a bottle or a can, or do you usually drink from a glass?
- 2 Discuss the questions in exercise 1 with your partner. Give as much information as possible,

Language focus 1: Countable and uncountable nouns A

 The word plate is usually countable: we can say a plate, two plates, three plates and so on.

The word bread is usually uncountable: we say bread or some bread, rather than a bread or two breads.

Decide which of the following words are countable, and which are uncountable. Some of them can be both countable and uncountable. How does this affect the meaning?

milk diet chicken health chip chocolate meal pepper spaghetti cake

2 The word bread can be made countable by saying a loaf of bread or two slices of bread. Write the following uncountable nouns next to an appropriate phrase to make them countable. Some of the nouns can be used with more than one phrase.

sugar cheese jam milk toast cake spaghetti salt chocolate

- 1 a piece of

Zero-waste vegetarian cooking

Samuel Muston discovers why we should think twice before we throw away those peelings

A

Watch a few cookery shows on TV and you'll see that nearly all of the chefs waste food. Not consciously, but still they do it. When they slice off that bit of fat or throw away those peelings, they are wasting things we probably would have eaten in the past. And the reason we don't notice it is because that's the way we all cook – they simply cook like us, and, indeed, we cook like them. That's what the 26-year-old che' Shane Jordan is telling me over a plate of vegan curry at Arc Café, where he works. 'TV chefs are all chop, chop, chop, put this to the side, throw away this,' says Jordan. 'I used to watch and think "I could make a dish out of what you are throwing away alone."' So that's what he started doing.

B

At Arc he has created a series of dishes that are zero waste, or very nearly. So if he uses one part of a vegetable or fruit, he'll use the rest of it elsewhere, as long as it isn't harmful to health. In fact, his curry is banana-skins curry, the skins filling in for what would normally be meat. 'I make a lot of banana fritters with the flesh, so I'm left with all these skins,' he says. 'And I thought, "what can I do with them?" Then I found an Asian recipe which tells you how to make them edible and I built the dish around that.'

C

Jordan's cooking is inventive, but it also has a backwards-looking feel to it – and that may not be a bad thing, Tom Tanner, of the Sustainable Restaurant Association, says. 'We have become used to fast, quick, disposable food. A return to the culinary values and good housekeeping of our grandparents may help reduce the vast quantity of food we all chuck away.' Certainly the figures on waste are a cause for concern. A recent study into home eating concluded that we waste one-fifth of all the food we buy. It is against this that Jordan is fighting. 'I believe in spreading what knowledge I have of my type of low-waste cooking, I don't want to lecture people,' Jordan says. 'But I do want to try and show people there's another way.'

D

To help do this he has created a programme of school visits. In these, he'll teach kids how to cut vegetables and fruit (tight to the flesh) and think about food as something that isn't infinitely available from the fridge – and infinitely disposable. He is also targeting slightly older cooks. 'In the next few months we also plan to set up a webcam to livestream what we do in the kitchen so people can learn exactly what you can and can't eat,' Jordan says. Using peelings from fruit to add flavour to cakes and jams, for example, seems very sensible. The ends of broccoli stalks and leeks, often overlooked, are also great for throwing in stir-frys.

E

This type of creative thinking might just be what we need, according to Tanner. 'We have to face up to the fact we have a waste problem,' he says. 'It costs us money and it's bad for the environment – and to change it we need to change our attitude to the food we eat.' At a time when we are having to tighten our belts, we could all do with cutting down on the throwaway – and Jordan may just be one of the men to help us.

Writing

Report

Read the following Part 2 instructions. Which places would you recommend in your area? Why?

A group of foreign students is going to be staying in your area for a month this summer. They are keen to keep fit during their stay and the group leader has asked you to write a report giving advice on the best places to go running, swimming and cycling. In your report you should explain why these places will be of interest to the group.

Read the following answer, ignoring the gaps. How similar is the area described in the report to the area in which you live?

C. Charles	1000 WHITE
Intro	luction
H HI OL	ALCOHOL: 1

The aim of this report is to describe the best places in this area for your students to go running, cycling and swimming during their stay here.

Running

The town has one of the longest promenades in the country. as being wide and flat, it offers spectacular views out to sea. A run (2) just before breakfast is the perfect way for your students to start the day and prepare themselves mentally for their English classes.

Cycling

Cycling is forbidden on the promenade, (3) there is a cycle path on the outskirts of town, (4) YOUR students can burn a few calories after class. (5) takes cyclists through an area of woods and hills, with more superb views of the town and the sea.

Swimming

Swimming in the sea is not recommended, (6)_ water is not particularly clean. (7) _____, there is a lake is pleasant to swim in and just outside the town, (8) __ less crowded than the town's swimming pool.

Conclusion

This area offers plenty of opportunities to keep fit and your students will be able to do sport and enjoy beautiful scenery at the same time.

3 Linking a Your answers in the Writing paper in the First exam should contain evidence of linking.

Eight words which link ideas in the report have been removed. Complete each gap (1–8) with a word from the box.

as but here however this well where which

- b How has the writer of the report created links between
- I the paragraphs on running and cycling?
- 2 the paragraphs on cycling and swimming?

4 Auswering the question

You must address all the points in the question.

Underline those sections of the report where the writer has addressed the point which says: you should explain why these places will be of interest to the group.

Example

Running – A run here just before breakfast is the perfect way for your students to start the day and prepare themselves mentally for their English classes.

5 Write an answer to the following Writing Part 2 question:

A group of foreign students is going to be staying in your area for a month. You have been asked to write a report for the group leader giving advice on eating out. Describe the best places to eat cheaply in your area and say why, in addition to the reasons of cost, you think the students will enjoy eating in these places.

Write your report in 140-190 words.

Don't forget!

- Plan your answer before you start writing.
- Give each paragraph a heading.
- Make sure you address all the points in the question.
- Invent ideas if you want to.
- Use a variety of linking words and expressions.
- Write in a neutral or formal style.

For more information on writing reports, see pages 54 and 55 in Unit 4, and page 200 in Ready for Writing.

Ready for Speaking

Introduction

The Speaking paper consists of four separate parts and lasts about 14 minutes. You will probably take the test with another candidate, although it is possible to be part of a group of three; in this case, the test lasts about 21 minutes. There are two examiners: the Interlocutor, who conducts the test and asks the questions, and the Assessor, who listens to the test and assesses your performance. The Interlocutor also assesses and contributes to your final mark.

1 Read the descriptions of the four parts of the Speaking paper below and match each one to a diagram a-d. The arrows (->) show who is speaking to whom.

a INTERLOCUTOR

b INTERLOCUTOR

CANDIDATE A (←→) CANDIDATE 8

C INTERLOCUTOR

CANDIDATE A CANDIDATE 8

d INTERLOCUTOR

CANDIDATE A CANDIDATE B

Part 1 Interview Total time: 2 minutes

The Interlocutor asks you questions which require you to give basic personal information about yourself. You may speak with your partner in this part if you want to, although you do not have to.

Part 2 Talking about photographs Total time: 4 minutes

You have one minute to compare two photographs and add some further comment about them. You also have about 30 seconds to comment on your partner's pictures. You do not talk to your partner in this part.

Part 3 Collaborative task Total time: 4 minutes

After explaining the task, the interlocutor listens while you and your partner talk about something together for two minutes. The interlocutor then gives you a further minute to try to agree on a decision related to your initial discussion.

Part 4 Further discussion Total time: 4 minutes

The interlocutor asks further questions related to the topic introduced in Part 3. As well as responding to these questions, you can, or indeed may be asked to, interact with your partner and comment on what he or she says.

2 The following comments were all made by students who had just taken the Speaking test of the First exam. Look at each one and answer these questions:

Does the student set a good example to follow in the Speaking test? Why/why not? If not, how would you avoid making the same mistake?

Part 1

- a 'The examiner asked us some really simple questions at the beginning of the exam. So I just gave some short, simple answers, as I would in my own language.'
- b 'Before the exam, I learnt and rehearsed some nice long answers to all the typical questions they ask you about yourself in the exam. I knew exactly what I was going to say.'
- c 'I was a bit nervous in this part, but the questions were not difficult so I tried to answer them as fully and as naturally as I could, as if I was talking to someone I knew. It helped me to relax for the rest of the test.'

Part 2

- a 'I used some really good vocabulary to describe what everyone in the pictures was wearing, what they were doing, and so on.'
- b 'The examiner stopped me after a minute and I hadn't finished what I wanted to say!'
- c 'I was concentrating so much on the pictures when the examiner gave them to me that I forget to listen to the instructions! I had to ask her to repeat them.'

Part 3

- a 'I did really well in this part of the exam. I had lots of ideas and I couldn't stop talking. My partner was a bit quiet, though."
- b 'We had to talk about five different sports and what was difficult about them. We didn't need the full two minutes we did it in about half the time.'
- c 'We had about a minute to decide on the two most important qualities of a language learner. We agreed on one without too much problem but when the examiner stopped us we were still trying to agree on the second.'

Part 4

- a 'The examiner didn't really say very much in this part. We seemed to do most of the talking.'
- b 'My partner said that e-readers would eventually replace books. 'Nonsense,' I said, 'you must be mad.' I thought that was really good an expression of disagreement and a modal verb of deduction in one sentence!'
- c 'We had to talk about the environment, which I don't know much about, so I tried to change the topic of conversation to pets; I've got two dogs and a hamster, you see.'

Part 1: Interview Total time: 2 minutes

 Choose three of the following categories and for each one write three questions you could ask another student.

work and study	sport and keeping fit	family and friends	travel and holidays future plans	hobbies and interests	TV and Internet	likes and dislikes

Begin your questions with the following words:

```
Do/Are/Have/Would you ...? What ...? Where ...? Who ...? Why ...? When ...? How long/often/much/many ...?
```

If you write a question which only requires a short answer, write another which will encourage the other student to say more.

Example:

Where do you live? What do you like about living there?

- 2 Work with another student. Interview each other using the questions you have prepared. Develop your answers, making sure they are relevant to the question.
- 3 2.37 Listen to two students, Christina and Paolo, doing Part 1 of the Speaking test and answer the following questions:
 - 1 Does the interlocutor ask any of the same questions you prepared?
 - 2 Why does the interlocutor interrupt Christina at the beginning?
 - 3 What advice would you give to Paolo to help him improve his performance?

Don't forget!

- Do not learn long pre-prepared answers for this part of the exam. They may not be entirely appropriate to the question you are asked and they will probably not sound very natural.
- Do, however, make sure you know individual items of vocabulary which are relevant to yourself.
 For example:

Your hobbies and interests

"I'm really keen on rock climbing."

The course you have decided to study

'I would like to study for a degree in aeronautical engineering.'

What your parents do

'My mother's a systems analyst,'

Part 2: Talking about photos Total time: 4 minutes

Useful language

'Fillers' are words or phrases which enable you to think while you are speaking. Look at the following examples and think about the equivalent expressions you would use in your own language.

Buying time

Well ...

Let me see ...

What else (can I say)?

Is there anything else (I can add)?

Gathering your thoughts

I'm not quite sure, but I think ...

I haven't thought about it before, but perhaps ...

I don't really know, but I imagine ...

Don't forget!

Student A

- Do not describe the photographs in detail.
- Use the written prompt above the photographs to help you remember the task.

Student B

- Try to speak for the full 30 seconds.
- Give reasons for your opinions.
- 1 Student A Look at these two photographs. They show people on holiday in different places. Compare the photographs and say why you think the people have chosen to go on holiday to these different places.

Why have the people chosen to go on holiday to these different places?

Student B When your partner has finished say which of these places you would prefer to go to on holiday.

Now change roles and do the Part 2 task on page 203.

- 2 2.38 Listen to Christina and Paolo doing the Part 2 task and answer the following questions.
 - 1 How well does each person carry out their task when they are Student A?
 - 2 How well do they use the 30 seconds when they are Student B?

Part 3: Collaborative task Total time: 4 minutes

1 Imagine that the History Museum in your town would like to introduce some new features to attract more visitors. Below are some of the ideas which have been suggested. Talk with your partner for two minutes about what types of people these different ideas would appeal to.

Useful language

This might appeal to (elderly people).

(Younger people) are likely to find this interesting.

This might bring in a lot of (young families).

This would be suitablefideallenjoyablefgood fun for (children).

This would attract people with an interest in (clothes).

See also the Useful language box on page 71 of Unit 6.

2 Now you have about a minute to decide which two ideas would be most successful in attracting new visitors.

The Useful language box on page 120 of Unit 9 contains expressions you could use here for referring back to your discussion in exercise 1.

- 3 2.39 Listen to Christina and Paolo doing Part 3 and answer the following questions.
 - 1 How does Christina encourage Paolo to talk in the first task in Part 3?
 - 2 Which two activities do Paolo and Christina choose in the second task in Part 3?

Part 4: Further discussion Total time: 4 minutes

- Discuss the following questions with your partner.
 - What do you think makes a good museum?
 - How could the teaching of history in schools be improved?
 - Do you agree that learning about the past is important for our future?
- What was the most important moment in the history of the twentieth century?
- What has been the most important moment in your life so far?
- What items from our lives today will be in the history museums of the future?
- 2 2.40 Listen to Part 4 and answer the following questions.
 - 1 How well do Christina and Paolo interact with each other:
 - a in the first half of Part 4?
 - b in the second half of Part 4?
 - 2 Who helps the interaction more, Christina or Paolo?

A video of the Speaking test covered in this unit can be found on the Ready for First Practice Online website.

m't forget!

exclop your answers, allfying your phons and giving amples if necessary, react with your other, listening and spending to each der's comments.

Reading and Use of English

Gapped text

Look at the work of art in the photograph and discuss the following questions.

What type of person might want to own such a work of art?

Where might they put it on display?

2 You are going to read an article about British artist Damien Hirst, who created the work in the photograph. Six sentences have been removed from the article. Choose from the sentences A-G the one which fits each gap (1-6). There is one extra sentence which you do not need to use.

The most successful living artist

Have you ever thought, "I wish I could be an artist"? Don't give up hope. Damien Hirst nearly failed his art A Level at school and his work now sells for millions.

Controversial British painter Damien Hirst is generally considered to be the most successful artist alive, thanks to the huge prices paid for his work. Hirst changed the face of contemporary art in the 1990s. with his Natural History series, in which dead animals are preserved in formaldehyde and displayed in glass coses.

The first of these, his four-metre shark entitled The Physical Impossibility of Death in the Mind of Someone Living, fetched an incredible £6.5 million when it was sold to an unnamed American collector. 1 After that came a string of similarly provocative works, which included a pickled lamb in Away from the Flock, as well as dissected cows and rotting animal carcasses.

Animal rights activists objected strongly to his Amazing Revelations, a triangular collage made of thousands of dismembered butterfly wings. In 1994, Away from the Flock became the focus of attention when Mark Bridger, an artist from Oxford, poured black ink into the tank containing the dead lamb. However, Bridger claimed he was contributing to the artwork, not protesting against it and he renamed it Black Sheep.

The controversy surrounding Hirst's work inevitably raises the question of whether or not it constitutes art. For some, there is absolutely no doubt: he has been described as 'a genius' and 'a pioneer of the British art movement'. Others have a very different view, When Hirst won the prestigious Turner prize in 1995, a Conservative politician writing in Tho-Sun newspaper asked: 'Have they gone stark raving mad2, 3

But there are also many people within the art world 35 who have attacked and ridiculed the artist, accusing him of producing work which is exaggerated and silly. 4 He, too, has used the word 'silly' to describe his spin paintings, a series of works created by dropping paint onto a spinning canvas. 'You do turn 40 round after a few years and look at your stuff and you think it's embarrassing,' he confessed at an exhibition in 2005. 'Certainly everything you make is not a masterpiece."

He also freely admits to using assistants to do most of 45 his spot-paintings, which consist of rows of randomly coloured dots. Of the 500 or more such works produced, he is said to have painted only five himself. 5 And indeed, there is nothing new about artists getting others to do some of the work for them:

50 Rembrandt, for example, had very large workshops with pupils to help him, and they had to pay for the privilege.

In recent years Hirst has branched out and taken on new challenges. He has made short films, opened a 55 restaurant, set up a publishing company and even recorded a pop music single. 6 But of course, it is his art for which he will be best remembered, and like it or not, it continues to sell.

- A Indeed, the tabloid press is one of Hirst's strongest critics.
- B Entitled 'Vindaloo', it reached number two in the UK charts in 1998.
- C The work caused a sensation when it was first shown in 1992 and quickly became a symbol for the circle known as the Young British Artists, or YBAs.
- D In defence of this practice he is quoted as saying, 'Architects don't build their own houses.'
- E Mother and Child Divided, a cow and call cut in half, certainly fits this description.
- F Predictably, the artist has come in for criticism for his use of real animals.
- G Surprisingly enough, though, Hirst seems to agree with some of this criticism.

Reacting to the text

Do you think Damien Hirst's work constitutes art? Why/Why not? Why do some people pay vast sums of money for artworks? Would you?

Vocabulary 2: Paraphrasing and recording

- 1 a In 1-8 below, complete each gap with one word so that the second sentence has the same meaning as the first. The second sentence is taken from the reading text on page 169. There is an example at the beginning (0). Do the exercise without looking at the reading text on page 169.
 - O Don't abandon hope.

Language focus 1: Hypothetical situations

A Wishes

1 The reading text began with this sentence:

Have you ever thought, 'I wish I could be an artist'?

We use wish (or for more emphasis if only) to express how we would like things to be different if we had the power to change them.

- 2 Look at the following sentences and then complete each of the three rules below with words from the box.
 - 1 I wish it wasn't/weren't so cold here in winter.
 - 2 If only I had more time to study.
 - 3 I wish you'd stop interrupting me!
 - 4 I wish he wouldn't drive so fast.
 - 5 I wish I hadn't gone to see that boring play last night.
 - 6 If only you'd told me earlier.

a	We use wishlif only + about present states.	to express wishes
b	We use wishlif only +	to express ple's actions or behaviour.
c	We use wishlif only + and regrets about the	to express wishes

3 a The following sentence would sound strange. Reword it to make it sound more natural.

I wish I would give up smoking.

b What is the difference in meaning between these sentences?

I wish she could come to my party on Saturday.
I hope she can come to my party on Saturday.

Check your ideas in section A on page 220 of the Grammar reference and read more about expressing wishes.

4 In 1–5 below, underline the correct alternative in each sentence.

 I wish I could/would/did remember where I put my glasses.

- I wish I don't/didn't/won't have to do so much homework. I never have any time to myself.
- 3 The car has broken down again! I'm beginning to wish we wouldn't buyldidn't buylhadn't bought it.
- 4 I wish they didn't/would/had turn their music down next door. I can't hear myself think.
- 5 If only you'll listen/you'd have listened/you'd listened to me! None of this would have happened.
- 5 In 1–5 below, complete each gap with the correct form of the verb in brackets.

1	What glorious sunshine! I bet (be) on the b	you wish you each right now, don't you?
2	I wish you two	(stop) shouting! You're

My last exam is in June and then I'm going to spend a month in your country. You know how much I like being in the countryside – can you recommend a couple of areas where I could go walking and also see some interesting wildlife?

Thanks

Anna

Write your email in 140-190 words.

Hi Anna

You must be mad to want to go walking! When I finished my exams last year! seent about a week at home doing almost nothing. It was great. I stayed in bed all morning, thayed on the computer all afternoon and then went out in the evening. I got a summer job after that so I could pay for my holiday to creece, where I spent most of the time sumbatking.

Anyway, here are a couple of places you might want to go to during your month here. Firstly, there are the mountains in the north of the country. Lots of teople go there in the summer to get away from the city. Personally, 'wouldn't want to, occause there's nothing to do in the evenings, so 'd find it a cit boring - but you might like it.

Secondly, there's the path that goes along the coast in the south. There are no beaches and it can get a bit windy, so it's not my favourite place. But there are some good views from the cliffs. If you like that kind of thing.

Reading and Use of English 1

Multiple choice

What do you think are the advantages of growing up bilingual? What, if any, are the disadvantages?

You are going to read an article on multilingualism. For questions 1-6, choose the answer (A, B, C or D) which you think best fits according to the text.

Don't forget!

Read the text through quite quickly first to get a general idea of the content. As you read, compare your ideas in exercise 1 with those contained in the text.

Two languages good, three languages even better

Naomi is the nine-year-old daughter of Jane and Dug Gray, a translator and stone-mason who live in Finistère, the heart of Celtic Brittany in north-west France. They have opted not to bring up their three children bilingually in French and English, but trilingually, by enrolling them in Brittany's educational system, Diwan, whereby all lessons, bar English and French, are taught in Breton. Around 3000 children in Brittany are educated via this immersion method that has played an important role in the revival of the Breton language.

Jane admits that the decision was controversial:

'Other British parents said: "How dare you do that?

Don't your children have enough to take on?" But she had seen how quickly the girls absorbed French:

'I felt sure they could take in another language.' The girls' father, Dug, admits to being envious of their abilities. 'After 16 years in France, I'm comfortable with the language, but the kids still pick me up on my pronunciation and grammar mistakes,' he says.

It was once thought that forcing a child to learn more than one language could slow academic development but according to Professor Colin Baker, a world expert on bilingualism, the effect is the opposite. The evidence is that bi- and trilingualism actually increases mental capacity and that multilingual children tend to do better at school. 'The latest research shows that in intelligence tests, children with two or more well developed languages have higher scores,' he says. 'Bilingual children have two or more words for objects and ideas, so the links between words and concepts are looser, allowing more fluent, flexible and creative thinking.' He adds that children learning languages young also tend to have more confidence and better general communication skills.

Professor Tony Cline is an educational psychologist specializing in language development in children. He says, 'We used to think [the brain] had a limited capacity, like a milk bottle, and that it was impossible to pour two pints of milk into a pint bottle. Now we understand that our brains are capable of making an infinite number of connections; there is no limit to what we can take in.' He concedes that there might be minor disadvantages in having a bi- or trilingual childhood: 'The child sometimes applies the rules of one language to another, and so makes mistakes – but 50 these grammatical

'errors' are soon outgrown, as long as the child is exposed to 55 good models of language.'
It seems that by

It seems that by giving your child the option of becoming multilingual, you are offering them far more than just the acquisition of foreign language. That certainly seems to be the case for the Gray girls. All three are getting top grades at school and are literate in three languages. Naomi has also successfully taken on German, where she is proof that bilingualism increases language-learning aptitude.

Says Prof Cline: 'Multilingual children pick up other languages quickly because they have a more flexible approach and are used to handling different forms of syntax, grammar and vocabulary.'

Jane thinks her daughters have gained more than just language; they have also gained culturally. In fact, the girls are all enthusiastic about Breton culture: Naomi does extra-curricular Breton step dancing and loves singing in Breton and attending dance evenings known as fest-noz while Nina takes part in the Breton sport of Gouren, a form of Celtic wrestling. Says Prof Baker: 'Multilingual children gain the benefits of multiple sets of literatures, traditions, ideas, ways of thinking and behaving.'

80 And, he stresses, if parents have the opportunity to give their child the gift of another language, they should jump at it. Because in today's global marketplace, on top of all the above, multilinguals are far more employable than monolinguals. 'I find it a great shame

85 that languages don't have a higher place in the classroom in the UK because English is a mainstream language of business but, in the future, that is going to change.'

20

- 1 What does the writer say about the school that Naomi attends?
 - A All of the lessons are taught in Breton.
 - B English and French are not taught.
 - C It is helping Breton to regain its popularity.
 - D The pupils are all fluent in three languages.
- 2 Some people criticized the Grays for
 - A not encouraging their children to learn French.
 - B helping to promote a minority language.
 - C not sending their children to a British school.

8 I'd love ___ great way

- D expecting too much of their children.
- 3 Professor Baker says that, compared to other children, multilingual children
 - A work harder at school.
 - B tend to do better in examinations.
 - C have a less rigid way of thinking.
 - D are generally more talkative.

- 4 Professor Cline uses the example of the milk bottle to illustrate
 - A our knowledge that the brain has limitations.
 - B how much language can be stored in the brain.
 - C the link between brain size and intelligence.
 - D a previous way of thinking about the brain.
- 5 Naomi's experience is presented as evidence that multilingual children
 - A enjoy taking part in group activities.
 - B are better equipped to learn foreign languages.
 - C take advantage of opportunities they are offered.
 - D integrate easily into any new cultural environment.
- 6 What does 'it' refer to in line 82?
 - A the opportunity
 - B their child
 - C the gift
 - D another language

Reacting to the text

In the last line, Professor Baker says 'that is going to change'. What do you think might replace English as the language of business?

How might your life be different now if you had grown up bilingual in your mother tongue and English?

Language focus 2: Expressing purpose

A In order to, so as to and so that

 The full infinitive or in order to + infinitive can be used to show the purpose of an action.

Professor Cline uses the example of the milk bottle to illustrate a previous way of thinking about the brain.

She studied another language in order to make herself more employable.

In order to can also be used in the negative:

I set two alarm clocks in order not to oversleep.

So as (not) to + infinitive is another possibility.

He left work early so as not to miss his daughter's birthday.

- 2 So (that) + a clause is yet another way of expressing purpose. Look at the following examples and decide which verb forms are used after so (that) to refer to the future and which verb forms are used to refer to the past.
 - 1 I turned the light on so I could see what I was doing.
 - 2 Put your bag by the door so that you don't forget it when you leave.
 - 3 I'm going to buy a phrase book so I can at least order a coffee in Polish.
 - 4 I wore my raincoat so that I wouldn't get wet.
 - 5 I've put an extra blanket on your bed so that you won't get cold again tonight.

Check your ideas in the Grammar reference on page 221 and read more about expressing purpose.

- 3 Complete the following sentences in an appropriate way.
 - 1 We've decided to get my grandmother a computer so that ...
 - 2 We're going to get to the concert two hours before the start in order ...
 - 3 I'm taking the First exam so ...
 - 4 I pretended to be ill so ...
 - 5 She moved house in order ...
 - 6 He went up the stairs very quietly so as ...
 - 7 I'm going to do my homework as soon as I get home so ...
- 4 Think of three reasons for each of the following. Use clauses of purpose in your answers.

Why do people:

- · go to nightclubs?
- do dangerous sports?
- take exams?
- learn languages?
- · get married?
- · support football teams?

Example:

People go to nightclubs ... so as to meet new people.

in order to have a good time. so that they can dance.

B In case

1 I'll take my credit card in case I run out of cash.

The first action (taking the credit card) is done to prepare for a possible situation or problem in the future (running out of cash). When in case is followed by the present simple, it has a future meaning.

To refer to past situations we use in case + the past simple.

I wore my raincoat in case it rained.

- 2 Complete the following sentences in an appropriate way.
 - 1 Take a spare pen into the exam in case ...
 - 2 We decided not to take the car in case ...
 - 3 You should insure the contents of your house in case ...
 - 4 I'm taking a sandwich to work in case ...
 - 5 My mum gave me some extra money in case ...
 - 6 We've left a key with the neighbours in case ...

Roleplay: Expressing purpose

1 Work in pairs. Decide who is student A and who is B and follow the relevant instructions.

Student A

You are a rather fussy, over-protective parent whose teenage son/daughter is going away on a one-week camping trip with some friends. It is the first time he/she has been away on holiday without you, and you are going to give advice on what items he/she should take. Write down eight things which you consider to be essential for the trip, together with your reasons. Use the expressions above (so that, in case, etc). Use the prompts in the box below to help you.

Student B

You are a teenager who is about to go on a one-week camping trip with a group of friends. Your parents always worry too much and one of them is going to give you lots of advice about what to take. You just want to have a good time, so you're not interested in boring details. Write down at least eight items you want to take on the trip, together with your reasons. Use the expressions above (so that, in case, etc). Use the prompts in the box below to help you.

food drink cooking equipment entertainment medicines clothing emergency provisions

When you have each prepared your list, take it in turns to talk about each of the items, giving your reasons. Try to agree on at least five items which will be taken on the trip.

Writing 1

Article

Your college magazine has asked you to write an article, giving advice to next year's First students about how to prepare for the examination throughout the course. Write your article for the magazine, based on your own experience. Write your answer in 140-190 words in an appropriate style.

When planning your article, consider the following:

- organizing and learning new vocabulary
- studying grammar
- improving reading, listening, writing and speaking skills
- where and when to do homework
- organizing your time
- watching films, reading books, etc.

Clauses of purpose might be useful when giving the reasons for your advice.

Examples:

I've read several short stories this year in order to prepare for the Reading Paper.

I bought a separate notebook so that I could organize new vocabulary.

Don't forget to make reference to your own experience.

Speaking

Talking about photos

What to expect in the exam

In Part 2 of the Speaking test, Student A speaks for one minute and Student B has 30 seconds. When you do the following Speaking Part 2 tasks, practise keeping to these time limits.

- Look at the photographs below, which show people learning a foreign language.
 - Student A Compare the photographs and say how difficult you think it is for the people to learn the foreign language.
 - Student B When your partner has finished, say whether there are any foreign languages, apart from English, that you would like to learn.

How difficult is it for the people to learn the foreign language?

Listening 2 Part 1

Multiple choice 2.48-2.55

You will hear people talking in eight different situations. For questions 1-8, choose the best answer (A, B or C).

1 You hear a man talking about the language school he owns.

What does he say is the main reason for the school's success?

- A the quality of the teaching
- B the cost of the classes
- C the location of the school
- 2 You overhear a young woman talking to a friend about going abroad.

What is the woman concerned about?

- A not being fluent in the language
- B not finding work straight away
- C not knowing anybody
- 3 You hear a man giving part of a speech.

Who is he?

- A a politician
- B a sportsman
- C the manager of a sports centre
- 4 You hear a woman talking to her friend about going rock climbing,

How does she feel about it?

- A She thinks she'll enjoy it.
- B She does not want to do it.
- C She is nervous about it.

5 You hear a man talking on the radio.

Who is the man?

- A an explorer
- B a lorry driver
- C an inventor
- 6 You hear a woman talking to a friend about her husband's work situation.

How does the woman feel?

- A annoved
- B worried
- C relieved
- 7 You overhear a man talking to his wife about a

What does the man say about their friend's success?

- A He was lucky.
- B He worked hard for it.
- C He didn't deserve it.
- 8 Listen to this woman talking to her son on the phone.

What is she doing?

- A giving him advice

Word formation: Suffixes -ful and -less

1 Look at the following sentences from sections 6 and 7 of the listening. Complete each gap with the appropriate adjective or adverb form of the word in brackets. a I wasn't happy about him losing his job. We had a few _ b ______ (thank) , it all worked out in the end.

(success), hasn't he? He's done well for himself.

c Dave's been very d Fortune always smiled on him - he seemed to pass exams

Check your answers on page 239.

2 Sometimes both -ful and -less can be used to form adjectives from the same word. You are making too many careless mistakes. You need to be more careful.

Sometimes only one of the suffixes may be used.

I'm going to bed; I feel a little sleepy. (not sleepful)

He made several unsuccessful attempts to stop biting his nails. (not successless)

Which of the suffixes -ful and -less can be used to form adjectives from the nouns in the box? If neither of them can be used, is there an alternative?

Example: event \rightarrow eventful \rightarrow uneventful (not eventless) event	home	power	skill	pain	point delight	end	harm	peace	stress	thought

STUDY GRANTS in the UK

St George's House is offering grants to students wishing to study English in one of their three UK centres this summer. Grants cover:

- two months' tuition fees
- full board and accommodation
- help towards travel costs

Write to the address below, stating why you are applying and how you would expect to benefit from the grant.

The Director

St George's House

13 Southdown Road

York, YO12 4XI

Dear Sír or Madam.

I saw your advertisement in this week's edition of 'Education International' and I would like to apply for a grant to study English in one of your schools this summer.

It would be better for me if it was in your Manchester school as I have a cousin living there, who I have never met. Furthermore, the night life in Manchester is said to be excellent and I would be able to go clubbing every night after class. Manchester would also be a good base for traveiling, and I could visit Wales, the Lake District and the birthplace of the Beatles, Liverpool.

I would be grateful if you could but me in a class of no more than six students as it is difficult to learn if the class size is larger. I would particularly like to have help with idiomatic expressions in order to sound more like a native English speaker.

I know you offer free wi-fi Internet access and that would be very useful to me, too. I hope you will consider my application.

Yours faithfully

Ausra Zeronys

You are going to write your own application for one of the advertised grants at St George's House. Here is a possible paragraph plan.

Paragraph 1:

A short opening paragraph stating your reasons for writing.

Paragraphs 2 and 3:

Give relevant information about yourself, explaining why the grant would be useful and how you would benefit from studying English in the UK.

Paragraph 4:

A suitable, brief closing paragraph, re-stating your interest in obtaining the grant.

- 3 Here are four reasons to support your application. Can you add at least four more?
 - · You could not afford to study in the UK without the grant.
 - · A period of study in the UK would help you to get a job in your own country.
 - · A recent illness has caused you to fall behind in your studies.
 - You are interested in learning about British culture and the British way of life.

What further details could you add to each of the reasons?

Example:

You could not afford to study in the UK without a grant.

Although I have saved up enough money to pay the travel costs, both of my parents are unemployed and would be unable to pay for tuition or accommodation.

4 Now you are ready to write your letter of application. Write 140-190 words.

Don't forget!

- Use formal language throughout the letter.
- Provide relevant personal information together with an explanation of the different ways in which you will benefit from the grant.
- The information you give does not need to be true.

Ready for Writing

Introduction

For the Writing paper you have to complete two different writing tasks in 1 hour 20 minutes: the compulsory Part 1 task and then another from a choice of three in Part 2. For each task you write between 140 and 190 words.

Part 1

For Part 1 you have to write an (1) essay on a particular topic. You are given the title of the essay, together with some notes to guide your writing.

Part 2

For Part 2 you write one from a choice of three tasks. The possible task types are

(2) an article

(5) an email or letter, which could be either

(3) a report

a formal or

(4) a review

b informal

Extracts

Decide which writing task type (1-5) each extract (A-F) is taken from.

- A And remember, we can always put you up for the night if you want just let us know when you're thinking of coming.
- B Some people are strongly opposed to keeping animals in cages. Others, however, argue that zoos have many important benefits.
- C It is full of action and adventure and the acting is very convincing, but I have to admit, I found the plot rather too predictable.
- D I have gained a considerable amount of relevant experience in this field, and consequently feel I would be well suited to the position.
- E Have you ever wondered what it would be like to live without a mobile phone for a month? I have, and I'm really not sure I'd be able to survive that long.
- F A visit to the Museum of Modern Art is an option worth considering. However, queues can be long, so it is advisable to buy your tickets online before you go.

Register

1 The following comments were made about extracts similar to those above. Circle the appropriate alternative and match each sentence to the feature of language which is being commented on.

1 The use of 'can't' and 'isn't' show that the letter is formal/informal. a phrasal verbs

2 'Furthermore' is a very formal/informal

b question forms

3 'Own up' is a more formal/informal way of saving 'confess'.

c punctuation

4 An exclamation mark would not be used in formal/informal writing.

d contractions

5 'Could you possibly tell me what time it starts?' sounds quite formal/informal to me.

e linking words

Now look at extracts A-F again and decide whether the register in each one is formal, informal or neutral. Give reasons for your decisions, commenting on the language used.

Example:

Extract A is informal. There is a contraction and a phrasal verh, 'put up', is used. Starting a sentence with 'And' is informal, and so is the use of the dash.

Marking

When marking answers for the Writing paper, examiners consider the features in the box. Match each feature to the general advice and information in a-f below. The first one has been done for you.

	Content	Register	Accuracy	Range	Organization and cohesion
1 a		of gramm	atical structe	ares and y	ocabulary appropriate to the task.
2		-0.2
b	Check that y	our answer	addresses a	II the poir	nts in the task, 3		=
c	Write in clea	r paragrapl	ns of a suital	ole length.
d	Ensure the content is logically ordered and ideas are connected using appropriat linking words and expressions.
4		4
c	Consider the task and the target reader, and decide whether the language of your answer should be formal, neutral or informal.
5
E	Avoid making too many mistakes, particularly basic ones or ones which prevent understanding.

Planning and checking

The sentences below show the stages to follow when planning and checking your written work. Match each stage 1–6 below to the piece of general advice in a-f above to which it corresponds.

Example: 1 h

- 1 Read the task at least twice, underlining key information and requirements.
- 2 Pay particular attention to the person or people for whom your piece of writing is intended.
- 3 Make a list of ideas for your answer, then select the best ones and arrange them into logical groupings. This is your basic plan.
- 4 Note down words and expressions which might be suitable for linking your ideas.
- 5 Write down relevant words, collocations and structures which you might be able to include in your answer.
- 6 When you have written your answer, check spelling, punctuation and grammar.

Part 1: Essay

Type one

In the model answer below, both sides of the argument are considered, before a conclusion is reached in the final paragraph.

In your English class you have been discussing the role of technology in the home.

Now, your teacher has asked you to write an essay.

Write an essay using all the notes and give reasons for your point of view.

Write your essay in 140-190 words.

Model answer

Essay question

Do you agree that modern domestic appliances have improved the quality of our lives?

Notes

write about:

- I effect on household chores
- 2 time saved for other activities

3 (your own idea)

a general introduction Have domestic appliances improved the quality of our lives? Nowadays, many people have a wide range of appliances and devices in their home, all of which are designed to make life easier. However, they also have some disadvantages.

positive aspects (point 1 of Notes)

On the one hand, they have reduced the amount of time required to complete domestic chores. Cleaning and ironing, for example, can be done far more quickly and efficiently than fifty years ago. In addition, some inventions have meant that certain tasks no longer have to be performed. Washing up is almost extinct in households with a dishwasher, and thanks to the microwave, cooking is no more than pushing a button.

negative aspects (points 2 & 3 of Notes) on the other hand, some modern technology has made our lives less interesting than before. Food which has been taken from the freezer and heated in a microwave is not as tasty as fresh food cooked in a conventional oven. Moreover the reason many people buy these labour-saving devices is to enable them to spend more time working, which does not necessarily make them happier.

conclusion, summarizing opinion To sum up, although technology has made life easier in the home, it has not improved the overall quality of our lives.

introduction, sating opinion is it better to go on holiday with family or friends?
Provided there are reasonably strong and healthy relationships between parents and children, it is my opinion, that a family holiday has more advantages than one with friends.

first reason (int 1 of Notes) To begin with, it is much more economical to spend your holiday with your family, particularly if you are a teenaged Parents are happy to pay for most almost everything, enabling their children to do things they would not be able to afford to if they were with friends.

econd reason rt2 of Notes) Secondly, even though the two types of holiday are very aifferent, you can have just as much fun with your family as with your friends. Parents and children may not always agree on what to do each day, out this is also true between friends.

third reason int3 of Notes) Finally, an important advantage of having fun with your family is that it helps to strengthen relationships between the aifferent members. In their busy lives, they have little time to spend with each other; a holiday helps bring everyone together in a relaxed situation.

conclusion, ating opinion In conclusion, whilst time spent away with friends can be very enjoyable, a holiday spent with the family has a much more beneficial effect.

Importantly, with a job like this, I would be doing something I believe in, helping to preserve the environment for future generations. And although I'd be far from built-up areas and large populations, I would still have contact with people, teaching visitors to the reserve about nature conservation.

Of course, it's not the best-paid job in the world. But I'd probably be able to afford to rent a small cottage with a cosy fireplace and a vegetable garden. It's not everybody's idea of luxury, but personally, I couldn't imagine anything better.

HI EMMA

Thanks for your email. It sounds as if you had a good time on your hollday - perhaps a little too good! You definitely need to change some of those bad habits you picked up. Firstly, you should do some regular physical exercise. If I were you. I've go logging at least three or four times a week. You live in a beautiful area with lots of lovely country paths, so there's no excuse for not getting out and going for a run. It's also a good idea to leave the car in the garage and walk to the shops instead. They're not far from your house, and you'll be surprised how much better you'll feel as a result.

Model answer

introduction

Dear Mrs Simpson I would like to apply for the job of Camp Helper as advertised in this month's issue of 'International Student'.

reasons for applying

I like being with children very much and I would certainly enjoy the challenge of working with them on one of your camps. Moreover, I have just finished school and in October I will be starting a degree course in English. I am therefore very keen to improve my language skills in an English-speaking country before I go to university.

Introduction

The aim of this report is to give suggestions to a group of elderly tourists on how to make the most of their morning in Roxburgh.

sightseeing

The group might like to begin the morning with a visit to the sixteenth century church, with its impressive stained-glassed windows. Within easy walking distance of the church is the Roxburgh Folk Museum, containing numerous exhibits which show what life was like in the town in former centuries.

Shopping

For those who would like to go shopping, the farmers' market in the main square is an option worth considering. A wide choice of fresh, organic produce is on sale, together with locally made cheeses, bread and wine. The square also contains a number of interesting pottery shops, some of which offer discounts to senior citizens.

Lunch

Write your review in 140-190 words.

Model answer

Wizard Warren Whizzbang

I had a truly magical evening when I went to see Warren Whitzbang with my ten-year-old nephew last month. It was the first live magic show I had been to, and it won't be my last.

Warren started the show with a few of the typical tricks you often see on television, but it was so much more impressive to see them performed live. The audience watched open-mouthed as he made a variety of objects disappear, turned rabbits into birds and seemed to out his assistant in hauf.

The most entertaining part of the show came when he invited members of the audience onto the stage, we couldn't stop laughing as he produced renoils from people's ears and mice from their pockets, it was absolutely hilarious.

The card tricks were a cittle disappointing, mainly because it wasn't always easy to see what was happening. My neshew and I both cost interest at this point, although fortunately, this section of the show was quite short.

Whatever your age, warren whizzbang is definitely worth going to see, even if you are unimpressed by magic on the television. The live experience is simply unforgettable.

A strange way to enjoy yourself

- (1) Have you ever seen a smile on the face of a long-distance runner? Running 10 kilometres or more certainly doesn't sound much fun, but this sport is a powerful addiction and once you've started, you'll find it difficult to give it up.
- (2) So what is the attraction of running? For me, whether I'm working or studying, there is no better way of getting rid of stress. I can think my problems through and at the end of the race I have the answers. And simply completing a half or full marathen increases my confidence and makes me feel on top of the world.
- (3) If you're thinking of taking it up yourself, don't try to do too much at the beginning. You should set yourself realistic targets and always do warm-up exercises before you run. Also, make sure you buy a good pair of running shoes to protect your knees and back from injury.
- (4) And don't be put off by the expressions on the faces of the runners - they're enjoying every minute, and so will you!
- 2 Match each of these summaries to a paragraph in the
 - a Benefits of the sport and reasons for liking it.
 - b Closing comment.
 - c What the sport is and what is special about it.
 - d Advice to people who want to do this sport.
- 3 Who is the article written for (the target reader)?

- 4 Is it written in a more formal or informal style? Find examples of the following:
 - a contractions: e.g. she's, won't
 - b informal linking words: e.g. but
 - c direct questions
 - d phrasal verbs
- 5 Match each of the features 1-3 with its purpose a-c.
 - 1 The title

- Boxer James DeGale puts his left sock and shoe on first before climbing in the ring.
- Hockey player Helen Richardson has to be the last person onto the pitch when the British team goes out to play a match.
- Canocist Helen Reeves always listens to the same three songs in the same order before competing.

Unit 10

Listening 2: Part 3 Multiple matching, page 136

When children first begin lying, they lie to avoid punishment, and because of that, they lie indiscriminately — whenever punishment seems to be a possibility. A three-year-old will say, "I didn't hit my sister," even though a parent witnessed the child hit her sibling. A six-year-old won't make that mistake — she'll lie only about a punch that occurred when the parent was out of the room.

By the time a child reaches school age, the reasons for lying are more complex. Punishment is a primary catalyst for lying, but as kids develop empathy and become more aware of social relations, they start to consider others when they lie. They may lie to spare a friend's feelings. Secret keeping becomes an important part of friendship and so lying may be a part of that. Lying also becomes a way to increase a child's power and sense of control - by bragging* to assert his status, and by learning that he can fool his parents.

"talking about achievements or possessions in a proud way that annoys people

Unit 14

The vocabulary for this unit (turn, make and do) appears in the Workbook in the Lexical phrase list and the Phrasal verb list.

Grammar reference

Unit 1

Habitual behaviour in the present

- A The present simple is used for habitual actions or permanent situations in the present.
 - I go for a run twice a week. She lives near the park.
- B Frequency adverbs are used to indicate how often an action occurs. They are usually placed:
- before the main verb,
 - I always go to bed before midnight.
- 2 after the verb to be or an auxiliary verb.
 - She is very often late for work.
 - They have rarely been seen together.
- 3 Usually normally frequently, sometimes, (veryiquite) often and occasionally can also be placed at the beginning of the sentence or clause.
 - Occasionally we go out to the cinema, but usually we stay in and watch a DVD.
 - NB always, rarely, seldom, hardly ever and never cannot be used in the same way.
- 4 Sometimes and quite/not very often can be placed at the end of the sentence or clause.
 - Farm vets have to do some pretty unpleasant things sometimes.
 - I don't go to the cinema very often.
- 5 Adverb phrases such as now and again, from time to time, twice a week and every day are placed at the beginning or end of a clause or sentence, but not between the subject and the verb.
 - I see Paul at work every day and from time to time we have lunch together.

Alternatives

- 1 The present continuous + always is used to talk about things which occur frequently and which the speaker finds annoying.
 - He's always complaining about something!
- Adjectives can be used as an alternative to rarely, normally and (not) usually.
 - It's rare/normal/(un)usual for him to eat meat.
- 3 Rend to + infinitive is used to make general statements about the habitual actions and situations of groups of people or individuals.
 - British people tend to drink tea rather than coffee.
- I tend not to get up very early on Sundays.
- 4 Will infinitive is used to talk about habitual behaviour. Frequency adverbs can also be added.
 - She'll sometimes spend the whole day reading.
- 5 It's not like someone to do something is used to suggest that the way a person has behaved is not typical of their character.
 - I'm surprised Graham didn't send me a card. It's not like him to forget my birthday. (He doesn't usually forget it)

Habitual behaviour in the past

A The past simple is used for regular actions or habitual behaviour in the past, often with a frequency adverb. I hardly ever went away on holiday when I was young.

- B Used to + infinitive is used to refer to past habits and situations which no longer occur or exist now. Frequency adverbs can be used for emphasis and are placed before used to.
 - We used to have a cat, but he died last year.
 - I always used to walk to work until I bought a car.
 - Note the negative and question forms:
 - I didn't use to like cheese. Where did you use to live?
 - NB use to cannot express present habitual behaviour.
 - I usually (not use to) play tennis twice a week.
- C Would + infinitive is used to refer to past habits, but not past situations. Prequency adverbs are placed after would.
 - Habit: My father would often read to me when I was a young box.
 - Situation: I used to (not would) have a bicycle.
 - Stative verbs such as have (possession), be, live, like, believe, think (= have an opinion), understand and know are not used with would to refer to the past.

Be used to/get used to + noun or gerund

- Be used to noun/gerund means 'to be accustomed to'. She's a nurse so she's used to seeing sick people.
- Get used to + noun/gerund means 'become accustomed to'.

 I want to leave Athens; I can't get used to the heat.

Unit 2

Indirect ways of asking questions

A number of expressions can be used to ask questions in a more indirect way. Indirect questions can sound more polite than direct ones.

Could you tell me what time it is?

Would you mind telling me where he works?

We'd like to know when you first started singing.

When asking indirect questions the same word order is used as when we make statements. The auxiliary verbs, $d\alpha_i$, $d\alpha_i$ and did_i are omitted.

If or whether is used if there is no question word such as where, what, why, when, who and how.

Could you tell us if/whether you are married?

Gerunds and infinitives

- A The gerund is used in the following cases:
- 1 as the subject/object/complement of a clause or sentence;
 - Subject: Reading in the car makes me feel sick. Object: I find shopping for clothes really boring,
 - Complement: My favourite sport is swimming.
- 2 after prepositions
 - I'm not very good at making things:
- 3 after certain verbs
 - Peter suggested going for a picuic.
- B The infinitive with to is used:
- 1 to express purpose
 - I'm learning English to help me get a better job.

Grammar reference

2 after many adjectives, e.g. delighted, disappointed, easy, happy, important, lucky, necessary, normal, possible, surprised

I was surprised to hear she had failed the exam.

3 after certain verbs

He offered to give her a lift, but she decided to walk.

- C The infinitive without to is used:
 - 1 after modal verbs.

You can look at it, but you mustn't touch it.

2 after help, let, make, would rather, had better I'd better go - it's late. I'd rather stay here, though. To is optional if an infinitive is used after help. Classical music helps me (to) relax.

D Gerunds and infinitives after verbs

1 Verb + gerund:

Have you finished cleaning your room?

The following verbs, like finish, are normally followed by the gerund:

- a certain verbs expressing likes and dislikes: adore, detest, dislike, enjoy, don't mind, can't stand
- b other verbs: admit, avoid, can't help, consider, delay. deny, feel like, forgive, give up, imagine, involve, keep, mind, miss, postpone, put off, practise, prevent, regret, resist, risk, suggest.
- 2 Verb + infinitive with to:

He promised not to tell anyone what she had said.

- a The following verbs, like promise, are normally followed by the infinitive with to: (can't) afford, agree, appear, arrange, ask, attempt, choose, decide, deserve, expect, fail, hesitate, hope, learn, manage, offer, prepare, pretend, refuse, seem.
- b With these verbs, a direct object is needed: advise, allow, enable, encourage, force, invite, order, persuade, recommend, remind, teach, tell, warn. My job enables me to use my language skills.
- C The infinitive with to is also used after: would like, would love, would hate, would prefer.
- 3 Verb + gerund or infinitive with to:
 - a like, love, hate and prefer are usually followed by the gerund. However, the infinitive with to is also possible with little, if any, difference in meaning, I love going/to go for long walks in the hills. The infinitive with to is common after hate for specific situations, and after like when it means be in the habit of.

I hate to interrupt, but we really must be going. I like to have a shower when I get home from work.

- b begin, start, continue and intend can be followed by the gerund or infinitive with no change in meaning. She fell over and started crying/to cry.
- c forget, remember, go on, mean, need, stop and try can be followed by the gerund or the infinitive with to, but with a change in meaning.
- remember + gerund = recall a previous action I remember coming here when I was young. forget + gerund is not often used to talk about an action you do not recall. Instead, not remember is

I don't remember seeing Jim at the party. remember/forget + infinitive = (not) remember what you have to do

We must remember to feed the cat before we go. Don't forget to phone me if you need any help.

 go on + gerund = continue with the same activity Some footballers go on playing professionally until they're nearly 40. go on + infinitive = change to a different activity

After a successful career as a football player, Johan Cruvll went on to become a respected manager.

 mean + gerund = involve Dieting usually means giving up things you enjoy. mean + infinitive = intend

I meant to phone the electrician but I forgot. need + gerund = (passive meaning) This house needs painting. (= needs to be painted)

I need to get some new shoes.

need + infinitive = (active meaning) stop + gerund = no longer do something I've stopped smoking: it's too expensive. stop + infinitive = interrupt one activity in order to do another

Let's stop to buy some sweets on the way home.

 try + gerund = experiment in order to see what will happen

Try resting for a while: you might feel better then. try + infinitive = attempt to do something Alan tried to stop the thief as he ran away.

the furthest/

B tise

1 Comparatives and superlatives:

To talk about people or things that are different in some way we use:

a comparative forms of adjectives/adverbs + than. I think listening is more difficult than reading. For small differences, use a bit, a little, slightly. You need to work a little harder.
The big differences was much (anits) a bit for

For big differences, use much, (quite) a lot, fat, significantly.

My new car's much faster than my old me.

- b superlative forms of adjectives/adverbs. That's the nicest thing vou've said to me all day. To emphasize the difference between one person or thing from all the others, use by far or easily. This is by far the best book I've ever read. Use in before a noun when specifying the group. Steven's the naughtiest boy in the class.
- c less and the least.

Less and least are the opposites of more and most.
Rugby is less popular than football here.
That's my least favourite track on the album,
Like more and most, they can be used as adverbs.
You should eat less and exercise more.
Use less/least with uncountable nouns, and fewer/Jewest with plural countable nouns. Use more/most with all nouns.

I'm eating less chocolate and fewer sweets, and drinking more water.

2 As ... as:

a For people or things that are the same in some way, we use as + adjective/adverb + as.

She's as Intelligent as her sister.

Use almost, nearly, just to qualify the comparisons. It's almost as hot today as it was yesterday.

- b So can replace the first as in negative sentences.

 It's not so difficult as I thought it would be.

 To describe small differences, use not quite.

 He's not quite so impatient as his brother.

 [He's a little more patient than his brother.)

 To describe big differences, use not nearly.

 Iter new film isn't nearly as bad as her last one.

 [= Her new film is much better than her last one.)
 - Use as much with uncountable nouns, and as many with countable nouns,

I haven't got as many chips as Sally. It's not as much fun without Joe here,

- d The same + noun as My mun's the same age as my dad.
- 3 The + comparative, the + comparative: Use this structure for changes which occur together; the second is often the result of the first.

The more money I have, the faster I spend it.

4 little/no/(not) a lot of/(not) much difference between: There isn't much difference between my job and yours.
(- My job is similar to yours.)

Unit 4

Past tenses

A The past simple is used to refer to:

1 completed actions which happened at a specific time. I went to the cinema last night.

2 completed actions and situations which happened over a specific period of time.

I lived and worked in Germany for three years.

3 habitual actions or behaviour in the past.
We played football in the street when I was a child.

4 a series of consecutive events in the past. He kissed her, said goodbye and closed the door.

B The past continuous is used to refer to:

1 temporary activities or situations in progress at a particular moment in the past.

This time last week we were sitting on the heach.

2 a past activity or situation which was already in progress when another action occurred (the activity or situation in progress may or may not continue).

I was reading to my son when the lights went out.

3 activities or situations occurring at the same time. Ann was cutting the grass while I was cooking.

4 the background events in a narrative.

It was snowing heavily and a cold wind was blowing. My brother and I were reading in front of the fire. Suddenly there was a knock at the door.

C The past perfect is used to:

1 show that a past action or situation occurred before another past action or situation.

When I saw Tim, he had just passed his driving test.

2 We use the continuous form to emphasize the duration of the first past action or situation.

She had been waiting for over two hours when he phoned to say he couldn't come.

D Time linkers

1 The past perfect is often used with time linkers e.g. after, before, by the time, as soon as, once, when, until. I couldn't go out until I had done my homework.

2 The past simple can be used if the order of events is clear.

He sold his house before he left the country.

Or if the second event occurred as a result of the first.

When I realized what time it was, I ran outside.

3 After/afterwards

After is used to show the order of two or more events in the same sentence.

After he'd cleaned the house, he went shopping.

Afterwards means after that and can go at the beginning or the end of a clause.

We had lunch and afterwards we went for a walk,

They played termis and had a coffee afterwards.

NB after would not be correct in these two sentences.

4 At last/in the end/at the end

At last suggests that something good happens after a long period of time or more than one attempt.

I've passed the First exam at last! I failed twice before! In the end has a similar meaning and may also suggest there have been one or more changes or problems. The result may be good or bad.

The car broke down several times on the way but we got there in the end.

NB eventually can also be used in this sentence.

At the end means at the point when something finishes.

Hand in your books at the end of the lesson,

5 When/as/while

These can all be used with the past continuous to introduce an action which was already in progress when another action occurred.

As/when/while I was running, I saw a rabbit.

6 During/in/for

These are all used as prepositions when referring to time, and are followed by a noun. During and in are used to say when something happened.

It rained a lot during/in the night.

For is used to say how long something took or lasted. We went to Spain for two weeks during the summer.

So and such

These intensifiers are used to give emphasis.

1 So is used before:

a adjectives and adverbs without nouns.
I'm so tired. I'll have to go to bed.

b much, many, little, few. You shouldn't eat so much, tan.

I didn't expect there to be so many people at the concert.

2 Such is used with or without an adjective before:

a singular countable nouns (the indefinite article a/an is also needed).

I can't stand him. He's such an idiot.

I'd never heard such a wonderful voice before.

b uncountable nouns and plural countable nouns (the article is not needed).

I haven't eaten such good food for a long time.

Our neighbours are such friendly people.

3 So and such can both be used with a that clause to talk about the results or consequences.

It was such a boring place that we decided to leave. It was raining so hard we had to stop the car.

Obligation and necessity

A Must/Mustn't + infinitive without to

- 1 Must is used:
 - a for strong obligations imposed by the speaker. The speaker uses must to express his/her authority. You must be here by 8 am. (manager to employee)
 - b to give strong advice.
 It's a great film. You really must go and see it.
 - to tell oneself what is necessary.
 I must remember to phone Roger.
 - d in signs and notices indicating rules and laws; Competition entries must be submitted by email.
- 2 Must not or mustn't is used:
 - a to talk about something that is not permitted.
 Passengers must not smoke on the aircraft.
 You mustn't drive without your seatbelt on in Britain.
 - b to give strong advice.

You mustn't work too hard, You'll make yourself ill,

3 Past form

Must does not have a past form. Had to is therefore used to refer to the past.

We had to write a formal email in the exam.

4 Question form

Must is possible in questions forms
Must you wear that harrible dress?
although have to is more common
What do we have to do for homework?

B Have to/Don't have to

Have to is used to refer to strong obligations imposed by another person rather than by the speaker.

I have to be at work by 8 o'clock. The boss will get angry if I'm late. (employee to a friend)

Don't have to expresses a lack of obligation.

I'm glad I don't have to wear a suit. It's so hot today.

C Need to/don't need to/needn't

Need to is used to express necessity.

Can we go to the baker's next. I need to get some bread. Don't need to/needn't express a lack of necessity.

We don't need to/needn't leave yet. It's only 2 o'clock.

D Should/Shouldn't + infinitive without to Should and shouldn't are used to express obligation or give advice. Ought to can also be used with the same meaning as should.

You ought totshould see a doctor about your backache, If you're on a diet you shouldn't drink beer.

E Be supposed to/Had better

Be supposed to is used to talk about what should be done because of a rule or because it is expected.

Come on, it's 10 o'clock. You're supposed to be in bed!

Had better + infinitive without to often implies a warning of possible negative consequences if the advice or precaution is not taken. The negative is had better not.

We'd better not eat it - it might be poisonous. You'd better wear a hat. I don't want you to get a cold.

Permission

To express permission it is possible to use can, may (more formal) or be allowed to.

In the negative these express lack of permission, or prohibition.

You can have a drink but you can't have any crisps.

We aren't allowed to wear trainers to school.

Could and was/were allowed to are possible for general permission in the past.

In my last job we had flexitime, so we could arrive more or less when we wanted to.

Could is not used when referring to a particular situation in the past. Only was/were allowed to is possible.

I was allowed to stay up late last night.

Let and make

Both these verbs are followed by the infinitive without to. Let is used to express permission

My dad doesn't/won't let me watch that programme.

Let is not normally used in the passive. Be allowed to is used instead.

I wasn't allowed to go to the perty on my own.

Make is used to express obligation.

The teacher made her do some extra homework.

In the passive, make is followed by the infinitive with to.

He was made to pay for the window he had broken.

Noun phrases

A Noun - noun can be used:

1 in a large number of commonly accepted compound nouns. The two nouns together describe a single idea. Some compound nouns are usually written as two words:

a post office a hand towel a mouse met Others are written as one word: a postman a handbag a mousetrap

2 for containers.

a tea cup a water bottle an ice bucket

- 3 for things that occur or appear regularly, the evening flight—the weekend edition the January sales

Grammar reference

3 to show duration.

an hour's delay two weeks' holiday five minutes' rest

Compound adjectives can sometimes be used to express the same ideas. [See Unit 14]

Unit 6

Relative clauses

Relative clauses give information about something or someone in the main clause.

A Defining relative clauses

Defining relative clauses contain information which is essential for our understanding of the whole sentence.

The man who normally comes to clean our windows is on holiday this month.

There's only one clock that works properly in this flat! A widow is a woman whose husband has died.

In each case, the relative clause identifies which person or thing is being talked about.

Features of defining relative clauses

- No commas are required either at the beginning or the end of the relative clause.
- That can be used instead of who for people and which for things, particularly in spoken English.

	For people	For things
Subject:	who/that	which/that
Object:	who/that/whom*	which/that
Possessive:	whose	whose

*whom is more formal than who

 The relative pronoun can be omitted if it is the object of the verb in the relative clause.

I'm enjoying the book (which/that) you lent me.

 The relative pronoun cannot be omitted if it is the subject of the verb in the relative clause.

That's the shop assistant who/that served me the last time I came here.

B Non-defining relative clauses

Non-defining relative clauses contain information which is not essential for our understanding of the sentence. We can identify which person or thing is being talked about without the information in the relative clause.

Their new house, which has five bedrooms and a games room, is much larger than their previous one.

At the party she spoke to Mr Peterson, whose father owned the company she worked for.

Features of non-defining relative clauses

- Commas are required both at the beginning and the end of the relative clause (except when the end of the relative clause is also the end of the sentence).
- · That cannot be used in place of who or which.

	For people	For things
Subject:	who	which
Object:	who/whom	which
Possessive:	whose	whose

 Relative pronouns cannot be omitted from nondefining relative clauses.

Her maths teacher, who/whom everyone in the class adored, announced that he was leaving the school.

- Non-defining relative clauses are more common in written English.
- Which can be used in non-defining relative clauses to refer to the whole of the main clause.

No one phoned him on his birthday, which made him feel rather depressed.

C Relative clauses and prepositions

- Prepositions usually come at the end of defining and non-defining relative clauses.
 - In defining relative clauses the relative pronoun is usually omitted.

The town I grew up in has changed a lot since I left.

In non-defining relative clauses the relative pronoun is Keith Rolf, who I used to work with, lives in Paris now.

2 In more formal English, prepositions often come before the relative pronouns whom for people and which for things (in which case the pronoun cannot be omitted). We shall be visiting the room in which Turner painted some of his greatest works.

The head waiter, to whom we addressed our complaint, was not particularly helpful.

- D Relative adverbs: where, when and why Where, when and why can be used in relative clauses after nouns which refer to a place (where), a time
- 1 Where has the meaning 'in/at which'.

(when) or a reason (why).

Defining: They've booked a week in the campsite where we stayed last year.

Non-defining: She's in Southlands Hospital, where you were born.

2 When has the meaning 'on/in which' and can be omitted or replaced by that in defining relative clauses.

Defining: Do you remember the day (when/that) we went to Rhyl and it snowed.

Non-defining: We're going on holiday in September, when most people are back at work.

3 Why has the meaning 'for which' and can be omitted or replaced by that in defining relative clauses.

Defining: The reason (whylthat) I'm phoning is to ask you for Tina's address.

Causative passive with have and get

1 The structure have/get + object + past participle to indicate that the action is done for the subject by someone else and not by the subject. The subject causes the action to be done.

Compare the following:

I repainted the windows. (= I did it myself)

I had the windows repainted. (= someone did it for me)

Get can be used instead of have in this structure. It is slightly more informal.

Where did you get your photos developed?

All tenses of have and get are possible.

We've just had our washing machine repaired.

I'm getting my hair done tomorrow.

2 The same structure can also be used for events (usually unpleasant) which are outside of the speaker's control. John had his car stolen last week.

The present perfect

The present perfect links past events and situations with the present.

A The present perfect is used:

1 to give news of recent past events which have some relevance to the present.

Lisa has had an accident: she's in hospital but she's OK,

2 to describe something that started in the past and continues to the present.

We have lived in the same house ever stace we got married.

3 to describe events which occurred at some time between the past and the present. Exactly when they happened is not known or not important.

I've been to Poland three or four times.

4 to talk about something which occurred in the past, but in a time period which includes the present.

Judy's boyfriend has phoned her three times this morning - and it's not even 11 o'clock!

5 after the expression it/this/that is the first/second/third, etc. time.

This is the first time I've seen this programme,

B Time expressions

1 The present perfect is commonly used with ever, never, just, recently, so far, still, yet and already when referring to a time period up to now.

They haven't booked their holiday yet.

I've had three cups of coffee so far this morning.

2 For is used with periods of time to show how long something has lasted.

I've known Eric for twenty years.

Since is used with points in time to show when something started,

I've had this watch since 1984.

C The present perfect continuous can be used:

1 to emphasize the duration of a situation or activity. It's been snowing all day.

2 to suggest that a situation or activity is temporary.

My num's not well, so I've been looking after her.

3 to suggest a situation or activity is incomplete.
Fve been painting the house – that's why it's in a mess.

4 to focus on the repetition of a situation or activity. He's been getting into trouble at school a lot recently.

D The present perfect simple and continuous

1 Both simple and continuous forms of the present perfect can be used to talk about the effects in the present of a past event.

Your new shoes are rained! You've been ploying football in them, haven't you? (an activity)

I can't do any sport for a few weeks; I've broken my arm, (a single action)

2 The continuous form is not used if we talk about the number of things that have been completed or the number of times a thing has been done.

She's been eating chocolate biscuits.

She's eaten six chocolate biscuits.

C Stative verbs such as have (to possess/own), think (to have an opinion), be, like, believe, understand and know are not normally used in the continuous form. We've known each other for a long time, ✓ We've been knowing each other for a long time, X

Expressing preferences

A Prefer

1 Prefer + gerund + to + gerund is usually used to talk about general preferences.

I prefer playing basketball to watching it.

Would prefer i infinitive with to + rather than + infinitive without to is normally used to talk about preferences on a specific occasion.

I'd prefer to walk to school today rather than go by bus.

B Would (much) rather would rather + infinitive without to + than + infinitive without to has the same meaning as would prefer to. I'd rather not talk about it at the moment.

I'd much rather do nothing all day than 20 to school,

Unit 8

The future

1 Will : infinitive without to can be used to talk about:

a hopes, expectations and predictions. These can be introduced by verbs such as believe, expect, hope and think. Adverbs such as definitely, (almost) certainly and probably may also be used; they come after will and before won?.

United will probably win the league again this year. "Where's Anne?" I expect she'll be here soon."

She definitely won't pass her exams; she's too lazy.

b decisions made at the moment of speaking, including offers.

We'll babysit for you if you want to go out.

C future facts; events which the speaker knows or believes are certain to happen.

Summer will be here soon.

2 Be going + infinitive with to can be used to talk about:

 a personal intentions and plans formulated before the moment of speaking.

I'm going to stay in tonight and read my book.

The infinitive to go can be omitted.

Do you know where you're going (to go) on holiday yet?

b predictions, as an alternative to will.

I don't think I'm going to dol'll do very well in the

If there is evidence now that something is certain to happen, we usually use going to:

Stand back! The building's going to collapse!

3 Modal verbs express degrees of possibility when talking about:

a intentions.

I may/might go swimming temorrow, (possibility)

b predictions.

It mayhnight/could well rain tomorrow. (probability)
If we leave now, we should be home by six.
(probability)

We may not/might not have time to see everything in the museum. (possibility)

4 The present continuous can be used to talk about future arrangements which have already been made, usually with other people or organizations.

Grammar reference

Sue and Alan are getting married in June.

We're having lunch out tomorrow. I've booked a table.

5 The present simple can be used:

a to talk about timetabled or scheduled events. The film starts at 9.15, just after the news. What time does your bus leave?

b to refer to the future after time linkers such as when, before, after, until, by the time, as soon as.
Give me a call as soon as you arrive.
The present perfect can also be used in this way.
You can't go out until you've tidied your room.

6 The future continuous, will + be + -ing, is used to talk about actions or events which will be in progress at a certain time in the future.

This time tomorrow I'll be flying over France.

7 The future perfect simple, will + have + past participle, is used to talk about actions and events that will be completed by a certain time in the future.
By the end of today we'll have driven over 500km.

8 The future perfect continuous, will + have + been + -ing, is used to talk about actions and events which continue to a certain time in the future.

On 21 May I'll have been living here for exactly 10 years.

- 9 Be about to + infinitive/be on the point of + gerund can be used to talk about the immediate future. Can I phone you back? I'm just about to have lunch. The police are said to be on the point of solving the crime.
- 10 Be (un)likely + infinitive with to expresses probability. They've got a map with them so they're unlikely (not likely) to get lost. (= they probably won't get lost)
- 11 Shall I/we + infinitive without to is used to ask for suggestions, advice and instructions. Where shall we go tomorrow night? Shall I phone Les? What shall I say?
- 12 A number of other verbs can be used to talk about future hopes, plans, intentions and expectations. We hopelexpect to win tomorrow. Are you planning to golon going out tonight? We're thinking of moving abroad.

Unit 9

Modal verbs for speculation and deduction

A Certainty

If we are fairly certain about something, must, can't and couldn't can be used to express this.

- 1 For present situations the modal verbs must, can't and couldn't are followed by the infinitive without to.
 'I haven't slept for two days.' You must be exhausted!'
 I can hear singing, so we can't be far from the stadium.
 The continuous infinitive can also be used.
 Why is he wearing his uniform? He couldn't be going to
 - Why is he wearing his uniform? He couldn't be going to school it's Saturday today.

2 For past situations we use the same modal verbs + have + past participle (the perfect infinitive without to).
1 can't find my book. I must have left it at school.
This essay is poor. You can't have spent long on it.
The continuous form can also be used.
The road's wet - it must have been raining.

NB mustn'i is not normally used when making deductions about present or past situations.

B Possibility

If we are not certain about something but think it is possible, we use may (not), might (not) or could (but not could not).

1 For present situations these modal verbs are followed by the infinitive without to. The continuous infinitive is also possible.

'Ed's not answering my emails.' 'He might be on holiday.'
He could be telling the truth, but it's hard to believe.

2 For past situations we use the same modal verbs + have + past participle (the perfect infinitive without to). The continuous form is also possible.

I think we may have taken the wrong road. This doesn't look familiar.

Sean looked sad. He might not have been feeling well.

NB It is not possible to use can when speculating about present or past situations.

Question tags

A Form

Question tags are formed using either a modal verb, an auxiliary verb or the verb to be + subject pronoun. A negative tag is normally used with a positive statement, and a positive tag with a negative statement.

1 If the verb to be appears in the statement, it is repeated in the question tag.

He isn't married, is he?

I'm late again, aren't I? (not amn't I?)

2 If an auxiliary verb or a modal verb appears in the statement, it is repeated in the question tag. You've been to Warsaw before, haven't you? You'd rather stay in tonight, wouldn't you?

3 If the verb in the statement is a full verb (i.e. there is no modal verb or auxiliary verb), an appropriate form of the auxiliary verb do is required in the question tag.

You bought it last year, didn't you?

4 Will you? and can you? are used with imperatives. Would you? and could you? are more formal alternatives.

Open the window, will/can/would/could you? Will you? is used after a negative imperative.

Don't forget to write, will you?

5 If let's appears in the statement, the question tag shall we? is used.

Let's go home, shall we?

6 If the statement contains negative words such as nothing or nobody, the question tag is positive.

Nothing frightens you, does it?

NB The pronoun they is used with nobody/no one, somebody/someone and everybody/everyone.

Nobody was watching, were they?

B Use and intonation

We can use question tags to ask a real question if we are unsure if the statement is true or not. In this case we say the question tag with rising intonation.

I've met you before, haven't 1?

We can also use question tags when we expect someone to agree with a statement. In this case we say the question tag with falling intonation.

She can't sing very well, can she?

Contrast linkers

1 But contrasts two ideas in the same sentence. The weather was bad but she enjoyed the trip. In informal writing, but is often used at the beginning of the sentence.

John's got the flu, But the rest of us are line.

2 Although and though (informal) are also used to contrast ideas in the same sentence. They can go at the beginning of the sentence or in the middle. Although the weather was bad, she enjoyed the trip.

I liked the book, although I wouldn't recommend it. Even used before though emphasizes the contrast.

He still wears his ring, even though he's divorced,

3 However contrasts ideas in two different sentences. It often goes at the beginning of the second sentence and is followed by a comma.

The hotel was expensive. However, the others were full, so she had to book it.

It can also go in the middle of a sentence or at the end. Tim hated York. He did not, however, want to move. Anny often tells lies. She would never steal, however.

4 Nevertheless is a more formal alternative to however. It was snowing. Nevertheless, the game went ahead,

5 In spite of and despite are both followed by a gerund or a noun. They can go at the beginning of a sentence or in the middle.

We enjoyed the meal in spite of the poor service. Despite feeling terrible, she still went to work

If the subject of the gerund is different to the subject of the main verb, a noun, an object pronoun or possessive adjective is added. [See Unit 13 for more on this use of the gerund.]

She paid for the meal despite melmy telling her not to. The words the fact that are added before a verb clause. Chiloe invited Steve to her party, despite the fact that he had treated her so badly.

6 Whereas, while and whilst (formal) are used to contrast two things, people or situations in the same sentence. Jake likes heavy metal whereas/while I prefer rap.

Unit 10

Too and enough

A Too means 'more than is necessary or desirable'.

1 Too + adjective/adverb

Don't work too hard! This jumper's too big.

2 Too much/Too many (noun)

I can't eat this. There's too much salt in it.

There are too many people here, Let's go somewhere else. I feel terrible! I've eaten too much.

3 Too + adverbadjective (+ for + object) - infinitive with to It's too cold to play tennis today. He spoke too quickly for me to understand him.

B Enough means as much as is necessary'.

1 Adjective/Adverb + enough

Are you warm enough or shall I turn the heating on? You haven't done your homework carefully enough.

2 Imough (+ noun)

We'll have to stand because there aren't enough chairs. I'll buy some more bread. We haven't got enough.

3 Enough (+ for + object) + infinitive with to The floor is clean enough for you to sit on. I haven't got enough time to see you today.

The passive

A Form

The verb to be + past participle

Goods worth £750 million are stolen Present simple:

from shops each year.

Present continuous: A man is being questioned in connection with the robbery.

Present perfect: Photos of the suspects have been put up around the town:

Past simple: He was taken away in a police van.

Past continuous: The burglar didn't realize he was being Past perfect: Two people had been mugged there on the previous day.

Future simple: All football supporters will be searched at the airport.

Infinitive: He is hoping to be released from nrison next week.

Gerenid: I can't remember being hit on the head.

Modal verbs: He should be sentenced to life imprisonment.

B Use

The passive is used to locus attention on the person or thing affected by the action, rather than on the agent (the 'doer' of the action). If we are interested in the agent, we use the preposition by:

Sue and Mark were brought up by their grandparents. When we talk about the instrument used by the agent to do the action, we use the preposition with:

He was hit on the head with a vase.

The agent is not usually included:

1 when it is clear from the context who the agent is. Colin was arrested for dangerous driving, (by the police)

2 when we don't know the agent/the agent is unimportant. My car was stolen vesterday afternoon.

This eastle was built in the Middle Ages.

3 in official notices to avoid using you. Food may not be consumed on the premises.

4 when the agent is people in general. Texas is known as The Lone Star State,

C Passive of reporting verbs

The infinitive can be used after the passive of reporting verbs to talk about widely held beliefs or opinions. Examples of reporting verbs are believe, consider, expect, know, say and think.

The President is expected to arrive at 9,30 am.

The man is believed to be carrying a weapon.

The perfect infinitive (Imre + past participle) is used to refer to the past.

Fifteen people are known to have died in the accident.

Unit 11

So, neither and nor

A Use

To indicate that we have the same feelings, behaviour or abilities as others, we can use so (positive statements), and neither or nor (negative statements).

Grammar reference

B Form

so/neither/nor + (modal) auxiliary verb or the verb to be + subject noun or pronoun

The rules for deciding which verb is used after so, neither or nor are the same as those for question tags [Unit 9]. The verb is always positive. The clause with so, neither or nor can appear in the same sentence as the main clause or it can be said by a different speaker:

She can't play a musical instrument and neither can I. 'I'll phone him tonight.' 'So will I'

'My mum isn't working tomorrow.' 'Neither is mine.'

C If our feelings, behaviour or abilities are different from those of others, we use the following structure: subject + (modal) auxiliary verb or the verb to be. He doesn't cat meat but I do. 'We're allowed to wear jeans to school.' 'We aren't.'

Conditionals

Conditional sentences contain a conditional clause (introduced by words such as if, as long as and unless) and a main clause.

If the conditional clause comes first, a comma usually separates it from the main clause (as in this sentence).

A comma is not needed if the conditional clause comes after the main clause (as in this sentence).

A Zero conditional

if + present simple, present simple

We use the zero conditional to talk about situations which are always true. If has the same meaning as when, whenever or every time in such sentences.

My eyes start to hurt if I spend too long on the computer. If you mix blue and yellow, you get green.

B First conditional

if + present simple, will + infinitive without to We use the first conditional to talk about possible situations and their likely results in the future, She'll be very happy if you phone her.

It can be used for warnings, promises and threats.

I'll send you to bed if you don't behave yourself.

If you pass your driving test, I'll take you out for a meal.

Other future forms and imperatives are possible in the main clause.

We're going to the cinema if my dad gets home in time.

If you see Alan, give him my regards.

Modal verbs can also be used in the main clause. May, might and could express possibility or uncertainty about the outcome. Should expresses probability.

If I finish my homework early, I might watch the film. If you post it today, it should get there by Friday.

C Second conditional

if + past simple, would + infinitive without to We use the second conditional to talk about imaginary, unlikely or impossible situations in the present or future.

If I knew the answer to number six, I would tell you.
If I had wings, I'd fly south in winter.

Note the difference between these two sentences: First conditional:

If they give me a pay rise, I'll buy a new car. (I feel there is a real possibility that they will give me a pay rise.)

Second conditional:

If they gave me a pay rise, I'd buy a new car. (I feel it is less likely that they will give me a pay rise.)

The second conditional can also be used to give advice.

If I were you, I'd complain to the manager.

Both was and were are possible in the conditional clause after the subject pronouns I/he/she/it. Was is more common in spoken English.

If he were a little taller, he'd be an excellent goalkeeper.

Might and could can be used in the main clause to express possibility or uncertainty about the outcome.

If you worked a bit harder, you might have more success.

D Third conditional

if + past perfect, would/might/could have + past participle

We use the third conditional to talk about imaginary situations in the past and to speculate about their effects on past events or situations.

If we hadn't taken a map, we would have got lost. (But we took a map, so we didn't get lost.)

E Mixed conditional

if + past perfect, would/might/could + infinitive without to Mixed conditionals are a combination of a second and a third conditional. They can express an imaginary past event and a possible or probable present result.

If you'd listened to my advice, you might/would not be in this situation now.

F Alternative words for if

As long as, provided (that), providing (that) and on condition (that) can be used in place of if to emphasize the condition.

I'll lend you £10 as long as you give it back tomorrow. We'll take the boat out provided the sea isn't too rough.

Unit 12

Countable and uncountable nouns

- A Countable nouns are nouns which can be counted.

 one plate two cats five chairs
- B Uncountable nouns cannot be counted. They are not used with the indefinite article (a/an), they do not have a plural and they are used with a singular verb form. Can you get some bread?

A lot of damage was done to the building.

The following nouns are usually uncountable: accommodation, advice, damage, English, furniture, graffiti, health, homework, information, knowledge, luggage, news, progress, research, spaghetti, travel, weather, work.

This spaghetti isn't cooked properly. The news is very depressing today.

C Some nouns are both countable and uncountable.

1 Many words for food and drink can be used both countably and uncountably.

I've made a chocolate cake. (C)

Could I have some more cake? (U)

Would you like another coffee? (C) (= cup of coffee) I don't like coffee. (U)

2 A word used countably may have a very different meaning from its uncountable version.

I'd like a double room for one night. (C) (= hotel room)
There's no more room on this bus. (U) (= space)

- D Making uncountable nouns countable
- 1 Some uncountable nouns have countable equivalents with similar meanings.

There isn't much work in this town, (U)

There aren't many jobs in this town. (C)

My job involves a lot of business travel. (U)

I have to make a lot of business trips. (C)

 Some other uncountable nouns can be made countable by using piece(s) of or item(s) of.

Let me give you a piece of advice.

Two items of news caught my attention.

- 3 Certain other expressions are used with words for food and drink; a plate of spughetti, a pinch of salt, a loaf of bread, a slice of caketoast, a spoonful of sugar, a bar of chocolate, a corton of milk, a jar of jam.
- E Words used with nouns
- Words used with countable nouns: a/an, few, a few, many, a large number of, each, every, several.
- 2 Words used with uncountable nouns: little, a little, nucli, a great deal of, a large amount of.
- 3 Words used with countable and uncountable nouns: some, any, no, a lot of, lots of, all, plenty of, most.
- 4 Little and few

These two words have more negative meanings. They mean 'not much/many' or 'not as much/many as desired or expected'.

Sue has made little progress since the beginning of term. There were very few people at the concert.

5 A little and a few

These have more positive meanings, 'They mean 'some' or 'more than expected'.

The managed to save a little money to buy Al a present.

The still got a few eggs—enough to make an onnelette.

6 Plenty of

This means 'a lot of or 'more than enough'.

Don't harry - we've got plenty of time.

Direct and reported speech

When reporting what someone has said or written, we can use either direct speech or reported speech.

When we use direct speech we report the exact words which someone has used.

I'm staying here tomorrow," said Heather,

When we use reported speech, changes may have to be made to verb tenses, pronouns and certain words indicating place and time.

Heather said she was staying there the next day.

- A Reporting statements
- 1 The following changes are usually made to verbs. In each case the verb 'moves back' one tense.

Direct speech	0.5	Rep	orted speech
Present simple	y	Past	simple
I work in an office," he said.		He s offic	aid he worked in a e.
Present continuous		Past	continuous
'We aren't going away on holiday,' she saul.			said they weren't g away on holiday.
Present perfect		Past	perfect
Tee known her for a long time,' he said.			aid he'd known her i long time.
Present perfect continuous ->			perfect continuou

'He's been playing tennis,' she said.	She said he'd been playing tennis.
Past simple →	Past perfect
'I saw Nigel in town,' he said:	He said he'd seen Nigel in town.
Past continuous x	Past perfect continuous
We were trying to help him,' she said.	She said they'd been trying to help him.

- 2 No changes are made in the verb tense:
 - a if the verb in the direct speech is in the past perfect. The had never spoken about it before,' she said. She said he had never spoken about it before.
 - b if the direct speech contains one of the following modal verbs: would, might, could, should, ought to. 'You should go to the doctor's,' he said. He said I should go to the doctor's.
 - C if the statement being reported is still true. The tense change is optional.

'I like fish,' she said. She said she likes/liked fish.

- d if the reporting verb is in the present. "H's 40" in Athens at the moment." (Jeremy to his mother on the phone)

 Jeremy says it's 40" in Athens at the moment. (Jeremy's mother to her husband)
- 3 Pronouns in direct speech may have to change when we use reported speech.

Til see von soon, said Peter.

Peter said he would see me soon.

4 The following changes may also need to be made to words indicating place and time.

Direct speech	-	Reported speech
now		then
today		that day
this morning	- 33	that morning
tomorrow		the next/following day
next week	++	the next/following week
vesterday	-	the day before, the previous day two days ago		two days before/earlier last week	ä	the week before, the previous week here	3	there
come		go

- 5 This, that, these and those may change to the.

 That book you lent me is really boring,' he said.

 He said the book I had lent him was really boring.
- B Reporting verbs for statements
- Tell is used with a direct object.
 He told me (that) he was getting married.
- 2 Say and explain are used without a direct object. She said (that) she was ill. (not She said me...) They can, however, be used with an indirect object. I explained to them (that) I'd left my passport at home. (not I explained them ...)
- 3 Some reporting verbs can be used with an infinitive.
 - a verb + object noun/pronoun + infinitive with to advise, ask, encourage, invite, order, persuade, recommend, remind, tell, warn 'Don't longer to phone lim,' he told her. He reminded her to phone Jim.

Grammar reference

b verb + infinitive with to offer, promise, refuse, threaten "I'll help you mend the car if you like." He offered to help me mend the car.

4 The following patterns can be used after both recommend and suggest:

He recommended/suggested (that) I (should) eat less. She recommended/suggested joining a youth club.

The infinitive with to can only be used after recommend. He suggested me to go to the chemist's. X

C Reporting questions

When we report questions we make the same changes to verb tenses, pronouns and words indicating place and time as we do when we report statements. The following changes are also made:

Auxiliary verbs: Auxiliary verbs do, does and did are omitted.

Word order: The word order is the same as that of a statement.

Punctuation: Question marks are not used.

'What do you want to do?' he asked me.

He asked me what I wanted to do.

'Where have you been?' she asked him.

She asked him where he had been.

Yes/No questions: If there is no question word (what, where, who, etc) in the direct question, we use if or whether.

'Does she know Joe?'

He asked if/whether she knew Joe.

D Ask and tell

Each of these verbs can be used in two different ways in reported speech.

1 Ask a Requests (ask + object + infinitive with to) 'Can you help me, please?' He asked me to help him.

b Questions

'Can you ride a horse?'

She asked me if I could ride a horse.

2 Tell a Commands (tell + object + infinitive with to) "Put your coat on." She told him to put his coat on.

b Statements

'I can't find my coat.'

He told her (that) he couldn't find his coat.

Unit 13

Hypothetical situations

A Wish and if only

Wish or if only can express how we would like things to be different if we had the power to change them.

1 Present states

We use wish/if only + past simple to express wishes about present states. Stative verbs such as be, have, know and understand are used.

I wish I was/were taller.

If only I knew how to play the guitar,

2 Present actions

We use wish/if only + would when we want something to happen or someone to do something. Active verbs (verbs describing actions) are used.

I wish you would turn your music down.

If only this wind would stop blowing.

Wish/if only + would is used if we want to express irritation at other peoples' actions or behaviour.

I wish you would stop tapping your foot.

Wish/if only + past simple can also be used if the action occurs habitually.

I wish you didn't (or wouldn't) smoke so much.

3 Present ability

Wish/if only + would is used for events which are outside of our control. Consequently, we do not normally say't wish I would ...'. Instead, we use 'I wish I could ...' to indicate our inability to change things.

I wish I could remember where I put my keys.

4 Wishes for the future

Wish/if only + would or could can be used to express wishes for the future. This use of wish suggests that the action will probably not happen.

I wish I could go on holiday with you in summer. (I know that I can't go with you.)

If there is more possibility that the action will happen, we use hope.

I hope I can go on holiday with you in summer. (I don't know if I can or not.)

5 Past situations

We use wish/if only + past perfect to express wishes and regrets about the past.

I wish I hadn't left school when I was 16.

The following structures can also be used to express wishes and regrets about the past.

a Third and mixed conditionals [see Unit 11] If I hadn't been so tired, this wouldn't have happened.

b should have + past participle We should have got the train. This traffic's terrible.

B Would rather

We use would rather + past simple when we want someone else to do something in the present or future.

I'd rather you went to get some bread now.

He said he'd rather we didn't arrive too early tomorrow. If the subject of would rather and the following verb is the same, we usually use the infinitive without to.

We'd rather sit in the garden than go to the beach.

C It's time

We use it's (high/about) time + past simple when we want something to happen or be done now. It implies that the action should have been done already.

It's time you went to bed. You've got school tomorrow.

It's high time you stopped talking and did some work.

Prepositions and gerunds

 Verbs which come immediately after prepositions must be in the gerund form.

He was fined for parking on a yellow line.

If the subject of the gerund is different to the subject of the main verb, we add a noun, object pronoun or possessive adjective.

We're not happy about James riding a motorbike.

They insisted on melmy showing them the photos.

2 These noun + preposition combinations are commonly followed by gerunds:

The modifile) point in, (have) difficulty in, (be/have a good/ not much) chance of, (be in) favour of

There's no point in inviting her, she won't come.

Is there any chance of you playing termis later?

3 Gerunds are used after a number of phrasal verbs containing prepositions, such as get out of, get over, give up, look forward to, put off, put up with, take to.

He gave up phoning her and took to texting her poems.

4 These linking words and expressions can also be used as prepositions and followed by a gerund: after, apart from, as a result of, as well as, before, besides, despite, in addition to, in spite of, instead of.

Apart from tasting great, it's also very good for you. She opened the window, despite me asking her not to:

Unit 14

Compound adjectives

Compound adjectives consist of two or more words joined by a hyphen.

A Many compound adjectives include a participle.

- 1 Past participles can be combined with:
 - nouns, e.g., home-made, air-conditioned, tree-lined
 - adjectives, e.g. open-mouthed, French-born
 - adverbs, e.g. well-paid, brightly-coloured, fully-grown
 - particles, e.g. a made-up story, a broken-down car
- 2 Present participles can be combined with:
 - nouns, e.g. German-speaking, time-saving
 - adjectives, e.g. good-looking, sweet-smelling.
 - · adverbs, e.g. hard-working, fast-moving, long-lasting
- B Many other compound adjectives do not include a participle, e.g. cycle-friendly, full-time, high-speed, shoulder length, twentieth century, world famous, out of town, up-to-date, nine-to-five, top-of-the-range.
- C When a noun is used with a number to form a compound adjective, the singular form of the noun is used, e.g. a ten-kilometre walk, a sixty-page report, a fiftypound note, a three-hour journey, a five-year-old child.

Expressing purpose

There are several different ways of expressing purpose (saying why people do (hings).

Infinitive with to

I'm writing to thank you for the lovely present you sent. The negative infinitive, not to do something, cannot be used to express purpose.

2 In order (not) to + infinitive

She wore dark glasses in order not to be recognized.

3 So as (not) to + infinitive

We set off early so us to avoid the traffic.

4 So (that) + clause

a Future meaning: so (that) | can/will/present simple Let's move to the front so we can see better. I'll take an umbrella so that I don't/won't get wet.

b Past meaning: so (that) + could/would

He shut the door so that no one would disturb him.

5 In case + clause

If we do something to prepare for a possible situation or problem we use in case + present simple/past simple.

- a Future meaning: In case + present simple.
 Here are some crisps in case you get hungry later on.
- b Past meaning: in case + past simple He made a copy in case he lost the original.
- 6 In case and if

Note the difference in meaning between in case and if: I'll take my umbrella if it rains, (= I'll take my umbrella only if it is raining when I leave the house.)

I'll take my umbrella in case it rains. (- I'll take it as a precaution, even if it isn't raining when I leave the house.)

Expressing ability

A Can and be able to

Can and be able to are both used to express ability. However, can only has present tense (can) and past tense (could) forms. If another form of the verb is required, be able to is used.

Present: She can/is able to speak French.

Past: She could/was able to read when she was two.

Infinitive: I'd like to be able to ski.

Present perfect: He's never been able to save money.
Will tuture: She'll be able to buy a car soon.

B Present ability

1 We use can or be able to to talk about present ability. Be able to is more formal than can.

I can run faster than yen.

He is able to speak without moving his lips.

2 The negative form of can is con't or cannot. To form the negative of be able to, not is used before able. You can also use be imable to.

I compt understand why she married him.

We regret we are unable/not able to accept credit cards.

3 Be capable of gerund can also be used to express ability. It means to have the ability, capacity or potential to do something.

This team is capable of winning the championship.

4 The negative form be incapable of + gerund can be used, or not can be placed before capable.
She is incapable/isn't capable of looking after herself.

C Past ability

1 When we talk about general ability in the past, both could and was/were table to are possible.
My grandfather could play the trumpet until he was 90.
As a child I was never able to beat my father at chess.

2 Be capable of can also be used in the past. Joe wasn't capable of making toast without burning it.

3 When we talk about ability to do something on one occasion in the past, could is not possible. Instead, was/were able to, managed to + infinitive or succeeded in + gerund have to be used.

I managed to/was able to speak to Frank last night.
Firefighters succeeded in controlling the flames.

However, could can be used for ability on one occasion when it is used with verbs of the senses: see, smell, hear, feel, sense, taste.

I knew my wife had arrived; I could smell her perfrone.

When we talk about inability to do something on one occasion in the past, couldn't, weren't/wasn't able to, wast were unable to, didn't manage to and didn't succeed in are all possible.

I couldn't do the homework; it was too difficult. I didn't manage to/wasn't able to repair the fridge.

Unit 1 1.1-1.5

Part 3: Multiple matching

Speaker 1

After we got the invitation, my mum and I kept having huge rows about what I was going to wear for the big event. She's always criticizing me for my taste in clothes and she'd bought me this long, bright red dress to wear on the day. Of course, I refused. I went instead in a short black skirt, trainers and a sports top, thinking I'd look really cool and trendy. But of course, when we got to the church and I saw all the other guests in their smart new clothes and expensive hats, I just felt really, really stupid and embarrassed. The bride and groom looked quite surprised when they saw me, so I spent most of the time at the reception trying to avoid them.

Speaker 2

We really had no other option but to send her home to get changed, dye her hair back and take out the nose stud. We have rules and the rules are there to prepare young people for the reality of the world of work. I don't know of many jobs where you could turn up with scruffy old clothes, green hair and a pierced nose. We insist on uniform from the first day until the last, and that includes when sitting exams. It's unfair on other candidates who respect the regulations, and distracting for them at a time when they need maximum concentration.

Speaker 3

. Indeed attitudes were already beginning to change in the first half of the century. In 1919, the young French star Suzanne Lenglen caused a sensation at the British championships by wearing a calf-length, sleeveless dress. Her unconventional, yet practical clothing shocked spectators, who were used to seeing women play in the long heavy dresses which were typical of that period. As a result, Lenglen attracted the kind of attention from the world's press which was normally reserved for the stars of the silent movies. She silenced her critics, however, by beating her opponents and going on to win several major titles.

Speaker 4

He clearly has ability. You only have to look at his examination results to see that. And he used to live in France, which means he probably wouldn't mind changing countries, if we needed him to. No, what concerns me is his appearance. If he's prepared to turn up for something as important as this, wearing what can only be described as casual clothes, what would he be like with our clients? If he really is a serious candidate and we decide to take him on, then he will have to get used to wearing something a little more formal.

Speaker 5

They had to have their little joke, didn't they. 'Jane's having a little celebration at her house for her "coming of age" and she wants everyone to go in fancy dress.' That's what they said. So I thought about it for ages, what I was going to go as and everything. I spent more time thinking about my costume than about what present I was going to get for Jane. Of course, when I turned up at the house dressed as Coco the Clown and everybody else was wearing normal clothes. I don't know who was more surprised, me or Jane.

Unit 1 1.6-1.13

Part 1: Multiple choice

 You hear two people talking about a friend of theirs.

M = Man W = Woman

- M: How many houses has Mike got now?
- W: Four I think. This one here, the flat in Brighton, the country cottage, and ...
- M: ... and the villa in Spain.
- W: That's right.
- M: Hmm. Easy for some, isn't it?
- W: I'm not so sure. I get the impression he's a bit fed up with it all – always moving around. I wouldn't be surprised if he got rid of everything over here and lived in Spain permanently.
- M: Is that what he's said he'll do?
- W: Well, you know Mike. It's not like him to talk much about his plans. But he did say he might settle down one day – stay in one place. And you know how much he likes Spain.
- You overhear a man talking to a friend on his mobile phone.

I'm stressed out, to be honest, what with work and the problems with the house and everything. I need to do something to help me relax Well. I wanted to do yoga, but the class is on Friday and I play squash then. And then I saw they do Pilates on Tuesdays and Thursdays, which would be ideal for me ... I know. You did it for a couple of years, didn't you? ... So anyway, I was wondering if you could tell me what it was like, what sort of things you did. I had a look on the Internet, but it's always better to talk to someone with firsthand experience.

3 You hear a woman talking about her family's financial situation.

We just about get by, but it's always a struggle to get to the end of the month. Frank – my husband – hasn't had a job for over a year and I've got the two children to look after. Frank said he'll look after the kids and I can go out and look for work. Trouble is, he's useless around the house and he can't cook to save his life. But there's no alternative, really. Both our mums aren't very well these days, so we can't get either of them to come and help out. And we haven't got any family jewels we can sell. So, this weekend I'll be teaching Frank to cook and writing a few application letters.

4 You overhear a man and a woman talking about their morning routine.

W = Woman M = Man

- W: Don't you just hate it when the alarm goes off in the morning?
- M: I usually wake up before the alarm goes off. I'm an early riser.
- W: That sounds worse. Aren't you fired for the rest of the day?
- M: No, I just don't need to sleep so much. I take the dog out for a walk, talk to him about this and that ...
- W: You talk to your dog?
- M: Sure. Much easier than talking to people – he doesn't answer back or ask questions, like people do. I find that much harder to cope with first thing in the morning. I'm the same in the car – most people can't stand the journey to work, but I have a good old chat with myself.
- W: Weird.
- 5 You hear a woman on the radio talking about her experiences in a foreign country.

On my travels, I've got used to eating all sorts of weird and wonderful things, so I was prepared for things like fried insects and scorpions. I don't particularly like them, but I'll eat them if I have to. And it's very hot and humid there, so I was also ready for the rather slow pace of life and relaxed way they go about doing things, like work, for example. What I wasn't expecting was the way they dress out there. In my experience it's unusual for people in that part of the world to take so much care over what they wear. Colour, style, fashion - it all mattered to them. I was positively scruffy by comparison.

You turn on the radio and hear the following.

The world today is faster and more dynamic than when our greatgrandparents were alive, but as a result, life is often more stressful and unhealthy. Self-help books offer people the hope of finding a solution to their problems, improving their health and well-being, and generally making their lives better. The author of Back to basics says his book will help you achieve all these things in a matter of weeks. He's lying - the only thing it's good for is sending you to sleep, and you'd be wasting your money if you bought it, and your time if you read it.

7 You hear two people talking about the village they both live in.

M = Man W = Woman

- M: Are you enjoying it bere in the village?
- W: Yes, I am. I think I know nearly everyone now. When I came here last year everyone went out of their way to introduce themselves and make me feel welcome.
- M: That's good. So you feel comfortable here, then?
- W: Yes, I do. And the children have settled in well, too. I just get a bit nervous about the traffic sometimes.
- M: What, on the main road?
- W: Yes, and a couple of other spots as well. There are certain places I won't let the children go without me. Some drivers just don't slow down for them.
- 8 You hear a man talking about his job. I don't get to wear a uniform—you know, with a cap and all, like they do at some of the other hotels, but I do wear a suit. A decent one tailor made—not just any old suit. Inside, at the front desk—in reception—they reckon I look smarter than the boss. I'm not so sure about that, but I do like to look good for the guests I'm the first person they see before they go into the hotel. And I've got this long black overcoat, as well it can get pretty cold standing outside on the steps in winter. I can tell you.

Part 2: Sentence completion

Hello, Jim Dunne here, with a look at what's on in the area this coming week. And I'm delighted to be able to tell you that Pagagnini is in town, with its own special mix of music and comedy. If's great fun and I can guarantee the whole family will enjoy watching these our gays. They play all those bits of dassical music that everyone knows, all sometimes can't put a name to - and bey have a laugh at the same time. Pagagnini is actually based in Madrid, gut the show tours a lot and I was lucky enough to see it last year with my sife and our two girls when we were ia Mexico. They're a really versatile bunch of musicians. At one point, they start using their violins and cellos as gaitars, mandolins and even percussion instruments. And they move away from cassical into cock, blues and country and western. Very impressive and we're all looking forward to seeing them again. They're on stage for about ninety nimites, but it's a very intense hour and chalf, I can tell you. It's exhausting just watching them, and they don't stop for in interval, either.

Now, for those of you who like Irish fancing (bery's Rhythm of the Dance at the Apollo Theatre. Most of you will know about Riverdance, which began way back in 1994 at the Eurovision Song Contest in Dublin, curiously enough. But Rhythm of the Dance goes. back a long way too. It started out just tive years later in 1999 in Norway. It's a similar kind of thing: the traditional music, the step dancing and so on, but there's a theme running through it. It's a kind of history of the Irish Celts, I haven't seen it yet, but I certainly will do - they're clearly very popular. It says here in the publicity that Rhythin of the Dance has played to live audiences totalling well over four million in no fewer than forty four countries. And if you want to find out more about the show, go to their website. There isn't any Reviews section to look at there, but if you click on where it says 'Photo gallery' you get a pretty good idea of what to

Now, the circus is back in town. Not just any circus, but the hugely talented Cirque Éloize from Canada. They're at the Regent Theatre again. The show's called iD and it promises to be every bit as good as the one they put on the first time they were there. That one was called Rain—as in, the wet stuff that falls from the sky. And there was plenty of water on stage, as you'll remember if you went to see it.

Now I've been looking at the video for iD on the show's website and I can tell you it has a totally urban setting. There's hip-hop and breakdance, electronic music and rock, and some of the artists moving around the stage on bikes and Rollerblades^{TR}. There are no animals, and no clowds, either. It's not your traditional kind of circus. And judging from the press reviews, it's well worth going to see. One that I have here in front of me says that it's an excellent show, full of originality, energy and excitement.

And if you want even more energy, then those Australian tap dancers, the Tap Dogs are on their way. They'll be at the Orion from Wednesday ...

Part 4: Multiple choice

M = Mike Taylor I = Interviewer

I: Octopushing, elephant polo, ice

- 1: Octopushing, elephant polo, ice racing or cheese rolling. Our sports correspondent, Mike Taylor, has been finding our about some of the world's strangest sports. Which is the most unusual one for you. Mike?
- M: Well, I think it has to be chess boxing, because it's such a bizarre combination. A match starts off with a four-minute round of speed chess, tollowed by a three-minute round of boxing. There can be up to six rounds of chess and five of boxing before a winner is decided. Now you may think this is just a bit of fun, but when I watched two men competing in a match on German television last year, I was amazed by their level of skill in each of these two very different disciplines. After all, hoxing is such - an aggressive, violent sport it's about using the body, whereas chess is all about using the brain. You don't expect a boxer to be good at chess, or a chess player to be good in the ring.

- I: Have you found any other unusual combinations like that?
- M: No, but at the beginning you mentioned octopushing, which is underwater bockey - so it's an unusual setting for a familiar game. I haven't seen it played, but I've read that it's a very exciting spectator sport - major tournaments have TV screens which show the images captured by underwater cameras. I've also read that you don't have to be very fit to play. But I'm not convinced; to be honest - it seems physically very demanding to me. The good thing, though, is that because it's a team sport, no individual player has to stay underwater for long periods at a time. People like me who can't hold their breath for very long can keep coming up for air.
- I: Hmm, not one for me, though, I'm afraid, What else have you got?
- M: Well, there's wife carrying. That's where competitors race over a 250-metre course with a woman on their back. The female participant has to weigh more than 49 kilos, but she doesn't actually have to be the man's wife. So it would be more accurate to call it 'woman carrying'. I suppose. Anyway, if she isn't heavy enough she has to wear a rucksack with some kind of weight in it. The regulations are surprisingly strict.
- I: Now that sounds alright. Fancy carrying me, Mike?
- M: Er ... no. Bad back, I'm afraid.
 Actually, there are quite a few sports like this one that rather irritate me.
- 1: Why's that?
- M: Well, they're a bit ridiculous, to be honest. Wife carrying, retro running, pea shooting, egg throwing ... they all seem very childish to me. I'm sorry if that upsets listeners, but they're just not sports I'd want to do or even watch.
- I: So which one is the silliest?
- M: Well, it has to be toe wrestling, where you have to force your opponent's foot to the ground. It's fine for kids, and a toe wrestling competition is the kind of thing you might expect them to organize in the school playground. But for grown men and women to hold a World Championship every year, and then for organizers to apply for toe wrestling to become an Olympic sport well, it's too daft for words. I'm just pleased the application wasn't accepted.
- I: Alright. But you seem to like chess boxing and octopushing. Are there any more that impress you?
- M: Well, how about the Man Versus Horse Marathon, which takes place every July in Waks? Human runners

- race cross-country against riders on horseback for twenty-two miles that's around thirty-five kilometres and on two occasions in the last thirty years, a human contestant has won. Now that's not as astonishing as it might seem horses are fast in short races but not so good over long distances. But it does seem a little unfair that the human victories are not mentioned in the same breath as some of the world's more famous sporting achievements. These people are heroes, but they're virtually unknown outside Wales.
- I: Yes, it's the first time I've heard of the race. You're a runner, aren't you, Mike?
- M: I was, but I damaged my knee when I was skiing and had to stop. I was a real enthusiast – used to run for a couple of hours after work every evening – but even then, I wouldn't have beaten a horse, that's for sure.
- I: There's no shame in that! Right, thanks Mike. Time now for ...

Unit 3 1.16

Part 4: Multiple choice

P = Presenter K = Keith Wells

- P: My guest today is robot scientist Keith Wells. Keith's company, ELA Robotics, hit the news a few years ago with their Home Help robot, the first of its kind to be able to perform more than one domestic task. What are you working on these days, Keith?
- K: I can't really tell you that, I'm afraid. It's not that I don't want to, it's just that we've all been given our instructions and signed an agreement not to give anything away until it actually comes onto the market. I don't quite know when that will be, but probably some time early next year.
- P: OK, well we'll look forward to that. In the meantime, perhaps you could tell us what you think are the most important applications of robots in our lives. Why are they useful?
- K: Well, they help us to do what we call 'the three Ds'. That's anything which is dull, dirty or dangerous. They can be used in the home or in the car manufacturing industry, to do dull or monotonous work; they're used for doing dirty jobs like mining or cleaning toxic waste; and then they have applications in the military or in the dangerous business of space travel. Of course, that's not an exhaustive list, but it gives you an idea of the range of different uses they have – and also of the variety involved in my line of work.
- P: Yes, indeed. Let's talk if we may about one area in particular, though, the more humanoid robots, the ones with a recognizable human form. What are the latest developments there?

- K: Hmm, yes, the ones being built now are able to see, hear, touch and even smell and taste. Others can show a range of emotional states, such as sadness, joy, anger and even comical surprise. They can even recognize emotions in humans, by interpreting people's body-language the postures they adopt, the gestures they make. The hope is that people will be more willing to welcome robots like these into their homes, and they could act as companions and home helps for the sick or the elderly.
- P: Amazing. But isn't all this a little bit worrying – robots with emotions? Isn't there a danger of science fiction becoming science fact, with robots taking over?
- K: Yes, unfortunately, robots do get rather a bad press sometimes, don't they? Particularly in films and video games where they're either objects of humour and ridicule which we laugh at or else they're menacing characters which threaten to destroy the whole human race. But no, there is actually an ethical code which sets out what we can and can't do in robot design – and one thing we won't do is allow ourselves to lose control over our creations.
- P: Don't you think, though, that robots will make us lazy, that we'll no longer want to do anything that requires any effort?
- K: I think the car's already done that to us. It's made us physically very lazy. We don't walk so much as we used to and our bodies have suffered as a result. I think robots could well have the same effect on our brains. If we let intelligent robots do all of our thinking for us, there is a danger we won't be able to make any of our own decisions, that we'll become mentally lazy. And that, I think, is just as worrying.
- P: Do you really think that the day will come when most homes have their own robot?
- K: If you think back to just thirty years or so ago, few of us then would have predicted that we'd soon have a personal computer in our home, be logging onto the Internet and downloading hundreds of songs and videos onto a thing called an MP4 player. So why shouldn't we all have robots? We've been talking about them for nearly a century now and certainly, their initial development wasn't quite as fast as we thought it would be. But now, with advanced computer technology available, very rapid changes are taking place in robot design.
- P: Yes, I remember those rather clumsy-looking machines at the end of the 1990s.
- K: That's right. The first humanoid robots could do very little, then later models learnt to sit down and stand - up, then talk, walk around, dance and so on. It's rather like watchings child grow. Through television and other media, the public is slowly growing accustomed to the idea of robots as a reality, and when they eventually become widely available, people will be ready for them.

- P: Thank you, Keith. It's been fascinating having you on the programme.

Unit 3 1.17-1.21

Part 3: Multiple matching

Speaker 1

Apparently, teenagers need more sleep than the rest of us, so next year we're starting lessons at 10, rather than 9 every day. The head says the kids will be more awake, more receptive during class if they come in an hour later, It's a fairly radical idea and it's attracting a lot of attention from the press. The head's given three newspaper interviews already - all of which goes to confirm my belief that she has her own interests in mind rather than those of the kids. It's just another of her schemes to get publicity for herself. Perhaps I should have spoken out at the consultation meeting, but she's got the support of the whole teaching staff, and they don't care that her motives are all wrong.

Speaker 2

I'm really fed up with our head of department. We all are. As well as having absolutely no interpersonal skills, he has a habit of making changes without bothering to find out what anyone else thinks first. He told us in a meeting last week that we're going to be using a different coursebook for Year 8 next term, and he's ordered three class sets already. Now, I'm not saving that a change wasn't necessary - I think we're all a bit tired of the book we're using at the moment - but I do think he could have let us have some say in the matter before going ahead. It's no way to run a department.

Speaker 3

I teach maths to as many as two hundred students in one year, so I'm not at all pleased about the changes to report writing. Until now, a student's end-ofterm report consisted of a mark for each subject, and then the class tutor made a summarizing comment at the end. With the new system, each subject teacher has to write a comment as well. It'll take ages! The head says the tutor's comment isn't enough to give parents a full picture of how their child's getting on, but as long as it's carefully written, it's fine. Most parents won't read the comments anyway - they're just interested in the marks. It's a waste of time as far as I'm concerned, and I know the majority of my colleagues feel the same.

Speaker 4

The situation in Year 10 is not much better than it was before. Mixing up the classes like that – splitting up the troublemakers—is a step in the right direction but it doesn't go far enough. They're still there, and they're still causing disruption to lessons. The head should have asked the parents to come in and got the kids to make certain guarantees in from of them, made them promise to improve their behaviour and so on. Then if the promises aren't kept, expel them from the school. We told her that, but she said expelling them would just create problems for other schools. She needs to be much tougher.

Speaker 5

There's some building work going on outside the music room, so you can imagine how difficult it is to teach in there. The windows are double glazad, but they're not enough to keep out the noise, so I've been moved - along with my piano - to a room on the other side of the school. Now I've changed rooms many times before, but never to one as bad as this. The ceiling's enormously high and the acoustics are terrible for the piano. Plus I practically have to shout to make myself heard, so my throat is suffering. And then the sun streams in during the afternoon and sends the kids to sleep. I'm telling you, as soon as the work's finished, I'm moving straight back to my old room.

Unit 4 1.22-1.29

Part 1: Multiple choice

- Listen to this woman talking about an actor.
 - I used to think he was so good looking those sparkling blue eyes and that sexy smile but now of course the wrinkles have taken over and he's lost it completely. Call me old fashioned, but I really don't think that somebody of his age should be wearing tight trousers and flowery shirts. It's obscene, And the way he talks to the press! I mean, 'politeness is just not a word he understands. I'm not surprised they get upset and give him bad reviews.
- You overhear this conversation between two friends;

M = Man W = Woman

- M: So, have you decided which film we're going to see, them?
- W: Well, I really wanted to see the new Fiona Miller film which everyone is raving about.
- M: Oh, please, no! I couldn't stand another costume drama.
- W: No, this one's very different from her others. She plays the part of an out-of-work spy who decides to turn to crime and begin a life as a jewel thief. But anyway, Katle says it's not her cup of tea, so I'm afraid it's 'gel your handkerchief ready for another tear jerker'. You know the plot already: boy meets girl, girl meets another boy, first boy gels upset all that kind of nonsense.

 You hear a man telling a woman about a storytelling course he attended.

W = Woman M = Man

- W: So what made you decide to do a storytelling course?
- M: Well, a friend of mine who did it last year recommended it to me. She thought I might enjoy it – and she was right. It was great fun, really laid-back and everyone was very supportive. It gave me the courage I needed – and the self-belief – to be able to stand up and speak in front of a group of people.
- W: So are you going to be leaving us to take up a career as a storyteller, then?
- M: No, I like working here too much.
- W: Ha ha! That's a good story.
- 4 You hear an actress talking about her performance in a play.

Drained, darling, absolutely drained. And have you read what the crities wrote about it? I don't know how anyone could say it was 'disappointing'. I mean, OK, so it's not the most exciting part I've ever had to play but I gave it my all, absolutely everything. One look at my face will tell you just how utterly exhausted I am. I could sleep for a week.

- 5 You overhear this man talking on the telephone.
 - What do you think we should get him? ... An atlas! That's not very much ... I know he's interested in geography, but he's been with the company for nearly 25 years. I really don't think an atlas would express our appreciation for all he's done for the firm. He's been like a father to us all ... I don't know, something that will remind him of us in his retirement, something he can use on a regular basis. How about an e-book reader or a decent video camera that kind of thing?
- You hear a young woman talking to her friend about a film.

M = Man W = Woman

- M: What was it like?
- W: Oh, don't ask. I certainly wouldn't recommend it to anyone.
- M: Too violent for you, was it?
- W: Hmm... Quite the opposite. I mean, at first there was the usual dose of gratuitous violence—basically what you'd expect from that type of film, and partly why I went to see it. After that, though, not a great deal happened. From what I can remember when I wasn't falling asleep, that is the script seemed to focus on an analysis of the protagonist's inner self.
- M: A kind of 'non-action film', then.
- W: Exactly,

- You hear a woman telephoning a bookshop.
 - Hello, yes, it's about a book I bought in your shop last week. A Katharine Adams movel. I just wanted to point out that there were one or two pages missing ... No, no, there's really no need to apologize. I mean it's not as if it was the last page or anything. And I got the gist of what was happening without the pages. I just thought you ought to know so you can check the rest of your stock, or talk to the publishers or something ... That's OK ... Yes, pages 60 to 64 ...
- 8 You hear this young man talking on the phone.

Well, we were born in the same month, but I'm a Leo, as you know, whereas her birthday's at the beginning of July, which makes her a Cancer. I don't know if that's good or bad. We certainly seem to laugh at the same things; the same jokes, the same comedy programmes ... Sorry? ... Oh, next Triday. We're going to a jazz concert, although I can't say it's my favourite type of music. She's really into it, and she wanted me to go, so ...

Unit 5 (1.30

Part 4: Multiple choice

D = Deborah Chilton

- I: Few of us would admit to actually enjoying doing the housework, so getting our teenage children to do their fair share is no easy task. Deborah Chilton, the author of a new parenting book, The Stress Free Guide to Bringing up Teenagers, is here to give us a few pointers. Deborah, where do we start?
- D: Well, as you say, it's not easy, but if we're aware of what we're trying to achieve and why, then the battle is half won. Getting teenagers to contribute to housework has so many benefits. It's an ideal way of teaching them what it means to belong to a family and a community. They also learn to take on more responsibility as they approach adulthood, and they pick up some useful skills on the way, two. Knowing all this gives parents the strength they need to see their goals through.
- I: Right, And at what age should teenagers begin helping out with the housework?
- D: Long before they reach adolescence. Teenagers are naturally resistant to being told what to do, and suddenly asking them at fourteen or fifteen to take on chores when they've never done anything to help before well, let's just say it doesn't meet with a very positive reaction. Parents often fail to take advantage of the fact that young children are quite happy to make their bed, tidy their room, lay the table or wash the dishes. So get them started early and you'll find it easier later on.

- I: And what sort of things can teenagers do?
- D: Cleaning, washing, ironing. Anything, really. Planning and cooking a meal each week is excellent training, and teaches teenagers how much time and effort goes into putting food on the table. Whatever they do, just be sure to explain to them carefully how to do it first. My son once almost tried to wash the toaster in the sink while it was still plugged in!
- I: Oh dear!
- D: Yes. Teenagers will make mistakes, and that's part of the learning process. But it's best to try and avoid them before they actually happen.
- I: Indeed, And what if your teenage son or daughter decides not to do a chore? What then?
- D: Well, it's a good idea to make their contribution something that's important to them as well. That way, if it's not done, they're the ones to suffer. So for example, if they don't do the washing, they won't have clean clothes for a party; if they don't do the shopping, they can't eat. They'll get the idea eventually.
- I: So you wouldn't consider handing out punishments?
- D: Only as a last resort. They tend to cause bad feeling and resentment. If things don't get better, sit down together and remind them of their duty to other family members and the need to work as a team. And for the same reasons, don't give financial rewards for completing chores. Housework is an obligation, rather than a choice, and no one gets paid for doing it.
- I: Hmm. If only we did! So, housework has to be done, and that's it.
- D: Yes, but there's still room for some negotiation. Understandably, teenagers like to feel they have at least some say in the matter. So whilst the chore itself is not negotiable, when it is carried out might be. In fact, rather than say to your teenage child 'could you load the dishwasher?' to which they could answer 'no' ask them instead 'would you like to load the dishwasher before or after the film?' That way there's an element of choice, and the job gets done sooner or later.
- I: Very clever. I like that,
- D: Yes. And I would just like to say, that although domestic duties can be a pain, they can also be a welcome distraction. Teenagers generally have a lot on their minds, whether it's schoolwork, friendship problems or boyfriend/girlfriend issues. Vacuuming the carpet, cutting the grass or cleaning the car provides an alternative focus and helps take a teenager's mind off his or her daily concerns.
- I: Certainly. And that's a very positive note to finish on. Deborah, thank you for coming in ...

Unit 5 (1.31

Part 2: Sentence completion

Right, let's start by talking about the selection procedure. What do you have to do in order to become a firefighter? Well, it's a fairly rigorous process, with a range of different tests. We don't insist on any academic qualifications, but potential recruits do have to take a short educational test. Now this test is aimed at assessing basic literacy and numeracy, or in other words, reading, writing and arithmetic. But we also look at a candidate's people skills, because community work, dealing with the public, is such an important part of the job nowadays. And I'll say a bit more about that later.

Now you may be surprised to hear that firefighters no longer have to be a minimum height. Instead, they do a series of physical tests, which are designed to measure things like how tightly they can grip things, or whether their back and legs are strong enough. If they get through this stage they go on to the next one, the practical awareness day, which involves fitness tests, checks to see if claustrophobia is a problem and practical tasks such as ladder climbing.

Of course, both sexes are accepted into the force, though I have to say, women are still very much in the minority. In case you're wondering, we've had up to five women working with us at Hove Fire Station at any one time in the past. At the moment, though, there are just three on the workforce.

OK, what's next? Well, as you know, firefighters are on call 24 hours a day, so let me just say a little bit about how the shift system works. At Hove we operate an eight-day rota. That means a firefighter works two nine-hour day shifts, followed by two fifteen-hour night shifts. And then we get four days off before starting again. It's a continuous cycle.

Er, a typical shift begins with the Watch Parade, which is where one shift hands over to the next. Now this is a fairly formal affair and it's compulsory for everyone to wear full uniform. After that - if it's a day shift - mornings are taken up with training and equipment checks. We have to make sure that vital equipment such as our breathing apparatus is in perfect working order. And our fire engines, of course, have to be checked from top to bottom, too. Er, afternoons are usually given over to community safety work, which is what I mentioned at the beginning. So, for example, we do a lot of home safety visits, where we give advice to vulnerable people, such as the elderly and disabled, on how to keep their homes safe. And we'll fit smoke alarms if they haven't got them installed already.

One question I often get asked at these talks is 'What is your busiest time?' Well, we tend to get called out more in the evening, rather than during the day.

That's the time when shops and other business premises are left unattended, and also when most people are at home, cooking and so on. As you might expect, the majority of fires are domestic ones. The fires themselves often take only minutes to put out, but clearing up afterwards can take several hours. We have to do everything we can to prevent the danger of a fire re-igniting, so that means taking all the floors up, getting flammable things like carpets out of the building, and so on.

So what's it like being a firefighter?
Well, obviously it's dangerous work and any firefighter who said that he had never felt frightened would be fooling himself and you. But it's all a matter of control. It's what we've been trained for and we learn to control feelings such as fear. But quite apart from the danger and the drama of the job, it's obviously very satisfying being out on the street, knowing that you're helping the public, doing something useful. I certainly don't think I'd be able to do any other job.

Part 3: Multiple matching

Speaker 1

Before Paul started school, he used to come round to us every morning while his mother, Lynda - my daughter-in-law was at work. He was a lovely child but like most boys, he had almost limitless energy and at times he was rather difficult to control. We only had to look after him for four hours each day, but it completely wore us out. His mother would tell us off for letting him watch too much television - she said Paul needed to work his energy off in the park or on long walks. Easy for her to say, but we weren't getting any younger and watching television was a useful survival strategy. I remember arguing with Lynda on more than one occasion about this,

Speaker 2

I shared a flat once with someone who used to get annoyed about the silliest of things. He seemed quite pleasant at first, and we got on fine for a while. But that's because we hardly saw each other he had an evening job in a bar and I worked during the day in a supermarket. When I got to know him better, though, I realized just how difficult he could be. Things had to be done his way and his way alone. He was obsessive about tidiness and he couldn't bear it if I left anything lying on the floor. He'd also tell me off for cooking food that made the house smell or for singing in the shower. I had to move out in the end. I couldn't stand it.

Speaker 3

Julie was a friend as well as a colleague. I looked up to her and admired her self-belief and quiet determination. It came as no surprise when she was promoted to senior manager and I wasn't. I didn't think it was unfair or anything. She deserved it. Of course I was disappointed, but I got over it quickly chough. But Julie was now my boss and it soon became clear that she wasn't good at managing people. She bullied and shouted, and upset most people in the department, including me. To her credit, she realized she wasn't suited to the job and she asked for a transfer. But I haven't spoken to her since she left.

Speaker 4

My brother, Mike, and Loften don't see eve to eve with each other, but it's never really affected our relationship. We've always got on very well, despite having very different ideas and opinions about things. Recently, though, something's come between us that's changed all that. The money we inherited from our grandmother wasn't divided equally between us. She left me more because I'm married with two children and Mike's single. At least that's what she said in her will. Understandably, 1 suppose, Mike thinks it's a bit unfair and feels hard done by. We haven't exactly fallen out with each other, but there's certainly a tension between us that wasn't there before.

Speaker 5

We split up around about this time last year, just before he went off to India. I'd always been very tolerant and understanding – I knew how much John's work meant to him and I'd put up with the situation for as long as I could. But we both realized these long periods of separation weren't good for the relationship. Not being able to make any plans for the future inevitably caused friction, so we decided to end it. We still see each other from time to time, and its good because there's not the same tension between us that there used to be.

Unit 6 1.37-1.44

Part 1: Multiple choice

- You hear a woman on the radio talking about her father.
- I always got on very well with my mother. I felt I could turn to her for advice, share confidences with her, because she understood my problems. With my father it was different. I found it difficult to talk to him, and when we did speak, you could feel the tension between us. I think it was partly because I take after him so much I inherited my lack of confidence from him for one thing and I blamed him for my own weaknesses.
- 2 You overhear a man talking about a tormer teacher

After the first lesson we all thought he was a bit mad. But he was just different. Most of the other teachers in the school were really serious and uninspiring. They'd speak, we'd take notes and that was about it. It was deadly dull. But Hilton-Dennis would jump around the room, waving his arms about and jabbering away in Italian at us. He seemed to really enjoy what he was doing, and I took

- to him almost straight away. He managed to communicate his passion for the subject and he got a lot of people interested in learning the language.
- You have a woman complaining about one of her employees.

W = Woman M = Man

- W: I'm going to have to have a word with Simon again. If it's not one thing, it's another.
- M: Is Simon the scruffy one?
- W: Yes, he is. That's not what worries me, though. He doesn't have any contact with the public, so I don't mind what he looks like.
- M: So has he been rude again?
- Wi No, we managed to sort that one out.

 I took him aside just before Christmas and had a long talk with him. He's been quite pleasant since then. But I need reliable people who turn up on time and he's been late for work three times this last formight. I'm beginning to regret taking him on.
- 4 You hear part of a radio programme in which a man is giving advice. Unfortunately, there's not always a direct relationship between hard work and good performance at school, Think how demotivating it must be for a young person to spend hours on homework and then get low marks for their trouble. Something like that can seriously affect their self-esteem and their confidence. So they may look for other ways to feel good about themselves, Let's imagine they come to you and say they want to have their nose pierced or get a tattoo done. Would you let them? Maybe not, but perhaps you should at least consider their motives for wanting to do so.
- 5 You overbear a woman talking on the phone about some clothes. We're getting rid of anything we don't need before we move. We've got so much rubbish in our house. and there's not a lot of room in the new flat ... Well, there are Hannah's old haby clothes, for a start. I've held on to them for years, just in case Hannah started a family of her own. But it doesn't look as if that's going to happen now ... No. I haven't got the beart to put them in the bin, and I can't imagine anyone wanting to buy them. Can you? ... Well, I'll probably take them round to Marina's. She knows lots of young mothers -I'm sure one of them will be delighted to have them.
- 6 You hear a man and a woman talking about a person in a photograph.

W = Woman M = Man

- W: It's a lovely photo. She looks so relaxed and cheerful – as if she's really enjoying it all.
- M: Yeah, it's my mum's favourite, She's had it framed and it's up on the wall in her living room. She was starting to think she might never see her daughter in a wedding dress, so it's got pride of place above the telly. Lucy doesn't like it though.

- W: Why not?
- M: She says you can see all her wrinkles. She's a bit sensitive about her age.
- W: Oh dear. So, anyway, do you think there'll be a photo of you above your mum's telly one day? Little brother in a wedding suit?
- M: Don't you start!
- 7 You hear an elderly woman talking to a man about her new neighbours.

M = Man W = Woman

- M: So how are the new neighbours?
- P: Well, I must say I'm quite pleased so lar. It's early days, of course – they've only been there for a couple of weeks. But they do seem better than the last ones, All those weekend parties. Such an unpleasant family.
- M: Have you invited them round yet?
- F: Well, no, I haven't had a chance. You see, they've asked me to go to their house on two occasions already and one of those was for lunch.
- M: That's very sociable of them.
- F: Yes, it is, isn't it? As I say, I'm rather pleased. They've even offered to come and cut my grass for me.
- 8 You hear a man talking on the radio about a musician who influenced him

People are surprised when I mention him as an influence. He played Blues Rock and my music's always in the New Age section. I suppose if he'd moved into Progressive Rock, there might have been some similarity. But he hated all that stuff, and probably would have hated what I do, too. And OK. I have the same kind of knee length bair, but his was a fashion statement - mine's there because I can't be bothered to get it cut. No, it's the atmosphere he created on stage that I'm referring to - moody, some people call it. Soulful. No moving around - just let the guitar do the talking.

Unit 7 👀 1.45

Part 2: Sentence completion

Right, well, the layout of most major supermarkets is roughly the same, and for more or less the same reasons. You'll notice that the entrance, for example, is usually situated to one side of the building. This is to ensure, of course, that shoppers walk down as many aisles as possible before they leave the store. If we had it in the middle, then they might visit only one half of the supermarket and as a result only buy half as much. The first thing you often see as you come through the entrance is the fruit and vegetable area. As well as being pleasant to the eye, this also gives customers the impression they're coming into an outdoor market. Fresh, colourful products are far more attractive than tins of convenience food so the customer is put in a good buying mood, from the start.

And next to the fruit and vegetable area is the confectionery; er, crisps, chocolates, sweets and so on. Parents often come shopping with their children and we need to ensure that they are kept happy and interested so that they don't disturb mum and dad from the business of spending money. Then at the back of the supermarket in the corner, you'll probably find the fresh meat counter. This is partly to make sure that as little room as possible is taken away from the main display areas by the staff who are serving. But it's also there so as not to distract customers when we have deliveries. They really don't want to see us bringing big carcasses of meat through the store, so, er, it's brought in through the back door. And very close to the fresh meat you can expect to see the pre-packed meat. People who are put off by the sight of blood and um - dead animals - prefer to buy their meat in the form of convenience food to prevent them having to make the connection between the product and the animal. They buy a lamb chop, but they don't think of a baby lamb in the field. The freezer goods are nearby. There's a limited amount of space so the smaller suppliers often find it difficult to get room for their products. That's why you only tend to see the well-known brands

Er, moving on to the areas at the ends of the aisles - how do we decide what to put there? Well, these are key selling sites, and sales of goods at these points can be as much as five times higher than other areas. So we generally move goods to the end-of-aisle areas when we want to sell them quickly: goods which have not been selling well, and especially those which are nearing their sell-by date. Bread, too, needs to be sold quickly, but we put the bakery section in the far corner, as far away from the entrance as possible, next to other basic foodstuffs such as milk. This is so that customers have to walk past hundreds of products to reach it. Er, it's expensive to run a bakery but it increases sales of other products. The smell, too, is an important factor as it helps to create a warm, homely atmosphere in the store.

warm, homely atmosphere in the store. And finally, alcoholic drinks. They're often at the far end too, very near the exit. Er, by this time the shopper is beginning to enjoy the shopping experience, so he or she will buy more alcohol if it's here than if it's by the entrance. Er, the same is true for those products we put at the checkouts; er, more sweets and chocolates, usually. The kind of things people buy on impulse as they wait to pay – er, a reward they give themselves for doing the shopping.

Unit 7 1.46

Part 4: Multiple choice

I = Interviewer R= Rebecca G = Greg

- I: Rebecca, you've been living in a village for nearly five years now. What made you move to the countryside?
- R: I suppose my priorities had changed with age. When I first went to London, I used to love the hustle and bustle of the place. But then I gradually became more aware of the planes roaring overhead, car horns beeping all the time, music blaring out at strange hours. I needed a break.
- I: Greg, I can see you're smiling.
- G: Yes. I remember when I first moved out with my family, we all found it a little too quiet. But we quickly got used to it, and now we prefer living with less noise. We also like the fact that you don't have to worry about the kids so much if they go off on their own.
- R: Hmm, I'm not so sure. Some people drive like maniacs on these narrow roads. I have to keep a really close eye on my two young kids and make sure they don't wander off too far.
- G: Well, we're lucky enough to have very good neighbours in the village. Everyone looks out for everyone else, and someone will soon tell you if your kids are in danger, or doing something they shouldn't be doing.
- R: Yes, you can't do anything in a village without your neighbours knowing about it. But that's good, though. It's like having a big extended family.
- I: What about the amenities where you live?
- G: The basics are within walking distance from us; the school, the shops, even a couple of tennis courts.
- R: I can't say the same, unfortunately. Being able to pop out to the shops when you need something is one of the things I miss about living in the city. We have to get the car out just to go and buy a loaf of bread. And you really do need to be able to drive to live where we do. Everyone in the village relies on their car; the bus service is just too infrequent.
- G: It's better than not having one at all. We're actually trying to get the local authorities to put on at least one bus a day, particularly for the older residents who don't have a car and who sometimes need to go into town.
- R: Yes, and I'm actually wondering how my two are going to find it when they become teenagers. They'll want to go into town, too. They'll probably complain of boredom and want us to go and live in the city again.
- G: And who can blame them? I know at that age I would have been bored out of my mind! No cinemas, no decent - shops, no cafés to sit in, no discos to go to ...

- I: Do you think either of you will ever go and live in the city again?
- G: Naturally, I'd prefer to stay in the village and work at home rather than do a nine-to-five job in an office. I have my computer, email and the phone and a wonderful working environment. However, anything can happen and we'd be prepared to move back to London if we felt it was to our advantage.
- I: Rebecca, how about you?
- R: I'll be going back to work just as soon as my youngest child starts school. September of next year, in fact. Obviously I've thought about it a lot, and the fact that living where I do now will mean spending two hours driving to and from work every day. But I'd rather do that than go back to living in the city.
- I: Well, thank you for both coming all that way to speak to us today. We'll have a break for music now and then

Unit 8 1.47-1.54

Part 1: Multiple choice

- You overhear this man talking about the hotel where he is staying.
 - We really didn't expect this. We thought it'd be the typical economy type hotel. You know, nothing special, just a bed, a wardrobe and a shower in the room if you're lucky. Well, we were absolutely amazed by the en suite bathroom, I can tell you. It's twice the size of ours at home. And as for the view from the balcony, it's unbelievable. We really can't complain.
- Listen to this woman talking about a job she has applied for.
 - ... and I think that although my experience running a restaurant may not seem very relevant, it's still a people-orientated job. I am definitely a people person. I like dealing with the public. So whether it's listening to customers and giving them advice on the best places to go, or talking on the phone to tour operators and trying to get the best deal. I think I'd be well suited to the job. I have good people skills and I think that's an important strength.
- You hear a woman talking to a tour guide.

T = Tour guide W = Woman

- T: Are you sure you had it when you left the hotel?
- W:Positive. I didn't want to bring it but my husband made me put it in my bag. He said you should never leave your money or your passport in your room. And then when we were having a drink and I went to pay, it had gone. Someone must have pulled it out of my bag when I wasn't looking. It had my credit cards in it and everything.

- T: It's a good job your passport wasn't in it, too. We'll have to report it straight away.
- 4. You overhear a man talking about a place he tried to visit on holiday. We went there because we wanted to see the stained glass windows. They say they're among the finest in Europe and the colours are supposed to be incredible when the sun shines through them. Unfortunately, we couldn't go in because we weren't properly dressed they won't let you in if you're wearing short trousers. And the next morning when we went back it was Easter Sunday. So of course, we couldn't get to the part where the windows are because there was a special service.
- Listen to this conversation between a man and a teerrage boy.

M = Man B = Roy

- M: Yes, your skin is quite badly burnt. How long were you out in the sun for?
- B: About an hour, maybe. It was after lunch and I fell asleep on the beach.
- M: Do you have any other symptoms dizziness, a temperature?
- B: No, it just really hurts.
- M: Well, it doesn't sound like sunstroke. This cream should take away the sting, but if you start to feel sick or dizzy, get yourself to a doctor straight away.
- B: Thanks. How much do I owe you?
- M: I'll just check. One second,
- 6 You hear a local resident talking about tourists in her town.

I shouldn't complain really. I mean, the whole exponency of this town is based on tourism and if they stopped coming, then a lot of people would be out of work and on the dole. But I do wish they'd show a little more respect. There are a lot of them who have music blaring out of their cars during the day, and then at night you get big groups coming into the centre for the pubs and clubs. And they don't seem to care that we can't sleep with them making such a racket. Most of them drunk, I shouldn't wonder.

You hear this boy talking to his mother.

R = Boy M = Mother

- B: Where are we going?
- M: Well, we picked up a leatlet for a nature park just outside the town, They've got all sorts of wild animals; and you can drive through and see there in their natural habitat. It looks very good.
- B: But you said we were going to the Aqua Park.
- M: We can't go in this weather. And besides, your father and I want to do something different.
- B: But that's not fair. You can't just change you: mind like that.

- M: Don't be selfish, Steven. It's our turn today.
- You hear a man talking about a beach he recently visited.

Now, normally I prefer a beach with line sand, you know, so it's not painful to walk on. This one, though, had small stones—well, more like pebbles, actually—and I don't remember the brochure saying anything about that. But anyway, we bought ourselves a pair of flip flops each at one of the shops next to the heach, so that didn't matter too much. And then we spent most of our time there lying about in the water. It was just like being in a warm bath. I could have stayed there all day.

Unit 8 🕦 1.55-1.59

Part 3: Multiple matching

Speaker 1

There's a cycle path that goes right round the city, and various shorter ones within it. Now these paths are up on the payement rather than in the road, so it's pedestrians, not motorists, that have to be careful they don't wander onto them. People have got used to the circular path and they generally keep off it when they're walking along. But it's the ones in the city centre that cause most problems, and it's here the authorities could do more to inform pedestrians, to make them aware of how it works. Every day I cycle to work and every day I get shouted at by people who still fraven't caught on that it's me that has right of way, not them.

Speaker 2

Mine's a folding bike, so I get off the train, put on my helmet and head for the office. I could take the bus or the underground, but there's no pleasure in that—they both get so crowded. On the bike I feel the wind in my face and a sense that the city's mine – I can go where I want, when I want. I can even get up on the pavement and jump traffic lights or go the wrong way down one way streets. And of course, cycling is just so healthy – I've never felt fifter. Some say it's risky too, but I find motorists tend to go more carefully when cyclists are around.

Speaker 3

A year or two ago, someone in the town hall came up with a rice idea to promote cycling in the city. On the first Sunday in every month, a number of the main streets in the centre are closed to traffic for two hours and given over to bicycles. It's gradually grown in popularity, and there's a real festival atmosphere now, with thousands of cyclists of all ages turning out every month. It's a start, and it's certainly helped to get people out on their hikes. But there's still a long way to go. We need a whole series of additional measures to make our roads more cycle friendly.

Speaker 4

Sometimes you come across some really nasty drivers in the city. I can be cycling along, minding my own business, when some car or van comes right up close to me, almost touching my back wheel. It's really dangerous - sometimes I lose my balance and nearly fall off. It seems to be worse in the evening. Eve got my bike lights, my luminous cycling jacket, my reflective cycle clips so they can see me all right. But they seem to resent the fact that I'm there. They think they own the mad and they get impatient if they have to slow down for me. I get beeped and shouled at all the time - it's very umpleasant,

Speaker 5

Cycling here is more a recreational activity than a means of transport. People don't generally use a bike to get about the city. There isn't that culture. They'll maybe rent one in one of the hig central parks, or go on the cycle path that runs alongside the river. But they won't use a bike to get from A to B or to go to and from work. It's not an attractive option, really, given the quality of the air here. We're in the middle of a juge industrial area, and many pedestrians wear face masks. So people are hardly likely to expose themselves to more danger by cycling in amongst the traffic.

Unit 9 (1.60

Part 4: Multiple choice

A = Alan Stanford I = Interviewer

- 1: In the Talkabout studio today we have a ghost walk guide. Local man Alan Stanford takes groups of people round the town on guided tours, telling ghost stories about the historic buildings which are said to be haunted. Sounds like an interesting job, Alan.
- A: O'i, it is, it's fascinating. I've been a tour guide before but mostly abroad and never here in my own home town. I wouldn't call myself an expert, but I've learnt quite a lot about our local history since I started doing this a couple of years ago. Plus, of course. I get to dress up and tell lots of ghost stories. Acting and storytelling have always been in my blood, so I'm really just doing what comes naturally to me. I have a great time.
- I: And how about those who actually go on the tours? Do they get frightened?
- A: Well, obviously these are ghost walks, so it wouldn't be much fun if there wasn't a hit of fear involved. Not too much, of course—we often have children in the groups, so we have to be careful. But people expect to be scared, and they'd be disappointed if they weren't, so we aim at least to give them goose bumps, and perhaps even a little fright—after which they all laugh nervously and enjoy the release of tension.

- I: And how do you achieve that, giving them a fright?
- A: Well, the mark of a good storyteller is the ability to hold an audience's attention, and that's not too hard to do when the subject is ghosts. You take the listeners into your confidence, create the right mood, make them feel safe with you. Then, just at the right moment, when they're least expecting it, you change the tone, give a shout or let out a scream. And they nearly jump out of their skin!
- I: Right, yes. And does it work every time?
- A: Well, it does with most audiences, people who've been thinking about the ghost walk all day, maybe all week, wondering what's going to happen. These people usually respond extremely well. Some of the groups we get, though, come along as part of a surprise event. People like these haven't had time to reflect on what they're coming to, they haven't been given the chance to look forward to it, and the effect isn't the same. They don't normally have such a good time, unfortunately.
- I: You mentioned dressing up before. Do you do the ghost walks in character?
- A: Yes, I do. And I have different costumes for different characters - there's Lord Warwick, a wealthy noble, the old sea dog Jake Redburn, John Simpkins, who's a servant ... none of them real, of course - they're all fictitious. The choice of character I play often depends on the route we take and the stories to be told, or also perhaps how I'm feeling that night and the type of audience I'm expecting. As with all acting, it adds a sense of truth to the whole thing, makes it more credible. So the audience becomes engaged in the tour and responds in a more positive, sometimes more frightened way.
- I: One question, I have to ask you, Alan. Do you believe in ghosts?
- A: Regrettably, I have to say that I haven't seen any on the walks, or had any other paranormal experiences to impress you with. Some people in my audiences say they have, and so have some of my friends, and I wouldn't dare dispute that or suggest they're imagining things. Ghosts are real for those people who say they've seen them, and who am I to suggest they haven't? The most I can say is that I have no personal evidence they exist.
- I: And of the stories that you tell on your ghost walks, do you have a favourite?
- A: Well, I particularly like stories which involve smells that some buildings are said to give off when ghosts are around. I don't want to give away too much here on the programme, but the one I enjoy telling most of all is about an old woman called Sally Hardcastle, who haunts the town hall. When she appears every now and again, the place absolutely stinks. Now at first, some people thought it was a problem with the rubbish, but if you want to find out the real reason, you'll have to come along on the ghost walk.

I: Oh! We're curious now, Alan, And, if you are interested in going on a ghost walk with Alan ...

Unit 9 (1.61

Part 2: Sentence completion

Hi, I'm Sally Hurst and I've just got back from Arizona, where I spent two weeks in the Superstition Mountain Range, near Phoenix. It's an area known to many people for its luxury golf courses, and those who can afford it go there to play golf in a desert setting. But it also attracts enthusiasts of more energetic outdoor activities like rock climbing or mountain biking. And I was lucky enough to go hiking when I was there. There are miles of paths and the scenery is absolutely spectacular.

'It's a bit hot there, though, isn't it?', some of my friends have asked. Well, it depends when you go. It's early spring now, of course, and that's fine, Winter and autumn are also OK, but I certainly wouldn't advise going there in summer—whatever the reason for your visit. Temperatures can reach up to 45 degrees or more—and that's far too hot for me.

The main reason I went there was to research some of the legends and mysteries of the area for a forthcoming radio documentary. The very origin of the name, Superstition Mountains is itself a bit of a mystery. One theory says they were given their name by sixteenth-century Spanish settlers, some of whom inexplicably vanished when they went exploring there. But the more likely explanation is that it came about in the nineteenth century, when it was discovered that the local Pima Indians were frightened of the mountains. Farmers in the area attributed this fear to superstition, and they decided to give that name first to one mountain, and then the whole range.

Perhaps the most talked-about mystery in the area is that of the so-called Lost Dutchman's Mine, which is supposedly somewhere in the Superstition Mountains. Far from being Dutch, the owner of the gold mine in question, Jacob Waltz, was actually German, or Deutsch in his native language. Waltz arrived in the United States in November 1839, and spent virtually all his life there prospecting for gold, firstly in North Carolina, then Georgia, California and finally Arizona. When he passed away in October 1891 he took the secret of his mine with him to his grave. You see, apparently Waltz had found what was believed by some to be the richest gold mine in the world. But he didn't tell anyone where it was, and it's a mystery which remains unsolved to this day. According to one estimate in 1977, up to eight thousand people a year tried to locate the mine. And even today, despite the ban on mineral prospecting in 1983, many people still head for the region to see if they can find it.

Waltz left a few clues, but they weren't particularly helpful. In one of them, for example, he says, 'The rays of the setting sun shine into the entrance of my mine', but that could be just about anywhere.

I did a lot of my research for the documentary in a museum: The Superstition Mountain Museum. It's hill of information on the Lost Dutchman's Mine, including a whole collection of maps which are thought to show its location – not that that's been of any use to anyone! So far, anyway.

And I saw another exhibit on the mine in a museum in nearby Goldfield. Now Goldfield was a prosperous mining town at the end of the mineteenth century, but when the gold ran out, everyone left and now it's a ghost town. It's become a popular tourist attraction as well, of course, with museums, rides and shows, but it's still quite impressive, nevertheless.

Now you may have seen a film that was made in 1949 about the Lost Dutchman's Mine entitled Lust for Gold, starring Glenn Ford in the role of Jacob Waltz. But here's another piece of trivia for you in 1960, actor Walter Brennan recorded a song on the subject called Dutchman's Gold. Now I bet you didn't know that, did you?

Well you do now, and we're going to play it to you right after the news. To be honest, Walter Brennan talks his way through it rather than ...

Part 1: Multiple choice

 You hear part of a sports commentary on the radio. These two sides are very well matched. You'll remember they both met in the semi-finals last year, when the game ended in a draw. This year wa've had some heavy showers in the last few days and one or two of the players are finding the playing conditions on the pitch more than a little difficult. But it's a throw-in now. Briggs takes it and passes to Duckham, Duckham tries a shot,... and it goes just wide of the post.

- 2 You hear a man talking on his mobile phone.
 - I thought at first it was some kind of virus, but now I'm wondering if it might be something more serious ... No, it's annoying. I simply cau't do any work on it at the moment ... Yes, I phoned them, but they said they'd need to have it for three days before they could give me an answer ... Well, I was wondering if you wouldn't mind having a look at it for me ... Could you come round after work? ... No, that's great; the sooner the better as far as I'm concerned, as long as your boss doesn't mind.
- Listen to this man and woman speaking.

M = Man W = Woman

- M: Lots of room for the legs, that's nice.
- W: Mm, and so comfortable. It's like my favourite armchair. I could go to sleep here and now.
- M: Yes, we should've had a coffee after the meal to keep us awake.
- W: We'd never have got a ticket to see this if we had.
- M: That's true. The queue was enormous.
- W: Anyway, wake me up when it storts, won't you.
- 4 You hear this woman telling her friend about a restaurant.
 - You can't fault the food, really. Even my husband was impressed and he's always the first to complain if it's not cooked properly. No, I just felt a little uncomfortable; silver cutlery, antique furniture and everyone dressed as if it was a wedding, including the waiters. And the way they spoke to us! It was 'Sir' and 'Madam' every sentence, I suppose I'm just not used to it, that's all
- 5 You hear this man talking to his friend on the phone about a day trip to London.
 - The play finishes at about 11... Well, I had at first thought of coming back on the train straight afterwards, but the last one's at 11.05, so I probably wouldn't make it ... Are you sure you don't mind? ... I could always stay in a hotel. There are plenty of cheap ones in that part of town ... OK. well, if you're going to put me up for the night, then you'll have to let me take you out for a meal ... No. I insist.
- 6 You hear a woman talking to her husband in a supermarket.

W = Woman M = Man

- Wr Just look at that, it's incredible,
- M: What do you mean?
- W: Well, there must be about twenty different types of butter in this section. Low-fat, high-fat, Irish, Dutch, Aust; alian – you name it, they've got it.
- M: Confusing, isn't it?
- W: That's not the point. I'm sure a lot of people will be disappointed there aren't twenty types of carrots and sixty different varieties of cheese. I just don't see why we need them all. And when you think of the transport costs and the fuel needed to import all this stuff and the effect this has on the environment. Oh! It makes my blood boil.
- 7 You hear this man talking.
 - We all know juvenile crime's on the increase. The police do all they can with very limited resources and then it's up to people like ourselves to sort the problem out. In this school alone we have more than twenty youngsters with a criminal record and we get virtually no support from the parents. Social services come in occasionally to give us advice on how to deal with them, but once they've gone and we close the classroom door, we're very much on our own.
- 8 You overhear a man talking to a woman about a flat which is for rent;

W = Woman M = Man

- W: Did you go and see that flat you were interested in?
- M: Yeah, I did. It's not for me, though,
- W: Why's that? Too expensive for you?
- M: Well, no, I could afford it all right. It's on the edge of town near the industrial estate, and rents out there aren't as high as in the centre.
- W: Hum, that's too far out for me. I like it where I am, near the shopping
- M: Well, it's not as if there aren't any shops out there there are plenty of amenities. It's just that I need space for all my computer equipment, and the lounge and the bedroom are smaller than where I'm living at the moment.

Part 2: Sentence completion

Argentina is a country known internationally for the tango, gaucho cowboys and premium quality beef. To many people, therefore, it comes as some surprise to discover that in certain parts of Patagonia, in the south of the country, one of the 'musts' for any tourist is a visit to a Welsh tea house, a place where you can sip tea and enjoy delicious cakes, baked according to traditional Welsh recipes. Perhaps even more surprising, though, is the fact that some of the locals can actually be heard speaking in Welsh. Exactly how many native Welsh speakers there are in the region is not known, but most estimates put the figure at several hundred, a relatively high number, given that there are just under 600 000 speakers of the language in Wales itself.

But how did these Welsh speakers come to be there? The first wave of settlers arrived from Wales in 1865. Unhappy with conditions at home, they were looking for an isolated area to set up a colony, a place where their language and identity would be preserved intact and not assimilated into the dominant culture, as had already happened in the United States. The 153 colonists who landed on the east coast of Argentina included carpenters, tailors and miners, but no real doctors and just one or two farmers. This was rather worrying, since the Chubut valley where they settled was virtually a desert, and what was needed most of all were agricultural skills.

Against all the odds, though, they survived, overcoming droughts, floods and a succession of crop failures. They were also quick to establish friendly relations with the local Indians, who helped the Welsh through the hard times and taught them some of their ways, how to ride and how to hunt. Twenty years after their arrival, some of the settlers moved up into a green fertile region of the Andes mountains, an area which they named Cwm Hytryd, meaning beautiful valley'. Indeed, quite a number of places in Patagonia still bear Welsh names: Bryn Gwyn which means 'white hill', Trevelin, meaning 'militown' and Trelew or 'Lewistown', named after Lewis Jones, one of the

The Welsh have left their mark in other ways, too. Their windmills and chapels can be found throughout the region and there are a number of cultural activities, such as poetry readings, male voice choirs and the annual Welsh song and dance festival, a smaller version of the International Eisteddfod held in Wales each year. All of this helps to keep the language and traditions alive in a small corner of the world, 8000 mikes from the homeland. And so too does the fact that every year, as part of a programme administered by the National Assembly for Wales, groups of teachers come to Patagonia to teach the language to the growing number of people who are interested in learning it.

And then, of course, there are the Welsh teas. For my afternoon treat, I visit Nain Ceri, reputed to be one of the best tea houses in Gaiman, where the streets and houses are adorned with Welsh flags, a reminder to visitors that they are in the self-proclaimed Patagonian-Welsh capital of Chubur. Inside, Nain Ceri is decorated with prints and paintings of Wales and the music playing is that of a traditional all-male choir. I sit next to the fireplace and my mouth begins to water as I look at the various cakes on offer. I am about to order the cream-topped apple pie to accompany my tea, when I catch sight of an irresistible-looking chocolate cake and choose that instead. I am not disappointed – it is absolutely delicious, Afterwards, I chat at length to the owner, Ceri Morgan - in Spanish, as she speaks no English and I speak no Welsh. She tells me a little more about the history of ...

I've been writing for as long as I can remember, and it's something I want to continue to do for a living when I've finished university. I say 'continue' because I've already had one collection of short stories published and I've just started another. I'm doing a maths degree, which has little to do with writing, but I believe in keeping my options open, just in case my creativity runs out.

It's the only way to learn, as there are no official courses and no specific qualifications for tattoo artists. At least, not as far as I know.

I haven't made up my mind yet, but I'd quite like to go into teaching. Naturally I've had lots of advice from teachers at school about how to go about it and how hard I'll have to work for my exams. Part 4: Multiple choice

J = Jenny Parfitt P = Presenter

- P: Do you consider yourself to be tall. medium or short? At one metre eighty-four, I've always thought of myself as being a little on the tall side, particularly when I stand next to the people I work with here in the Round Britain studio. Rather curiously, most of them are below the national average height of one metre seventy-eight for men and one sixtytwo for women. But when I popped in vesterday to the annual conference of the TPC - that's the Tall Person's Club of Great Britain and Ireland - I felt decidedly small. I asked one of the organizers, Jenny Parfitt, to tell me about the conference.
- J: Well, this is the main event in the club's very busy social calendar. Throughout the year we put on a whole number of activities for members in their local area, like barbecues, theatre excursions, walks and so on. And this conference is the highlight of that year. It's a threeday event that gives tall people from all over the country the chance to meet in the comfort of a hotel, where they can chat, eat, dance and go sightseeing with others who are also above average height.
- P: But there's also a serious side to it as well, I gather.
- J: That's right, it's not all partying! We discuss a lot of important issues, too. One of the aims of the TPC is to promote the interests of tall people, to change current attitudes. We live in a heightist world, where tall people are discriminated against. Beds in hotels are usually too short for us, and we often have to sleep with our feet hanging off the end. Travelling by bus, train or plane is a major problem too - there's very little leg room and it can feel very cramped. The main difficulty, though, is finding shops that sell long enough trousers or big enough shoes. That can be a real headache.
- P: I imagine too that the attitudes of other people can be a problem.
- J: Yes, people do tend to stare at us when we walk into the room, treat us

- like circus freaks. And some actually laugh out loud, as if something funny has just happened. I think if I weren't so used to it now, I might take offence - I know many fellow TPC members do. But to be honest, I find it a little bit annoving. You get tired of it all, particularly when the fifteenth person in a day says something like 'What's the weather like up there?' And they think it's so funny.
- P: Yes, not very original, is it? Does the club offer help to tall people who come across attitudes like these?
- J: Yes, we regularly give advice to victims of insults and bullying at school or in the workplace. But perhaps the greatest benefit of the club is the opportunity to see that as a tall person you are not alone. When people come to their first meeting and walk into a room full of tall people, they start standing up straighter. They lose their shyness and very soon begin to feel less awkward, more comfortable about their height. It's a remarkable transformation.
- P: You've mentioned some of the negative aspects of being taller than average. But surely there must be some advantages, too?
- J: Oh yes, there are plenty of them. Er, for example, you can always see over everyone's head if you're watching something in a crowd or an audience, and if you're in a supermarket you can get things off the top shelf that most other people have a job to reach. And then also, you automatically become first choice for sports like basketball, volleyball or rowing. I've never been very good at volleyball, but I always got picked for the university team when I was a student.
- P: Now, one thing of course we've failed to mention, Jenny, is your height. How tall are you?
- J: One metre eighty-eight. And actually, I'm one of the smaller members at this conference. The tallest woman here is exactly two metres and the tallest man two metres thirty, that's an incredible seven foot six inches.
- P: Goodness me!
- J: Yes, impressive, isn't it? Incidentally, though, you don't need to be above a certain height to qualify as a member of the Tall Person's Club. Unlike some clubs in the USA, which can be difficult to join because of their restrictions, we are very inclusive over here. We believe that people know for themselves whether they are tall or not and it's up to them to decide if they should join.

Part 4: Multiple choice

I: Interviewer J: Justin Blakelock

- I: With us today is local crime writer, Justin Blakelock, Justin, perhaps I should begin by asking you why you decided to write crime fiction rather than any other genre?
- J: Whenever I'm asked that question, people think I'm going to say it's because I've always loved reading crime novels. Well, I have, but I'm actually much more of a science fiction fan than anything else, and that's the kind of thing I was writing when I first started out as an author. But then my editor—an ex-policewoman curiously enough saw elements of crime writing in my work and she gently pushed me in that direction.
- L: And was it her idea to set your novels here in Brighton?
- J: No, that was mine. Firstly, because I love the place so much and, despite the crime theme, I do try to show it in a positive light, But also, even though I'm writing liction, I want my stories to be as real and accurate as passible. And because I grew up in this area, because I know it so well, it makes sense for me to set them here. There are too many novels that ack credibility because they're set in real places which are not accurately described.
- b. You show two versions of Brighton in your books, don't you?
- It That's right. To the visitor, Brighton seems a very peaceful city. It has this gentle, calm exterior—the very solid scafront buildings and pleasant shopping streets. But like many other eities it has its darker, more criminal places—the rundown buildings and areas that the tourist rarely sees. And that's also true of many of the characters I create. At first, they seem to be very gentle, very pleasant people, but there's something darker, more criminal hiding below the surface.
- It And how about your protagonist, Detective Inspector George Trent? He's a little more straightforward, isn't be?
- It Yes, yes he is. He does have the occasional moment when he surprises everyone—if not, he'd be too dull. But essentially, what you see is what you get with George, He's very scruffy, slightly overweight, and completely disorganized. He doesn't worry about things like dressing up or combing his hair he thinks he's good enough as he is, he's very comfortable with the way he looks. And that's really what makes him such a likeable character, I think.

- I: Yes, he's not attractive, but he's very human, isn't he? Now, Justin, you have a very popular website. Can you tell us about that?
- J: Yes, sure. Well, the original idea behind the site was to get my name out there more and promote my books. But it gradually evolved into a blog – usually arricles aimed at crime writers who were just getting started. And then other established authors began reading and commenting on my posts, and now it's effectively become a forum, a kind of debating club.
- It Can you give us an example of the kind of advice you give?
- I: Well, I've just posted a list of things you should remember to include in a crime novel. So for example, make sure your detectives have enough paperwork to keep them busy. Real detectives have loads to do, so your fictional ones should be doing their fair share too. To be honest, it's the kind of thing writers ought to pick up themselves by watching what goes on in a police station. There's absolutely no substitute for that. But it's good to compare notes and for every ten pieces of advice I give, you can read twenty more in the comments from other writers who've done their own research. It's a support service, a secondary source.
- I: And a very useful one. Now Justin, your last book, Western Road, is currently being made into a film. You must be delighted.
- J: Yes, I am, More or less. The American producers wanted to move the action to Chicago, but I made it a condition that it had to be filmed in Brighton with British actors. Fonly wish I'd insisted on having more control over the script. It moves too last for my liking. But that's the film world for you – what can you do?
- Not much, I guess, Justin, thank you for coming in. Good luck with ...

I was supposed to check all the windows were closed before we left the house for my swimming class, but I was rushing to get ready and I forgot. When we were in the car, my dad asked me if I'd remembered to do it. I didn't want to be late, so I fied and said I had. That morning we were hurgled – lost all our TVs and computers. As soon as I heard what had happened, I owned up to my dad about lying – I felt so guilty, I had to tell him. Plus it was pretty obvious they'd got in through an open window – there was no sign of a forced cutry anywhere.

Speaker 2

When I was about five or six, I took a pair of scissors ont of a kitchen drawer and cut off a big chunk of my hair in front of my friends. I'm not sure why maybe I was just showing off, trying to make myself look big. I kept being asked the same question: 'Have you cut some of your hair oft?' My mum, my dad, the hairdresser ... And I kept saying 'no'. I said it so many times, I almost believed it in the end, I thought I'd got away with It, but my mum told me recently she'd always known what had happened.

Speaker 3

I once typed out a note to my teacher and forged my mum's signature, so I could get out of doing sport. I think I said I had a stomach ache or something. My mum found out and went mad, Like an idiot I'd created a file with the name 'sick note' on our main computer and she spotted it a week or so later. Why I didn't delete it, I have no idea—it was a stupid mistake. My mum was really upset. She said I'd used her to lie to my teacher, which was true, of course. I didn't have to do sport that day, though.

Speaker 4

My mum gave me a hundred pounds in cash to pay for a school trip to France. When I went to give the money to the French teacher. I couldn't find it anywhere. I knew my mum would be angry with me, so I made up something about being magged on the way to school. She phoned the head and they called the police. I'hey realized fairly quickly I was lying, because the second time I described what had happened I got confused and it came out all wrong – not all the details were the same. I've never been in trouble with so many people in one day.

Speaker 5

I remember when my neighbour came over a year or so ago. She knocked on my door and said she'd run out of flour and asked if she could borrow some. It was a Sunday afternoon and the shop on the corner was closed and she wanted to bake a sponge cake for her kids. Well, I did have some, and under normal circumstances, I'd have been more than happy to lend it to a neighbour in need. But she'd never done me any favours, and in fact, she'd been positively unfriendly to me on occasions. So I said I was sorry, but no I didn't have any flour, and if she hurried she might catch the shop down in the rown before it closed.

Unit 11 (2.22

Part 2: Sentence completion

Hello, my name's Michael Gallagher, and I've come to talk to you about one of my great passions, the weather. Now for the past forty years I've worked as a postman in an area which includes some of the more remote parts of County Donegal. And for more than twenty-five of those years I've been using traditional methods to make predictions about the weather.

Now, as a postman, I've had the privilege of meeting many people from the surrounding towns and villages, particularly farmers, who've taught me a great deal about how to interpret what goes on in the natural world – the behaviour of the animals, birds, insects and plants that are all around us. These people have had to struggle with the elements to make a living from the land, and over the centuries they've built up a vast store of knowledge and folklore to help them read the signs which are present in nature, signs which can help us predict the weather.

You can read more about these in my book, which is called Traditional Weather Signs, but I'll give you a few examples now of what's in it. Let's start with birds. Birds are very sensitive to changes in the weather, and we can learn a lot from them. For example, swallows flying low are a sign that rain is on its way, and so are crows if they're flying in groups. But swallows flying high tell us that the weather's going to get better.

Cats, too, can help us predict the weather, particularly if they're sitting by the fire. A cat washing its face there is a sure sign of wet weather. But if it's sitting with its back to the fire, then you know that frosty weather is coming. Farm animals are good indicators, too, Cows, horses, goats, sheep – you just have to watch the way they behave. Cows, for instance, they don't stay in the middle of a field if they sense a storm approaching, and neither do horses or donkeys. If you see them grazing with their backs to a hedge, you know the weather's going to turn bad.

Now some of you will know me from my longer-range forecasts, which are reported in the media from time to time. Last year, for example, I got it right when I said we were going to have a warm summer in Ireland. Now I knew that, because the sheep on the low ground started heading back to the hills in late spring to graze, and that's always an indication that the harsh winter and spring are over and good weather is on the way.

And then I predicted that cold snap we had two winters ago, and I got that from a combination of events. The sheep were hungry, so they started coming off the mountains at the beginning of December to look for food. Then there was the fact that grass started growing as late as October on the lowland, and also the way the sun was shining on the mountains – it was giving off an orange glow.

The sun, the moon, the stars – they've all been used to make predictions for centuries in rural Ireland. Many of us are familiar with the saying 'red sky at night, shepherd's delight', meaning that the weather will be fine tomorrow if the sky is red at the end of today. But there's a whole lot more that can be predicted from what's up there above us. And you can read more about that in my book.

Now I'm sure some of you would like to know what the weather's going to be like in the week ahead. Well, where I live we can expect some very heavy rain for the next three or four days. I noticed the frogs were coming out of the mud this morning and they weren't their usual bright green colour. They were much darker. Now that's a bad sign, As for this part of the world ...

Part 1: Multiple choice

- 1 You hear a man talking about a new fire station that has just been built. I really can't understand why they put it all the way out there. They maintained that if they'd built it in the heart of the city, there would have been problems getting out to fires in the rural areas. Too far and too much traffic, they said. But that's exactly why it would have made more sense to build it in the centre instead of on the edge. You know, it takes a fire engine nearly twenty minutes to get from that suburb to the other side of the city.
- 2 You hear a man talking about litter. If I was a member of the Council, I'd make sure something was done about the mess on the streets. It's an absolute disgrace. Local people need more help to keep them clean, and that help has to come from the authorities. There aren't enough litter bins, for one thing, so the pavements outside my premises are covered with paper, drink cans and cigarette butts. Before I open up in the morning I have to spend about ten minutes sweeping it all up. I wouldn't sell anything if I didn't.
- 3 You hear an environmentalist speaking on the radio about a recent project.

You have to remember that some species of plants were facing extinction in the area. People would come out to the countryside for a picnic, see all these beautiful flowers and pick them, without realizing the effect this was having. If we hadn't made this a conservation area and limited the number of people coming in, then we'd have no flowers at all, and people would be really upset. As it is, we can congratulate ourselves on the action we took and look forward to a brighter future for this patch of countryside.

4 You overhear this woman talking to her friend about her holiday.

M = Man W = Woman

- M: So what was it like?
- W: Marvellous. Just what we were looking for.
- M: And what was that?
- W: Well, if we'd gone to one of the other islands, we'd have had to put up with busy roads and crowded beaches.
- M: So weren't there many tourists where you went?
- W: Oh plenty. More than we expected really. But it didn't seem to matter, because with the vehicle restrictions

- there was almost a total lack of exhaust fumes, no congestion and very little noise. And because the island's so small, you could walk everywhere, anyway.
- 5 You hear a conversation between two people.

M = Man W = Woman

- M: I think we should all get together and decide what we're going to do. I can put up with it any more.
- W: Neither can we. The noise of that boy's music makes the whole house shake. My husband says it's just like being in an earthquake, only worse.
- M: Of course it's the parents' fault, but it's no good talking to them. They'n no better than he is.
- W: And his teachers can't control him, either. Apparently, he's as rude to them as he is to all of us.
- M: So, let's have a meeting of all the residents in the street and we'll decide how to deal with him.
- 6 You are listening to the radio when you hear the following being read. Violent storms swept across the south coast today, causing widespread damage to property. Torrential rain and gale-force winds lashed seaside towns and several people had to be evacuated from their flooded homes by rescue services. One man in Bognor narrowly escaped death as the car he was driving was crushed by a falling tree, which had been struck by lightning.
- 7 You overhear this conversation between a man and his neighbour.

W = Woman M = Man

- W: What's the problem, John?
- M: Well, we lost a lot of our plants last night.
- W: It wasn't our cat, was it?
- M: No, the wind. Pulled up all the roses, it did. Blew down a few bushes, too.
- W: I'm sorry to hear that.
- M: Oh, not to worry. I'd be grateful if you'd give me a hand to clear up the mess, though.
- W: I'd be pleased to.
- 8 You hear a man talking about a recent environmental disaster.

Something's got to be done. These massive petrol tankers should just not be allowed to sail so close to our shores. The oil slick has already killed thousands of birds and the beaches are a disaster area. Demonstrating is all very well, but it's not going to clean up the mess, is it? We can't leave it in the hands of the politicians so we've just got to get down to the coast and get our hands dirty with the rest of the volunteers. You coming?

Uried crash diets, such as one where you just eat cabbage soup, and another where you drink nothing but lemonade with some salt and pepper for about seven clays without any food. They worked temporarily, but after a while I and the weight back on. Then I was introduced to these diet pills and my weight went down to 65 kilos. But I wasn't earning a great deal of money and I simply couldn't afford to keep it up. That's when I decided to save my money and join a gym.

Speaker 2

Tused to eat a lot of junk food. It was quick, inexpensive and it satisfied my hunger immediately. The problem was, Late very little fresh food, and this had a serious effect on my health. I became overweight and suffered all sorts of illnesses. The doctor strongly advised me to rethink my attitude to food. If not, he said, the consequences could be very serious. Well, you can't ignore advice like that, can you? So I started to eat more healthily. And now if I get hungry between meals. I have a little cheese or some nuts, just to keep me going.

Speaker 3

I'm under no real pressure to lose weight, but I take care over what I car, simply because it makes me feel better. When I want to treat myself, I have a piece of cake or a few biscuits. I read a let about dieting, and most nutritionists seem to agree that as long as you cat sweet things after a meal, then there's no problem. So, for example, I only ever cat chocolates after limch or dinner. And never too many of course - just one or COOK!

But I do go to see a nunritionist, who helps me maintain a sensible, balanced diet: plenty of fresh fruit and vegetables, er, meat and fish. carboliydrates such as rice and pasta, several glasses of water a day - and no snacks between meals. She told me to give up cheese, but I ignored her. I enjoy good food and I don't want to deprive myself of the things I love.

Speaker 5

A large number of people follow dicts, but very few of them are happier as a result. We are constantly under attack from advertising and the media, who tell us that 'thin is beautiful'. I used to believe this and think that I wouldn't find a boyfriend unless I was really skinny, that I had to weigh under 60 kilos for boys to like me. But of course, now I realize there's more to it than that. Just being yourself is what counts and I don't pay much attention to what others taink or say.

I = Interviewer N = Naomi Price

- 1: On Health Matters today we have personal trainer Naomi Price, Naomi, what exactly does a personal trainer
- N: Well, in my case I by to improve people's quality of life and overall health, by helping them develop their fitness, strength and posture and working on their diet, as well. These are the general goals, but of course, each elient has their own specific, individual goals, so before we do anything, I carry out a needs analysis in order to establish exactly what it is a person wants to achieve. This includes asking them about their diet, their injury history and any medical complaints or conditions they have, such as high blood pressure. Then basically. I design exercise routines and give advice on nutrition in response to the information they give me.
- T: And what reasons do clients have for coming to see you?
- N: Oh, there's a wide range, I get a lot of clients, especially older ones, who simply want to lose a bit of weight or lower their cholesterol levels. I also have a large number of younger clients who've been injured while doing sport and want to get back to full fitness that's my area of expertise, it's what I specialize in, I also help one or two people train for marathons and triathlous, but mostly it's people who just want to improve their all-round titness and as a result, their general self confidence.
- I: And I imagine it's important to build up a good relationship with your clients.
- N: Yes, it is. I'm not one of those fitness instructors vou sometimes see in films shouting orders at people to do fifty press-ups or run ten times round the park. Certainly, clients have to be dedicated and prepared to work hard when they're with me, but I also want them to enjoy exercising as well. So it's important, I think, for a trainer to bring an element of fun into the sessions, and I always make sure my clients have a good laugh when they come to me.
- I: Now your workplace is your garage, isn't it, Naomi?
- N: Well, ves, what used to be my garage. I don't park my car there any more it's full of equipment. There's a rowing muchine, two treadmills, two exercise bikes and loads of weights and things. I've also got a massage table, but that's in my lounge, where it's warmer. And then with some people. I go to the park or a nearby wood to run or simply to add a bit of variety to the classes. Clients appreciate that - they've told me that

- other local trainers they've been with always hold their sessions inside.
- You haven't always been your own boss have you?
- Nr No, Lused to work in a gym. The good thing about that was I learnt a lot from watching the other gym instructors and their interaction with the clients both good and bad examples. Labo got experience of working with a lot of different clients, but the trouble was, I rarely had the chance to build up long lasting relationships with them. The client list was different every month someone would join the gym in April, say, and by June they'd be gone.
- 1: And is that why you left?
- N: It wasn't the only reason. I was getting fired of working on Saturdays, for one thing - I'd only had two or three Saturdays free in over a year. But it was the whole sales thing that I was least happy about, When they told me I had to persuade people to buy things with the gym's logo on it, that's when I made the decision to resign. Ljust didn't feel comfortable pushing T-shirts and baseball caps, as well as things like protein supplements people maybe didn't need. It's not my style.
- I: Are you pleased you became selfemployed?
- N: Oh, yes. I've got so much more freedom, and so far, touch wood, things are going really well. I thought I might have to put adverts in the local newspaper to get business but those clients I brought with me from the gym tell all their family and friends about me and those people tell all their friends ... and so it goes on. The power of word of mouth,
- Let's hope your success continues. Naomi. Thank you for coming in to the studio

Part 1: Interview

I = Interlocutor C = Christina P = Paolo

- Good morning. My name is Kate Benton and this is my colleague Paul Flint. And your names are?
- C: Christina.
- P: My name is Paolo.
- E. Can I have your marksheets, please? Thank you. Where are you from, Paolo?
- P: From a small town near Ravenna. In Italy.
- T: And you Christina?
- Ct. Fin From Corinth, in Greece, I have lived there all my life. I live there with my three sisters and my parents. I'm in my last year at school. My mother works in ...

- I: Thank you, Christina. First we'd like to know something about you. Paolo, what kind of sports are you interested in?
- P: Er, I play football, tennis, and I go swimming.
- I: How often do you play football?
- P: Once a week. Yeah, every Saturday. In a team.
- I: And you Christina, do you have any hobbies?
- C: Well, not really hobbies, but in my free time I like to go to the cinema, read, going out with my friends, er, things like that.
- I: What sort of films do you like to watch?
- C: Oh, I like action films, I like films where happen many things. I don't like romantic or historical films. They are very slow sometimes, they are not very interesting for me.
- I: Paolo, do you work or are you a student?
- P: I work in my uncle's computer business.
- 1: And how important is English for your work?
- P: Well, yes, it's very important. I have to read a lot of things about computers in English. Everything is ... well ... most things are written in English nowadays.
- I: Christina, what do you hope to do in the next few years?
- C: Well, I want to go to the university and study business studies first. Then, if it is possible, I'll work in a big company, as accountant or something like that. Maybe, in the future I can use my English and find a job in another country. That would be very exciting.
- What kind of job do you hope to be doing in ten years' time, Paolo.
- P: Well, ten years is a long time, so I'm not sure what will happen. First, I want to help my uncle expanding his business and then perhaps in the future, I could set up my own business.
- I: Thank you.

Part 2: Talking about photos

I = Interlocutor C = Christina P = Paolo

I: In this part of the test, I'm going to give each of you two photographs. I'd like you to talk about your photographs on your own for about a minute, and also to answer a question about your partner's photographs. Christina, it's your turn first, Here are your photographs. They show people on holiday in different places. I'd like you to

- compare the photographs and say why you think the people have chosen to go on holiday to these different places. All right?
- C: Yes, well, er, in the first picture I can see a small beach, a pretty beach, with several people and in the background a small town or village with mountains behind, and, er, in ... whereas in the other picture there are only four people, a family, and they are probably in a camping, a campsite. Er, what else ... yes, and er, in both pictures the people are having a relaxing time but are doing different things. In the first picture they are taking the sun or swimming in the sea, whereas in this one they are just ... well, sitting down. Er, what else ... yes, and, well ... people go to these types of places because they want to get out of the towns or the cities where they live. They want to, er, change their routine ... er, be in, er ... the open air. Yes. And, er, some people prefer to go to the beach, like in this picture, where they can be lazy all day. And other people prefer to be in the nature, in the, the countryside, where it's very quiet ... and peaceful, and they can do lots of things like maybe go walking or cycling, and the children can play and have lots of fun ... er .
- I: Thank you. Paolo, which of these places would you prefer to go to on holiday?
- P: Er, I would rather go camping. I don't like going to the beach on holiday. There are too many people.
- I: Thank you. Now, Paolo, here are your photographs. They show people doing exercise in different places. I'd like you to compare the photographs, and say what you think the people are enjoying about doing exercise in these different places. All right?
- P: OK, In the first picture I can see two men who are jogging, in a park or a forest maybe. Er, one man is middleaged and the other is younger. They must be enjoying themselves because they are both smiling, perhaps because of something one of them has just said. In the other picture it looks as if they are in a class doing some step exercises. The woman at the front is probably a teacher, in the yellow top. I can see a speaker on the wall, so they might be listening to some music while they are doing their exercise. What are they enjoying? Er ... in the first picture they are enjoying being together. Jogging is not good fun on your own - it is much better to do with a friend, having a chat. And they are outside all the time, and that's enjoyable. In the other picture, too, in the gym, they are probably enjoying being with other people, and they might make new friends there. They are probably enjoying having a teacher as well -- if the teacher is good, they can feel like - they are doing progress ... making progress.

- I: Thank you. Christina, which of these places would you prefer to do exercise in?
- C: Well, I think it is much better to be in a class with other people, like in this photo. Jogging is not very interesting for me, even if I do it with a friend. You run and that's it. But in this type of class you do many things – it is, er, it is more variety – yes, and you can meet new people and make new friends, like Paolo said. Definitely I would prefer to do exercise in a gym.
- I: Thank you.

Part 3: Collaborative task

I = Interlocutor C = Christina P = Paolo

- I: Now, I'd like you to talk about something together for about two minutes. I'd like you to imagine that the History Museum in your town would like to introduce some new features to attract more visitors. Here are some of the ideas which have been suggested and a question for you to discuss. First you have some time to look at the task. Now, talk to each other about what types of people these different ideas would appeal to.
- C: Which one shall we start with?
- P: Let's talk about the computer exhibition first. I think it would appeal to all different types of people, because computers are so important today. Young people especially would be interested to see what they were like twenty or thirty years ago, before they were born.
- C: Yes, and older people, like our parents or even our grandparents would be interested to remember what computers were like when they were younger. OK, let's move on to the medieval fair. I think it would also attract people of all ages, It could be good fun, don't you think?
- P: Yes, I do. Er ... visitors could take part in different activities and games and eat medieval food. And if the organizers dressed up in costumes, then that would make history very colourful and realistic. I think it would bring in lots of families with young children.
- C: Yes, I agree. Now, what do you think about the concerts? This would be ideal for people who work near the museum. They could come during their lunch break and have a relaxing moment.
- P: That's true, but I don't think many people would be able to go, especially if the museum is in this city – everyone is busy all day. But retired - people would probably appreciate it and have more time to enjoy it.

- C: Yes, I suppose you're right. It would be very pleasant for them. Now, let's move on to the theatrical representations. I think it depends if they are serious or funny, If they are serious and formal, then I think they'd probably be more suitable for adults, or people who go to the theatre a lot. But if they are funny, if they make people laugh, then I think nearly everyone would find them enjoyable, including the children. Do
- P: Yes, definitely, I think if the museum wants to attract more visitors, then they have to make sure that they appeal to as many different types of people as possible.
- C: Exactly, And I think this will be true for the dressing up in costumes. I think nearly everyone will like this, don't you?
- P: Well, I'm not so sure. Er ... it wouldn't appeal to me for example. I don't like dressing up or attracting attention to myself. Families with children would enjoy doing this and taking photos of each other, but I don't think couples or people on their own would be very interested.
- I: Thank you. Now you have about a minute to decide which two ideas would be most successful in attracting new visitors.
- C: Right, Well, I think Paolo made a good point earlier that the museum must appeal to as many different types of people as possible. And I think we both agreed that the medieval fair would attract people of all ages, so, Paolo, do you agree that that might be one of the best two choices?
- Pr Yes, I do. I think it is it doesn't matter if you are on your own, in a couple, with friends, in a family everyone would enjoy it and I am sure it would bring in many ... many visitors to the museum. I think this is also true for the computer exhibition, but you don't agree, I think.
- C: No, I'm sorry. I know you like computers, but I would be bored! People have enough of computers at work. As I said before, I think nearly everyone will like the dressing up not you, maybe, but if the museum wants to attract more visitors, it needs to have more fun activities, not more exhibitions.
- P: OK, so we don't agree on that. But, we did both agree before that if the theatrical representations were furny and not serious, then that would be very successful.
- C: Yes, that's true. I think that
- I: Thank you.

Part 4: Further discussion

I = Interlocutor C = Christina P = Paolo

- I: Christina, what do you think makes a good museum?
- C: Well ... in general I think the museums are a little boring. You only look at objects which are in ... er, how do you say? Er, like boxes? Er ... glass boxes, er, cupboards? Er, there is nothing to do. But, cr. I think if you could touch things in an exhibition, or do tun things like dressing up, that would make it more interesting ... more enjoyable experience.
- 1: Uh huh, Paolo?
- P: I think ideas like the medieval fair are good because they help you to have a better idea of life in the past. The last year I went to a museum where people in costumes explained how different things were used. Er. even they cooked with some old sancepans and things. Er ... perhaps they weren't real, but it doesn't matter. The important is that you can imagine how people lived before.
- I: How could the teaching of history in schools be improved?
- C: Well, er, I'm not really sure, er ... in school we sit and listen the teachers listen to the teachers, and write what they say. In Greece (here are so many ancient monuments that, er, perhaps we could visit them more and not just read and write about them all the time.
- I: What do you think, Paolo?
- P: Er, when I was in school we just listened to the teachers. I think history was the worst subject for many people. I think we need better teachers who are good at making a subject more interesting for pupils. I don't know. I think it depends on the teacher.
- I: What was the most important moment in the history of the twentieth century?
- C: Well, I haven't really thought about it before, but, er, perhaps it was ... yes ... I think it was when the first man landed on the Moon. I have seen pictures of this, and I think it must have been something quite incredible at that time. Now, travelling to space is quire normal, but that moment was very different. What do you think, Paolo?
- P: Well, I think the landing on the Moon was important, but travel in space would not be possible if we did not have computers. The invention of the computer, for mc, was the most important moment. It changed the way we live ...

- C: You only say that because you like computers!
- P: No, but everything we do needs computers nowadays. Er... industries, banks, companies, hospitals - everything depends on computers. Er, and if the computers break down, then people cannot do their jobs properly. We cannot survive without computers.
- C: Maybe, but I think there are more important things that happened in the last century. Things with people and not machines. For example, when people started to think more about the environment. The planet is in bad condition, and if organizations like Greenpeace didn't exist, then, er, it would be much worse, Don't you agree?
- P: Yes, you're right, but even organizations like Greenpeace need computers to do their work!
- I: Paolo, what items from our lives today will be in the history museums of the future?
- Pr Well, in addition to computers ... er, possibly, some domestic ap, ap, domestic applications? No, it doesn't matter ... er, domestic machines that we use for cooking or other jobs, things like the cooker, the vacuum cleaner or the iron. Many of these things will be replaced by robots which do not need people to operate
- C: Do you really think a robot could do all of our ironing for us?
- P: Sure. We already have robot vacuum cleaners to clean our floors, so why not robot irons?
- C: Well, I think one thing in the museums of the future will be the money. I think the credit cards and smartphones will be the only things we use. Already, some people never pay for things with cash. Er. ... in only a few years I think they will stop making the money.
- I: Thank you. That is the end of the test.

Unit 13 (1) 2.41

Part 4: Multiple choice

P = Presenter S = Sally Jefferson

- P: Ants, spiders, snakes and cats may not sound like ideal house companions, but as Sally Jefferson can confirm, an increasing number of animal lovers in the Radio Carston area have taken to keeping them as pets. Sally is the owner of Animal Crackers, a large pet shop in the centre of Carston, Sally, why the move away from cats and 0.025
- S: Well, primarily, I think the trend reflects changing lifestyles. Cats and dogs need a lot of looking after, whereas insects and spiders, for example, are very low-maintenance - they more or less take care of themselves. And that's perfect for busy working couples who are out of the home most of the day and can't afford to spend a great deal of time on the more traditional kinds of pets. And, er, and then of course, there's the so-called educational pet, ants in particular.

- P: Yes, I was surprised to hear that you sell a lot of them in your shop.
- S: That's right, leaf-cutter ants mostly. You can create your own colony in an ant farm that's a glass box like a big fish tank filled with clean sand or soil. You can watch them in their nest, digging tunnels and cutting leaves, all collaborating to achieve a common goal. It's a great lesson in the benefits of teamwork, especially for children. And for that reason a lot of parents come in and buy them.
- P: And do the kids like them?
- S: Yes, most do after all, ants are fascinating creatures to watch close up. But of course, they're not furry or cuddly, and children can't interact with them in the same way that they can with a cat or a dog. If you pick them up or try to play with them, they can give you quite a nasty bite. So inevitably some children start to grow tired of them, pay less attention to them.
- P: Right. And how about spiders? You were telling me before the programme that you sell tarantulas – can they be handled?
- S: It's not advisable, but in this case it's more because of the risk involved to the tarantula than to the owner. They do bite, of course, and as we've seen in films, sometimes with fatal results. But a bite from the species we sell is rather like being stung by a bee. No, the main problem is that they are fragile creatures and if they run around when they're on your hand or arm, there's a danger they'll fall off and hurt themselves very badly. So best not to get them out of their cage too often.
- P: No, indeed. Now let's move on to another type of pet that seems to be in fashion these days – snakes. Do they need a lot of care and attention?
- S: That really depends on the species you buy different species have different requirements. What's common to the corn snakes and ball pythons that we sell is that they can sometimes go for months without eating. So, if you're going on holiday you don't have to worry about finding someone to feed them while you're away. However, it's important to realize that many snakes have a lifespan of more than twenty years so you need to be aware that you are making a long-term commitment when you buy one.
- P: And what sort of things do they eat?
- S: Mice, mainly, and perhaps rats or even rabbits for some of the larger species. It's better to give them prekilled animals, which can be bought frozen at reasonably little cost from pet stores. Besides being more humane for the mice and rats and so on, it's also safer for the snakes. A rat can seriously wound a snake when it's acting in self-defence.

- P: Interesting that you mention rats, because of course, they too are kept as pets nowadays, aren't they?
- S: That's right. They make very good pets and they don't bite quite as readily as most people think. You need to bear in mind, though, that they like being with other rats, so they really need to be kept in pairs or even groups, and in a large cage, too. Technically, of course, they're nocturnal animals but they're very flexible creatures they will adapt to their owners' schedules and are happy to come out and play when people are around during the day.
- P: You don't feed them to the snakes, do you, Sally?
- S: No. don't worry, we never do that ...

Unit 13 (2.42

Part 2: Sentence completion

Dogs, cats, chimps, monkeys - even frogs and fish; they've all been up into space at some time in the last fifty years or more. The first living creature in space, of course, was Laika, the dog, who was launched aboard Sputnik 2 on 3 November 1957 by the Soviet Union, Laika, unfortunately, died just a few hours into the flight, and the first animals to actually survive a space mission were two monkeys called Able and Baker. That was in May 1959, when they were fired 300 miles into space from Cape Canaveral in Florida. The pair were weightless for nine minutes and monitored for their heart beat, muscular reaction, body temperature and breathing. They travelled at incredible speeds - up to ten thousand miles an hour - before coming down safely in the South Atlantic near Puerto Rico, 1500 miles away.

Not surprisingly, the use of animals for space research has been unpopular with animal welfare groups ever since it began. Back in 1957, for example, every day that Laika was in space, the National Canine Defence League in Britain asked all dog lovers to observe a one-minute silence. Space scientists have been accused of being cruel to animals and strongly criticized for carrying out their experiments on defenceless creatures. In the meantime, many of the animals themselves have become celebrities. Laika's space flight attracted a huge amount of attention from the world's press, and the dog's image appeared on stamps in a number of countries, including Romania, Poland and Albania. And in 2008, over fifty years after her historic flight, a monument was erected in honour of Laika in Moscow. It features a dog standing on the combination of a rocket and a human hand.

Another animal to achieve celebrity status was Ham, a three-year-old chimp who was sent into orbit in January 1961 to find out whether humans would be able to survive in space. Originally from Cameroon in Africa, Ham was bought by the United States Air Force and sent to New Mexico, where he was trained for the tasks he would carry out during his space flight. For unlike previous animal astronauts, Ham would be more than just a passive passenger. He was taught, for example, to pull a lever in response to a flashing light; if he did so within five seconds of seeing the light flash, he would receive a reward of food The purpose was to see how well tasks could be performed in space. During the mission. Ham was weightless for over six minutes. His capsule suffered a drop in oxygen levels but he was safe inside his space suit and sixteen minutes after launching from Cape Canaveral, he splashed down in the Atlantic with nothing more than a bruised nose. When the rescue helicopters eventually got to him, he was rewarded with an apple and half an orange. He had beaten the first man into space, the Russian Yuri Gagarin, by over two months. Afterwards, Ham retired to the US National Zoo in Washington DC, where he was well looked after and enjoyed a celebrity lifestyle. His picture appeared on the cover of Life magazine and he even received fan mail, some of which he replied to by sending admirers his fingerprint. In 1980, a very overweight Ham moved to North Carolina Zoo, where he died three years later.

Unit 14 (1) 2.43-2.47

Part 3: Multiple matching

Speaker 1

I never had time to go to the German classes my company arranged for us at work, so I used to put CDs on in the car on the way in every morning and just let the language wash over me. I was completely immersed in it for the whole journey. Then I'd play the same section on the way home and that was enough to ensure I learnt what I'd listened to in the morning. When I go to Germany on sales trips now I have very few problems understanding people. Business seems to be improving too.

Speaker 2

I went to Spain, twice, when I was studying languages at university; once on holiday and the next year to work in a bar. The holiday was a disaster in terms of language learning. I spent most of the time with my English friends and hardly learnt a thing. When I went back there to work, though, I spoke Spanish all day and my speaking and understanding really improved. That experience working abroad helped me pass my final exams just as much as studying, I'm convinced. Oh, and I'm getting married this year to my Spanish girlfriend.

Speaker 3

I spent three years teaching English in Poland with my boyfriend back in the late nineties. It took us both quite a long time to karn any Polish in the beginning, partly because of laziness, but mostly because we were working long hours teaching and speaking English all day. Things got better, though, once we eventually got to know a few Polish people and we had more chance to speak the language. We weren't quite confident enough to go and see tilms in Polish at the cinema, but we certainly felt more integrated.

Speaker 4

When I left university I desperately wanted to work abroad, but all three French-owned companies I applied to turned me down at the interview stage. I'd only ever learnt grammar when I studied French at school. I had no difficulty at all with that, but when I actually had to speak the language in the interview it was a real problem and I'm sure the interviewers couldn't understand a word of what I was saying. So I signed up for a two month general language course in Paris and thanks to that, when I came back, I got the first job I applied for.

Speaker 5

Here in Wales everyone can speak English, but it's compulsory for all students to learn Welsh up to the age of sixteen. My mum and dad both came to Wales from England, so I only ever spoke in English till Estarted school. But all my lessons there were in Welsh right from day one and I picked it up really quickly. So then I had the two languages - English with my parents and Welsh with my friends. I sometimes spoke Welsh at home, too, with my brother. It was great, 'cause we could talk about things in front of my mum and dad and they had no idea what we were saying - it was really useful sometimes!

Unit 14 (2.48-2.55

Part 1: Multiple choice

 You bear a man talking about the language school be owns.

We've benefited enormously from being so close to a number of large companies. We're right on their doorstep, so they can either have classes on their premises or else send their workers round to us - usually before or after office hours, but sometimes even during their lunch break. We don't exactly offer the cheapest courses in town, and there are other schools in the area whose teachers are more qualified, more experienced than ours. But we try to make up for that with youthful enthusiasm and, as I say, the key to our survival and growth has been the fact that we're so conveniently situated.

 You overhear a young woman talking to a friend about going abroad.

I = Man W = Woman

- M: Are you nervous about going to France?
- W: Excited mostly, but yeah, a bit nervous too I suppose.
- M: You don't speak much French, do you?
- W: No, but that's not the problem. I know enough to get by and it'll be fun trying it out on people in the shops and asking for directions and so on. It's more about not knowing how long it'll take me to get a job. It needs to be fairly soon, otherwise I'll run out of money.
- M: Ah, you'll be all right, if you can't survive, then I don't know who can.
- You hear a man giving part of a speech.

I'd like to say how flattered I feel to have been invited to open this magnificent sports centre. And I'm particularly proud of the fact that you voted unanimously for my name to be given to the centre. If I think back to all my sporting successes, the medals. I've won and records I've broken, none of them ever gave me as much pleasure as this moment today. As a child growing up in this area, I never dreamed I would one day be standing here....

4 You hear a woman talking to her friend about going rock climbing.

M = Man W = Woman

- M: Looking forward to going rock climbing, Sally?
- W: Well, to tell you the truth, I haven't made my mind up about it. Everyone tells me it's great fun, especially when you realize that you require safe, with all the ropes and everything. But what if you get stuck and can't go on? That's what worries me. I can't see I'm going to enjuy myself, clinging to a rock for survival, waiting for someone to come and pull me off. Still, I won't know if I don't try, will I?
- 5 You hear a man talking on the radio. What I like about it is that you're doing things that nobody else has done before, discovering things about yourself as well as the world you live in. I've been to places I never knew existed until I got there, and I've travelled enormous distances without seeing another living soul. It's not whether it's the highest, the hottest or the coldest that matters to me, but being the first person to set foot there ... and surviving to tell the tale.
- 6 You hear a woman talking to a friend about her husband's work situation. Of course, I wasn't happy about him losing his job. We had a few sleepless nights, I can tell you, what with the mortgage to pay and two hungry kids to feed. But no one was to blame for what happened, and thankfully, it all.

- worked out in the end. I'm just glad it's all over now, I don't know how we'd have managed to survive if he hadn't been taken on at the power station.
- 7 You overhear a man talking to his wife about a friend.

W = Woman M = Man

- W: Dave's been very successful, hasn't he? He's done well for himself.
- M: Yes, well, it's hardly surprising, is it?
- W: Why do you say that?
- M: Well, it was the same thing at school, Fortune always smiled on him – he seemed to pass exams effortlessly and now he's making money in the same way. He makes a few good decisions, invests in the right companies and bingo! Suddenly he's a millionaire. Still, it couldn't happen to a nicer guy. No one deserves if more than him.
- 8 Listen to this woman talking to her son on the phone.

Yes, well, we're very pleased you actually managed to phone us. At least you've succeeded in doing something right. You may have noticed, however, that it is now two o'clock in the morning ... Yes, but you said you would be home by twelve. If you aren't capable of keeping promises then you shouldn't make them ... No, we can't come and pick you up. You're old enough to be able to solve your own problems now.
